BRITISH ACCEPT U. S. PLAN FOR TARIFF TRUCE

Pact Leaves London a Loophole.

Debts and Tariff

President Roosevelt will send a message to congress this week asking blanket authority to make at least temporary foreign debts settlements; also authority to negotiate reciprocal tariff revisions. See page 4.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9. — Considerable light on the trend of the negotiations which President Roosevelt has undertaken with Great Britain was shed here today by Prime Minister MacDonald. In the course of a speech in the house of commons, the premier made statements on three subjects of interest to the United States. They were:

1. He announced that an agreement on the proposal of the United States for a tariff truce pending the outcome of the world economic conference had been reached between himself and Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large in Europe. The text of this agreement, in which Great Britain made important reservations, was cabled to Washington tonight for final approval of the American government. An answer is expected tomorrow.

Tries to Hush Up Debt Talk.

2. He declared that the world economic conference cannot be fully successful unless the war debt difficulties have been removed before it comes to an end. He said that on this "there is complete union of opinion." The premier asked parliament to hush up discussion of this question and not ask embarrassing questions concerning his negotiations with the United States.

3. He said that if the world disarmament conference was to come to anything like a satisfactory conclusion, the United States would have to take part in a consultative pact, "the effect of which would be to increase the security of European nations and the safety of threatened nations against war." The United States, he said, had so agreed and an announcement will soon be made in Washington to that effect.

Joker in Tariff Truce.

The Anglo-American tariff truce agreement in its present form provides simply that neither nation is to take any action commercially that might interfere with the success of the world economic conference, which will meet here on June 12. However, a "joker" is included providing that trade pacts which are now being negotiated by Great Britain are not to be affected. The agreement, it is understood, will become effective immediately upon its ratification by the United States.

Completion of the tariff truce removes one of the chief sources of irritation which had grown up between the United States and Britain during the last few days. In Washington the chiefs of the two nations had agreed on the desirability of a truce beginning April 29 so that neither nation in the time between that date and the opening of the economic conference could do anything to establish a preferred position.

U. S. Officials See Breach.

MacDonald thought he made it plain that various trade agreements which had been concluded between Britain and other countries, notably Denmark and Argentina, should be regarded as settled, but it seems that some officials at Washington regarded their final signature after his arrival in London from Washington as a breach of the agreement. That trouble now seems settled.

In that part of his speech in which he dealt with the war debts, MacDonald said:

"There is a complete union of opinion that the world economic conference cannot be fully successful unless the war debt difficulties have been removed before it comes to an end. The war debt settlement I am thinking of is a final settlement and that settlement, I am sure, is going to take little time—not a long time."

Appeals for "Discretion."

Then, referring to the $75,950,000 payment due the United States on June 15, the premier stressed the delicacy of the situation and appealed to the house not to make it more difficult.

He said the war debts concerned only a few nations, while more than 60 nations would attend the economic conference. Therefore, he said, it would be impossible for the debts to be discussed there.

"The debt negotiations," he said,

ASSEMBLY ACTS ON BILL; BLOW TO DELINQUENTS

Forces Protesters Pay 75 Per Cent.

Inquiry Ordered

Judge Jarecki begins investigation of receivership tax payments said to be due from Chicago Title and Trust company. Details on page 8.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Crossing the shoals provided by a stubborn if small minority, the tax protest bill drawn to prevent a recurrence of tax strikes in Chicago was passed by the house of representatives today by a vote of 109 to 14. Having received senate approval, the bill goes now to Gov. Horner, who is certain to sign it.

Because it reached third reading last week without a murmur of opposition it had been assumed that today's roll call on passage of the measure would be merely a ritual of name calling with unanimous victory in sight, but this proved a fallacious supposition.

Requires 75 Per Cent Payment.

Drawn by Corporation Counsel Sexton of Chicago under the fostering hands of Gov. Horner and Mayor Edward J. Kelly, the bill was termed an economy measure because it would force tax objectors to pay 75 per cent of their levy before filing a protest against the assessment. Hence protests would not be nearly as numerous in the future, it was assumed.

To the great surprise of the house, however, the first person to delay passage was Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], most consistent proponent of economy in the lower chamber of the legislature. Strangely enough, his rôle was that of an avocate of economy.

Mr. Burns demanded that the entire bill be read when it was called by Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago]. Bills of his economy plan are pending in the senate judiciary committee and because they have not been considered rapidly Burns said that he intended demanding that all senate bills be read in full in the house—an unusual procedure and one which takes considerable time.

6,500 Word Bill Read.

The request was not debatable nor subject to a tabling motion, so Clerk Charles P. Casey and his assistants took turns reading the 6,500 word measure while Adamowski fumed at Burns.

"This demand for a complete reading comes with poor grace from such a champion of economy," said the Chicagoan.

At last the reading was completed and then the real opposition to the bill began to show itself. Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign], former majority leader, declared that it would abrogate the constitutional right of the taxpayer to protest payment of his assessment.

"The whole policy is wrong and the bill should be defeated," said Little.

Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island] urged his downstate colleagues to force an amendment limiting the 75 per cent payment requirement to Cook county.

Downstaters Reject Advice.

Downstaters didn't choose to accept that advice, however. Schaefer O'Neill [Dem., Alton], John M. Peffers [Rep., Aurora], Joseph H. Davis [Dem., Murphysboro], and others replied and told the house that the "new racket" of objecting to Chicago taxes should be stopped and that this measure was the one sure way of accomplishing it.

"Downstate doesn't need this law and it will not be used," said Davis. "No downstater should object." declared Peffers. "It does not abrogate the taxpayers' right to protest, but it does enforce the constitutional obligation to support the government by paying taxes," added O'Neill.

More debate of like nature was had and finally the roll call began.

Those who voted against the bill, all Republicans, were Bratton, Browner, Foster, Ickes, Jenkins, Kalahar, King, Libonati, McCaskrin, L. H. O'Neill, Searle, Slater, and Swanson.

Rockefellers Oust and Pay Mural Painter

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Halted as he was at work tonight on his scaffold in the great hall of the seventy-story RCA building in Rockefeller center, Diego Rivera, Mexican mural painter, was informed that the fresco on which he was engaged was no longer acceptable to the Rockefeller family.

A crowd of about 100 art students and other admirers of the painter previously had been ushered from the hall by representatives of Todd, Robertson & Todd, the managing agents, on behalf of John D. Rockefeller Jr. Mounted and foot police were on duty outside the building to prevent any demonstration when Rivera was called away from his work.

Finds Check for $14,000.

Turning sadly with a few of his assistants and devoted friends to his "shack" on the mezzanine of the building Rivera found that his telephone had been cut off. He also found awaiting him a letter from Todd, Robertson & Todd, enclosing a check for $14,000, completing payment in full of the $21,000 he had been promised for three murals.

The letter expressed regret that Rivera had been unable to come to some compromise on the paintings and said the check was to be regarded as terminating his employment, although none of the three panels for which he had contracted had been finished.

With an air of resignation rather than bitterness Rivera described in his broken English his design for the mural which, covering a space 63 feet long and 17 feet high, was to have depicted "Human Intelligence in Control of the Forces of Nature." A sketch of it had been shown to the Rockefeller family and approved by them, Rivera said.

Lenin Portrait Opposed.

When the actual painting began objection was raised, he said, to a figure of Lenin joining the hands of a soldier, a worker, and a Negro, which was to have topped the painting. In the background were crowds of unemployed waving red flags.

Rivera said that he had been told that Mr. Rockefeller and his advisers did not find the mural as "highly imaginative" as they had expected it to be, and that its effect was unpleasant. They also objected to the brilliant colors of the flags in the background, he said.

Recalls Detroit Dispute.

Rivera's most recent controversy occurred in Detroit two months ago. Then it was charged that murals he had just completed on the walls of the Detroit Institute of Arts were blasphemous. His paintings were accepted, however, by Edsel Ford, their donor.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TOLD THAT SHE 'LOOKS JUST LIKE MRS. ROOSEVELT'

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in New York today after a week's motor trip about the state, told this one:

On the outskirts of Binghamton several days ago, driving her blue roadster, she stopped to buy some gasoline.

The attendant, as the purchase was completed, gazed at her for a moment and said:

"Did any one ever tell you that you look just like Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt?"

"O, lots of times," Mrs. Roosevelt replied.

And drove on.

Mrs. Roosevelt left Washington a week ago tomorrow and during her tour visited friends in Endicott, Syracuse, and Massena, spending the week-end as the guest of the warden at Clinton prison, Dannemora.

She drove from Dannemora to Hyde Park yesterday and into New York this morning. Miss Nancy Cook, her associate in the furniture factory at Hyde Park, accompanied her on the trip.

JAPAN TO GUARD 'SUICIDE VOLCANO' AS 55 END LIVES

TOKIO, May 9.—(AP)—Because 55 girls and young men have committed suicide since Feb. 11 at Mount Mihara, on Oshima island, fifty miles southwest of Tokio, the Oshima police today asked the home office for reinforcements.

The normal staff of 12 policemen has kept scores of other persons from taking their own lives but effective patrol of the huge volcano is impossible. The crater's sheer sides are more than 1,000 feet deep and the bottom is always hidden in flames and vapor. The bodies of those who jump to their death never are seen again.

The sensational death of a school girl on Feb. 11 brought Mihara into the limelight and it became the favorite suicide spot of the lovelorn and the life weary. Six youths jumped into the crater last Sunday.

The beautiful Kegon waterfalls near Nikoo used to be the favorite spot for persons desiring to die. They went there from all parts of the country.

Baby Finds Strychnine; Swallows It and Dies

Mildred Piersky, 18 months old, 318 South Karlov avenue, died last night of strychnine poisoning in the Garfield Park hospital. While her mother was in another part of the house the child found some strychnine tablets and swallowed them. Her father, Henry Piersky took the infant to the hospital where efforts to save her were unavailing.

Chicago Anne Finds a Bitter End to Crime

Since she was 14 years old Mrs. Annie Gleason [Chicago Anne], who is now past 60, has been a crook and an associate of crooks. She blew safes in Baltimore, stole pearls in London and lifted fur coats in Berlin. She served eighteen years in London's Old Bailey prison and more than a year in the Auburn penitentiary in New York.

Yesterday, taken into custody at 4114 Washington boulevard, as an associate of John J. Reedy, internationally known thief who committed suicide in a Clark street rooming house on May 4, she sat in the detective bureau and reviewed her career for Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker and Lieut. Edward Kelly. It was a brave story, told with pride, but when it ended Chicago Anne was left with a bitter memory.

A Good Provider.

"I married Mike Gleason out on the south side when I was only 14," she said pleasantly. "A pickpocket, but such a good one. He only worked in banks. A good provider, Mike was, and we made enough at the old World's Fair to go to Europe. In 1908 my man was caught in Germany and sent to prison for seven years. When he got out he came to join me in England, but they got him there in 1916 and he died in jail.

"As for me, I served three years in Old Bailey beginning in 1905. Later I went to the same place and stayed there from 1911 to 1925. A cruel place, Old Bailey, where they made me work in the laundry and ruin my hands in the hot water. Then I came back, served a little time in Auburn and returned to Chicago in 1927.

Decides to Go Straight.

"From then on I went straight. A few weeks ago John Reedy got in touch with me. We'd do just one big job, he promised, and then we'd quit. I was to be the front in a jewelry palming game. Well, we went to look over the place, Benjamin Allen & Company's shop at 10 South Wabash. But poor Reedy must have lost grip, because when we left the place he told me he didn't get a thing. Poor old fellow!"

"O, I guess he did get something," said Lieut. Kelly. "We found $2,500 worth of jewelry in his room after he shot himself, and it came from Allen's."

"The dirty double crosser!" exclaimed Chicago Anne.

Washes Clothes at 90; Woman Dies from Burns

BULLETIN.

The milk parley broke up at 4 o'clock this morning after 18 hours of continuous conference without any agreement on the new price of milk being reached. It was agreed, however, to send a joint committee of dealers and farmers immediately to Washington to confer with federal officials on what support the government would give to any price boost under the new farm relief bill.

As the conference came to its close the dealers agreed to pay the farmers $1.75 a hundred pounds for raw milk. This is 30 cents more than the farmers now receive. Adjustment of the retail price to meet this increase depends on the Washington trip.

A boost of 1 cent a quart in the retail price of milk appeared possible this morning as officers of the Pure Milk association and the major Chicago dairy companies sat with Dr. Clyde L. King, arbitrator, in an overtime conference at the Hotel La Salle.

The parley began at 10 a. m. yesterday and was still going strong at 3 this morning. At that hour it was understood that a tentative agreement had been reached, but that a few difficulties still remained. It was understood that the 17,800 dairy farmers represented by the Pure Milk association had won concessions in what they described as a fight for existence.

Farmers Ask 40 Cent Increase.

The farmers are now getting a top price of $1.45 a hundred pounds for their milk. They demand a 40 cent increase to the $1.85 level which was in effect prior to last Dec. 1, when the price of milk to the consumer was reduced from 11 to 9 cents a quart. The dealers, it was last reported, were somewhat sympathetic to the plea, but were hopeful of settling upon a smaller increase.

The new federal farm relief bill received hopeful attention from the negotiators. Under this legislation trade agreements could be established between farmers and dealers. Should such agreements be endangered by price cutting competition the federal government could step in and prosecute the cutters.

Fear Cut Rate Competition.

This protective measure was discussed in full by the milk dealers and farmers because of the dealers' admitted fear of independent competition with cut prices should milk prices be raised 1 cent a quart. In this connection it was reported that Murray Humphries, hoodlum, was mentioned. But for fear of independent competition the dealers, it was said, would have acquiesced without delay to the farmers' demands.

Humphries' connection with the milk situation, it was said, grows out of his campaign to organize independent dairy concerns as a means of gaining control of unions in the milk industry.

To the various arguments of the dealers the farmers gave one unswerving reply—that unless they received the increase they would go bankrupt. The demanded price increase would mean $4,000,000 more to them annually.

Pay Cut Plans Wane.

There was little talk of the dealers' recent demand on the unions of milk drivers and inside workers to accept weekly pay cuts of $5 and $6, respectively. It was understood that President Roosevelt's plea to keep wages up had almost ended the dealers' hopes in that direction.

COL. LINDBERGH TELLS KIDNAPING STORY AT TRIAL

Witness in Ransom Fraud Case.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took the stand here today in the district Supreme court and told for the first time, publicly in any court, about the kidnaping and killing of his infant son last year.

The crowd, which pushed its curious way into the room, was literally on tiptoe lest it miss a single detail of horror. Instead it heard businesslike replies to the routine questions which United States Attorney Leo A. Rover asked in his effort to tighten the government's case against Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker, on trial for conspiracy to defraud Mrs. Edward B. McLean of $35,000 in return for the promised recovery of the Lindbergh baby, at the time that baby lay dead in a ditch.

Story Behind the Words.

But behind each question that Rover asked was a picture that brought tears to the eyes of many women in the room. And behind each answer that Lindbergh made so briskly was a memory that twisted up his lips nervously as his words came calmly.

The aviator was on the stand exactly 15 minutes. In that time, however, he lived again the period from shortly before 10 o'clock on the evening of March 1, 1932, when he "last saw my son alive," to the morning of May 13, 1932, when he "identified my son, dead, in the morgue at Trenton, N. J."

Many hundreds of men and women jammed the courthouse square all morning hopeful of getting a glimpse of Lindbergh. Hundreds more worked their way into the corridors and the lucky ones with special passes finally were sieved into the courtroom. But when Col. Lindbergh finally appeared he came in through a side door and was pushed past the crowd up to the witness stand and was taking the oath before many in the room realized he was at hand.

Takes Oath as Witness.

It was only when they heard the words "Charles A. Lindbergh" that they rushed forward and saw a tall, slim man in a dark blue suit place his hand on the Bible; heard him swear to tell the truth.

"Col. Lindbergh," Attorney Rover began, "was there born to you and Mrs. Lindbergh, prior to March 1, 1932, a son?"

"There was." The words were so softly spoken that Mr. Rover had to caution: "Keep your voice up."

After that the witness spoke loud enough for every one to hear; but frequently so rapidly that the words could not be caught distinctly.

"About how old was he on March 1, 1932?" was the next question.

"About 18 months."

Child Taken from Home.

"Did you discover the child was not in your home that night?"

"Yes."

"What time was that?" the attorney queried.

"About 10 o'clock in the evening."

"Prior to 10 o'clock, when you last saw your son, was he alive?"

"He was."

As he spoke Col. Lindburgh fastened his eyes on the clock on the wall in front of him.

"Did you ever see him again," Mr. Rover lowered his voice as he added, "dead?"

"Yes," said Lindbergh, and added the time and place, May 13, at the Trenton, N. J., morgue.

Tells of Identification.

"Did you identify the body as that of your son?"

"I did," replied Lindbergh, and again his eyes sought the clock as a focus.

Then followed a few less personal questions: How he had given $50,000 in ransom money to a Dr. John F. [Jafsie] Condon, on the 2d of April, 1932, and how he had never got any part of the ransom back.

It was on cross-examination that Attorney J. William Tomlinson, counsel for Means, sought to open up the whole kidnaping case when he wanted to know if Violet Sharp, an employé of Lindbergh's mother-in-law, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, had not committed suicide.

Rover objected to this and Tomlinson revamped the question to "Is she still alive?" To which Lindbergh replied "No."

Payment of Ransom Discussed.

Going to the point of the ransom money, Tomlinson wanted to know if Lindbergh had had any evidence which convinced him that he was dealing with the real kidnapers. Lindbergh said there were two things exhibited to him: An additional note and a piece of clothing "similar" to that which his son had been wearing.

The colonel took his eyes off the clock now. He leaned forward. He clasped his hands, but kept the fingers motionless. The clothing, he repeated, was "similar"; "in all probability it was the same."

"But are you entirely satisfied about it?" persisted the defense attorney.

"Not without doubt," said Lindbergh, and the courtroom was extremely quiet.

Questioned about the authenticity of the additional note, given him after the first note left the night of the kidnaping, he raised his voice and announced emphatically:

"There is no question in my mind about the identity of the notes."

Hesitates Over Federal Aid.

When Attorney Tomlinson asked what federal agencies assisted in the case, Lindbergh, for the first time, was hesitant, and he asked, "Must I answer that?"

After a clash between counsel the question was narrowed to a query about the department of justice's participation, and Lindbergh admitted he had had contact with the department at various times.

Interrogated about his interview with Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, his mother's cousin, he recalled that Land had driven to Hopewell March 6, had told him that Mrs. McLean wanted to help get back the baby. He said he had given his approval of the plan and had "probably" given Land some means of identifying the child, but he could not be sure.

Attorney Joseph Turco, counsel for Whitaker, brought up the question of the $50,000 ransom money having been marked by Lindbergh.

Seemingly a little nettled, Lindberg asked, "What do you mean by marked?"

When Turco explained that he wanted to know if Lindbergh had kept a record of the serial numbers, the aviator said he had, but maintained through a series of questions, that all data on these numbers were made public, were in his records, and he could not testify without them.

Tells of Autopsy.

A few more perfunctory questions and Col. Lindbergh left. With him left the bulk of the crowd so eager for details of the death. If the crowd had lingered it would have heard those details from Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, the physician who performed the autopsy on the Lindbergh baby May 12. The doctor sketched a pitiful picture of a baby's lifeless body, in such a bad state of decomposition as to prove to him that it had been dead many weeks; "probably within 48 hours of the kidnaping."

This testimony is the center of the prosecution's interest in the Lindbergh appearance in this case, for the prosecution is seeking to prove that the baby was dead at the time Whitaker is alleged to have told Mrs. McLean that he "held the baby in my arms less than 2 days ago."

Mrs. McLean on Stand.

Earlier today Mrs. McLean took the stand and told a long story of promises and delays and more promises which she says Means and Whitaker fed her from March 6 to April 27 as they pledged the return of the baby. After she had given Means $100,000, for the taking of which he is now serving a 15 years' term in Atlanta penitentiary, Means, she testified, said the "deal depends now upon getting $35,000 of fresh money to the kidnapers in exchange for the marked money that has been given Condon by the kidnapers."

Not having the cash, Mrs. McLean said she took a diamond necklace and two diamond bracelets, gave them to a friend with instructions to pawn them for that amount. The glittering diamonds were handed up and down the jury row and came to rest on the arm of the witness chair where Mrs. McLean coiled them around a paper drinking cup. Nearby stood a detective with eyes on the gems.

Tomorrow Miss Elizabeth Poe, the friend to whom Mrs. McLean gave the jewels to be pawned, will take the stand and tell how she took them instead to Mrs. McLean's lawyer, who, up to then, had known nothing of their client's negotiations with Means and Whitaker.

$30,000 BOND FOR BOY THIEF.

Clarence Eaker, 18 years old, 2703 West Jackson street, trapped when he used a rented automobile on a robbery tour, was held to the grand jury in bond of $30,000 yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht on three charges of robbery.

CLEARS BROTHER OF McMATH GIRL KIDNAPING BLAME

Reveals Child Was Hidden in Small Pit.

Barnstable, Mass., May 9.—[Special.]—In a sworn statement made in the Barnstable county jail today Kenneth Buck reiterated that he alone was responsible for the kidnaping of 10 year old "Peggy" McMath, exonerated his brother Cyril, held with him, of all guilt or blame, and declared that there was no one else to "implicate."

Police Find Mattress.

At the same time, he revealed what he said was the "real hiding" place of the kidnaped child, a pit about five feet deep and 10 by 6 feet in an area further back under the rambling shack previously identified as the place where "Peggy" was kept for two days and a night of her absence from home. The crude "cellar" is some 50 feet beyond the so-called "dungeon" previously pointed out as the hideaway.

In it Police Chief Edward E. Hall of Harwick and one of his men found a mattress such as "Peggy" said she lay upon and other articles mentioned by her story of her lonely wait for rescue. It was lighted by a small window in the foundation of the building, which was too high, however, to afford the child a view of the road.

Face Prison Terms.

Meanwhile Cyril, who awaits a hearing on May 22 on the abduction charges, disclosed through his lawyer, James F. Kiernan, that he had endeavored on two separate occasions to persuade Neil McMath, the girl's father, to inform the police that he was in touch with the kidnapers. Mr. McMath declined to act on the suggestion both times, however, for fear it might upset his plans to bring about the return of his daughter.

A prison term of 10 years is provided if a prisoner is convicted of the crime of kidnaping and a maximum of 25 years if he is found guilty also of extortion by ransom.

STATE TRIAL LIKELY FOR KIDNAPERS WHO FELL INTO TRAP

Freeport, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Whether Laverne Moore, 21, and William Stubbe, 27, confessed kidnapers of William J. Trevillian, vice president of the W. T. Rawleigh company, will be tried by federal or state courts is yet to be determined by government and county officials.

Assistant United States District Attorneys Jack Page of Rockford and Daniel Anderson of Chicago are to decide whether sufficient evidence exists to link Moore and Stubbe with death threats mailed to Trevillian since Feb. 14.

The men were arraigned today on charges of kidnaping for ransom and demanded an immediate hearing, but State's Attorney Louis F. Reinhold was granted a continuance of ten days by Justice Albert Lindsay and the prisoners were held in $25,000 bond each.

How he allowed himself to be kidnaped in order to trap abductors who demanded $25,000 ransom from his wife for his release was related today by Mr. Trevillian. He consented to allow himself to be seized by the kidnapers, was held captive more than three hours in the basement of Stubbe's farmhouse, and finally was released and returned home unharmed.

LONG ESCAPES ONE SUIT; SECOND TO GO ON TRIAL

Freed of Slander; Libel Charge Stands.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Because a court found members of congress cannot waive their immunity, Louisiana's senator, Huey P. Long, was free today of a slander suit filed against him by Brig. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, retired, but a libel action by the same plaintiff was allowed to continue.

The two suits, each seeking $500,000 damages, were brought against the self-described "Kingfish" because of the terrific tongue lashing given Ansell by Long in the senate last February. The libel action, however, was based on alleged distribution of these and other remarks by the senator in leaflets broadcast about the country.

Justice James M. Proctor of the District of Columbia Supreme court was asked to quash service of process on the senator in the libel case, but he refused.

Once Waived Immunity.

He accepted the contention of Long's attorney, Raymond N. Beebe, that since the constitution holds that no member of congress may be held accountable in court for anything said in course of debate, the immunity cannot be regarded as a personal privilege, but rather a declaration that the courts do not possess jurisdiction.

Whether Long eventually would be held liable to trial for the distribution of the statements was not defined in today's action.

The dismissal of the slander suit was made despite Long's assertion in the senate, as reported by the congressional record, that "I do not claim any privilege from this scoundrel anywhere on earth under God's living sun."

Libel Suit Based on Circular.

Two separate distributions of alleged defamatory matter were charged in the libel suit brought by Ansell. Printed copies of the senate speech, sent through the mails, was one.

The other was what Ansell described as "the libelous kangaroo court circular, which he issued just before the suspension of the senate committee hearings at New Orleans."

"Long printed and distributed broadcast," said the libel suit, "great numbers of this circular, which he devoted entirely to coarse calumniations of me, then counsel for the committee, and of the committee as well."

FIND DYNAMITE IN CITY HALL AT SAVANNAH, GA.

Savannah, Ga., May 9.—(AP)—A dynamite bomb with sputtering fuse attached was discovered in the city hall here today just in time to prevent what might have been a disastrous explosion.

Eight sticks of dynamite were in the bomb, wrapped in heavy paper bags and with a six inch pipe protruding. The fuse, lighted and burned close to the explosive, was run through the pipe.

The bomb was discovered in the rotunda of the second floor of the building, close to the office of Mayor Thomas Gamble, by Thomas D. Pruitt, a local resident, who said he went to the city hall in search of work.

Pruitt cut the fuse and summoned employes who immediately called police. Pruitt was detained for questioning.

Inside the rough brown paper wrapping detectives found writings with a red pencil. Apparently the note was addressed to "Mayor Gamble, Ald. Wilson, and R. F. Downing." Downing is city marshal of Savannah.

ANOTHER VICTIM VISITS 'DAUGHTER OF THE BRAKEMAN'

Sergt. Edwin Waller and his squad spoiled a game of "visiting the brakeman's daughter" for a group of cab drivers assigned to a taxicab stand at Belmont and Sheffield avenues yesterday. A new driver, who had been at the stand only a few days, had been selected as the "victim."

"Look," one of the drivers told the new man. "In that apartment building on the third floor is a beautiful blonde. Her father, who is a very hard man, is not at home. She said that she likes your looks. She wants you to come and see her."

The rookie driver, whose name was not learned, decided to make an immediate visit. Francis Curry, 29 years old, 3216 Sheffield avenue, one of the drivers, was waiting at the top of the stairs. He had a revolver.

"So you're the guy that's been seeing my daughter," Curry shouted. "I'm going to kill you."

The rookie driver fled down the stairs with Curry in pursuit. At this point Sergt. Waller interrupted the game by arresting Curry. Several hours later, as Curry explained the rules of the game to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker at the detective bureau, reports were received that the new driver apparently was still in full stride. His cab had not been claimed.

"That's nothing," Curry told Chief Schoemaker. "We did the same trick to a guy three years ago and he never did come back for his cab."

SHOT AT IN AUTO, BROTHERS BLAME LABOR TROUBLES

George Ketter, 4345 Wentworth avenue, an awning manufacturer, and his brother, Charles, were perilled last night by a bullet, fired from the outside, which crashed through the windshield of their automobile and whizzed between their heads. The attack occurred while they were driving in State street at 49th street.

The Ketters are scheduled to appear in the jury court tomorrow as witnesses against Eugene O'Connor, 8230 Eberhart avenue, business agent for the Chicago Awning and Tent Makers' union. O'Connor is charged with intimidation by Charles Peters, 1035 East 75th street, another awning maker.

In reporting the shooting, George Ketter told Sergt. Timothy Donovan of the bomb squad that recently three awnings he had put up had been destroyed by acid. Ketter added that he had been informed of a recent meeting of O'Connor's union at which an unidentified spokesman had warned "the Ketters will make no more awnings in Chicago."

MOTION TO QUASH BOMB INDICTMENT SET FOR HEARING

Hearing on motions to quash the indictments against James Catuara, 27 years old, 2540 Emerald avenue, and William Palermo, 27 years old, 2817 Arthington street, who are charged with possession and transportation of a dynamite bomb, was set for May 22, by Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court yesterday. The men, who are alleged to be henchmen of James Belcastro, known as "King of the Bombers," are at liberty on bonds of $50,000 each.

The case was assigned to Judge Lynch when Attorney Ben Short, representing the defendants, asked Chief Justice John Prystalski for a jury trial. Attorney Short said that he could not get a fair trial before Judge Lynch or Judge Michael Feinberg, but Judge Prystalski told him a motion for a change of venue would have to be made before Judge Lynch.

BANDITS' EFFORT TO ESCAPE POLICE CELL FRUSTRATED

An attempt by two notorious bank bandits to escape from the Warren avenue police station Monday night was disclosed yesterday when the men were arraigned in the Felony court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

They are George Nolan, 25 years old, and Frank Conway, 35 years old. Both were confined in the same cell. Visitors took them cigarets in tin cases on Sunday and from the cases they manufactured a skeleton key with which they let themselves out of the cell.

Attacking the lockup keeper, Policeman Patrick Hart, they attempted to beat him and take the keys that would let them out of the station. But Hart fought them off, drew his pistol and fired at the prisoners, who then begged for mercy.

The charge of carrying weapons was continued yesterday, but they will be prosecuted for robbery. They also are wanted in a $51,000 bank robbery in Wisconsin.

Connecticut Gets Legal Beer at Lunch Today

Hartford, Conn., May 9.—(AP)—A proclamation legalizing sale of 3.2 per cent beer and wine in Connecticut, to become effective at 8 o'clock in packages, 9 o'clock at hotels, etc., tomorrow morning was signed today by Gov. Wilbur L. Cross. Although the state never ratified the 18th amendment, Connecticut remained without beer for more than a month after federal legalization of 3.2 brew, while its legislators waged a bitter controversy over the method of control.

FIND MISSING POORMASTER; ROBBED, HE SAYS

William C. Pocklington, 35 years old, poormaster and treasurer of Benton township in Lake county, who disappeared last Friday, was found yesterday in the home of his aunt at Dundee, Mich. He said he had been kidnaped in Waukegan by three men, drugged and robbed of $2,000 of relief funds. The thieves put him out of their car near Grand Rapids, Pocklington said, and he journeyed the 145 miles to Dundee in a dazed condition.

Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county and Henry L. Farthing, Benton auditor, spoke with Pocklington over the telephone. The poormaster told the sheriff he would return home within 24 hours, and assured the auditor that there was no shortage in his accounts.

In preparation for Pockington's return, the Benton township board met last night and, after conferring with State's Attorney Charles E. Mason, adjourned to Monday night, at which time Pocklington's own audit will be received. Meanwhile, two men who are on Pocklington's surety bond in his capacity as treasurer have asked to withdraw. Unless he gets new bondsmen by Saturday he automatically will be out, it is said.

WINKLER GANG'S PAYMASTER IS SEIZED BY POLICE

Police Lieutenant Arthur Katt of the newly organized hoodlum squad yesterday arrested David "Benny" Goldblatt, alleged paymaster for Gus Winkler's north side gang, and two ex-convicts who were riding with Goldblatt in an automobile at 18th street and Michigan avenue. The ex-convicts are Frederick Poncher, 28 years old, who has a robbery record, and Stanley Warwick, 27 years old, auto thief and murder suspect. Goldblatt had been at liberty on bond awaiting trial May 15 on a disorderly conduct charge. The three men were taken to the detective bureau for questioning.

CHARGE 2 WITH FRAUD IN FAKE TRUCKING DEALS

Warrants charging conspiracy to defraud were issued for two men yesterday by Judge Matthew Hartigan in the Felony court. Complaints had been made by the Better Business bureau. One of them, Ralph C. Nelson, 2107 Laporte avenue, was arrested immediately. The police are searching for the other, Peter Knabb, who is said to be in the automobile business at 3540 Ogden avenue.

Frank H. Lanser of the Better Business bureau told Judge Hartigan there had been 20 complaints from people who had answered advertisements that Nelson and Knabb inserted in newspapers to sell trucks, guaranteeing purchasers long distance hauling contracts. Arnold Hope, 4929 Dakin street, paid $400 for a truck, and Walter Voyda, 2927 Warsaw street, paid $500 for a truck, but neither received the hauling contracts, Lanser said.

Find Mother and Daughter Beaten to Death in Home

Beach, N. D., May 9.—(AP)—Two aged widows, mother and daughter, were beaten to death near here today. The victims were Mrs. Rosalia Dodge, 85, and Mrs. Mattie Steger, 65. Soon after their bodies were discovered in Mrs. Dodge's home, one mile west of Beach, officers who had been searching for Frank Genion, 60, a laborer, found him unconscious at the rear of his home. There was a bullet wound, apparently self-inflicted, in his head. Mrs. Steger had been Genion's housekeeper, but recently moved to her mother's home after a quarrel with the man.

MERCHANTS JOIN IN RACKET DRIVE; MAYOR HITS T N T

Leader of Striking Union Spends Day in Cell.

The strike called by the Chicago Coal Teamsters' and Hikers' union in a reported effort to club employers of union members into joining the Trucking and Transport agency threatened last night to become a lockout. The Trucking and Transport agency, called the T-N-T, is alleged to be the $500,000 a year racket of Murray Humphries, public enemy No. 1.

More than 200 employers belonging to the Chicago Coal Merchants' association, at a meeting in the Midland club, voted indorsement of the anti-T-N-T policy of their president, Norman R. Elmstrom, and their attorney, Joseph B. Fleming.

A number of employers outside the jurisdiction of the striking union went further. They made pledges to shut down their coal yards if the heads of the union with which they deal, and which is affiliated with the striking organization, persisted in support of the T-N-T.

Mayor Strikes at T-N-T.

Meanwhile at the city hall Mayor Kelly delivered a smashing blow at the T-N-T. He ordered every privately owned truck in the city service laid off to see which are T-N-T affiliates. Those that are, he said, will be laid off permanently.

"One thing that can be done is to cleanse the city service," said the mayor. "There have been reports that private trucks hired in the city service had to belong to the T-N-T. We are laying off all private trucks and are waiting to hear who squawks.

"If the truck owner has T-N-T sponsorship he won't get back into service. I think we can find enough city owned trucks to do all the work necessary in an emergency. If not, we'll close the service down before yielding to the T-N-T."

With the T-N-T facing this double attack by merchants and mayor, John Sheridan Jr. and Milton Booth Jr., heads of the striking union, gave notice last night that the employers could negotiate a new wage scale with them direct, notwithstanding a three year contract the union has given the T-N-T to deal for it on wages.

While not officially informed of the union change of front, spokesmen for the coal merchants' association declared it would not suffice. The association, they said, would demand the $7.50 a day scale which the union has granted to certain independents that have "gone along" with the T-N-T. The association now pays an $8 scale to union drivers.

187 Coal Yards Shut Down.

A survey by James D. Rooney of the merchants' association showed 187 coal yards shut down last night, in contrast with the 108 yards closed on Monday, the first day of the strike. The affected territory, Mr. Rooney said, covered most of the large yards of the north and south sides, the downtown district, and the west side as far as Cicero avenue.

It was in the district between Cicero avenue and the city limits that the lockout was threatened as an expression of the merchants' solidarity. Up to Cicero avenue jurisdiction is held by Local 704 of the teamsters' union, run by Sheridan, Booth, and Dan Cain, brother-in-law of the slain George [Red] Barker. The territory beyond is covered by the suburban Local 724, ruled by James G. Farmer.

Although Farmer has refrained thus far from calling a strike, Chicago merchants in his province declared at the Midland club meeting that his union had followed the Sheridan-Booth-Cain policy of delegating the T-N-T to negotiate its wage contracts. Unless Farmer rescinds this policy, they said, a lockout will be proclaimed today.

Booth Locked Up by Police.

With agents of Local 704 visiting all coal yards in their jurisdiction to enforce the strike order, Booth clashed with police and spent most of the day and part of the evening in a cell at the Stanton avenue police station.

Booth, who is 33 years old and gives his address as 7452 Calumet avenue, was out bright and early with James F. Rowan, 50 years old, 6223 Cottage Grove avenue, a trucking contractor sympathetic to the union, to enforce discipline. In a filling station across the street from the Dixie Coal company, 104 West 35th street, they found Booker T. Murray, Negro truck driver of 5330 Calumet avenue, getting gasoline preparatory to delivering a load of coal.

"Get back in the yard," shouted Booth to Murray, a member of the union.

The driver obeyed, but as Booth and Rowan followed him through the gate, the watchman, Alfred Kingsley, 3737 North Natoma avenue, drew a gun. In the ensuing tussle, the yard manager, Laddie Sherman, called the Stanton avenue police. A squad arrived and took Booth and Rowan into custody.

Questioned by Prosecutor.

Questioned at the Criminal Court building by Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, Booth and Rowan denied they had broken the law or attempted to use violence in restraint of trade. Notwithstanding their protests, the prosecutor ordered both returned to the station. There they were booked on charges of disorderly conduct and released on bail.

At a yard of the Eastman Coal company, 369 North Peoria street, another clash occurred. Two union pickets, Harry Bennet, 50 years old, 1513 Grand avenue, and Davis Coe, 36 years old, 4626 Flournoy street, who were allegedly threatening coal peddlers arriving at the yard with trucks, were stopped when a squad appeared from Des Plaines street station.

Booked on charges of disorderly conduct, the prisoners were quickly freed on bonds provided by John Sheridan Sr., boss of the Chicago Teamsters' union, which has the coal drivers and hikers under its jurisdiction.

Asks Inquiry by Congress.

George Roy Baker, insurgent leader of the coal drivers, who failed to take the union over in an abortive raid on the headquarters at 637 South Ashland avenue a fortnight ago, made another bid for notice by telegraphing Congressman Fred Britten in Washington for a congressional investigation of Chicago's labor situation.

Baker claims that he and his nominee for business agent, James [Lefty] Lynch, really caused the present strike and maintains that if the merchants will deal with his group the men will promptly return to work. The merchants are holding aloof from the Baker-Sheridan feud.

To discredit Baker's movement, one of the Sheridan-Booth business agents, Al Reese, charged that Baker and Lynch put guns on a truck driver at 2240 Kinzie street yesterday and compelled him to dump five tons of coal in the street.

Gunmen Stop Truck Driver.

The driver, Carmen Coglianese, 2436 Polk street, is a member of the truck drivers' local 705, not affiliated with the coal teamsters, and occasionally delivers a ton of coal for his employer, the Grady Trucking company, 516 Aberdeen street. Coglianese was making his monthly trip with coal to the Vulcan Iron company, 327 North Irving avenue, when three gunmen in a blue sedan stopped him.

Coglianese admitted he was not affiliated with the coal teamsters' union, but protested that he delivered coal only a few times a month. "Dump that truck and stay out of the coal business," he quoted the gunmen as saying.

His employer, James Grady, notified of the incident, immediately telephoned the coal teamster headquarters that hereafter he would hire a coal teamster for all his coal trucking and asked that a unionized coal hiker be sent to remove the coal from the street at his [Grady's] expense.

RUGS AND JEWELRY FOUND BY POLICE RAIDERS

CAMERA LEADS TO 3 AS BURGLARS OF SUBURB HOMES

Trail Followed to Coast and Return.

CRIMINAL COURT.
Claude Jackson and Clarence Collins, malicious mischief, sentenced to 1 year each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

How the trail of a stolen motion picture camera led from River Forest to Hollywood and back to Chicago, resulting in two men and a woman being held for questioning in the burglaries of four River Forest homes, was told yesterday by Chief Carl Soderlin and Lieut. Raymond Rheingruber of the River Forest police.

Those held are Stanley Ploharski and his wife, Mildred, and Eli Zolot, all of whom were arrested at 5510 Gladys avenue. Rugs and jewelry found in the Gladys avenue apartment will be viewed by burglary victims.

Jewels and Furs Stolen.

The camera was stolen from the home of J. F. Battistini, a commission man, at 947 Bonnie Brae, River Forest, on Feb. 4. The burglars also took $1,000 in jewelry, fur coats, and other clothing. The police asked the manufacturers of the camera to watch for the serial number. A week ago the company notified Lieut. Rheingruber that the camera had been found in a repair and pawn shop in Hollywood. The man who had left it gave his name as Charlie Jacobson of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, Chicago.

Lieut. Rheingruber found Jacobson who told him Ploharski had given him the camera. Ploharski and his wife were traced to the Gladys avenue address where they were arrested Monday night.

Find Gems and Rugs.

The police returned later to the Ploharski home and found Zolot. In his room they discovered $1,000 in jewelry, 18 oriental rugs valued at $5,000, and 7 fur coats valued at $3,500. Zolot said he was the former owner of a jewelry store in Los Angeles. He said he and Ploharski came to Chicago from California six weeks ago.

Both admitted having had the camera, but when they were asked where they got it and the valuables found in Zolot's room, Zolot told Lieut. Rheingruber: "They flew in the window." Ploharski admitted having a police record.

Mrs. Battistini identified a mink coat as one taken in the burglary of her home. She said the coat was valued at $1,500.

Paraguay Claims Bolivian Flyers Bombed Hospital

ASUNCION, Paraguay, May 9.—(AP)—The Paraguayan war ministry charged in a communique tonight that Bolivian airplanes had bombed a hospital at Camp Esperanza in the Gran Chaco, setting fire to the roof, which was marked with a Red Cross emblem. An American, George Lohman, telegraphed the foreign office tonight protesting an aerial bombardment by four Bolivian planes of his property at Barra and Concepcion, where great damage was reported.

4 KENTUCKIANS DIE IN STORM; INDIANA IS HIT

Tompkinsville, Ky., May 9.—(AP)—Four persons were dead, several missing, and more than a score injured after a tornado here tonight. Among the known dead were a visiting Methodist minister and his wife.

Homes Are Demolished.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—(AP)—Windstorms that struck central Indiana today continued in the southeastern part of the state tonight, injuring three persons, demolishing at least seven homes and a number of barns and outbuildings, and disrupting communication.

Counties that felt the force of the wind included Marion, Hamilton, Tipton, Grant, Delaware, Madison, Henry, Randolph, Wayne, Rush, Fayette, and Ripley.

Three Mays residences were demolished and others damaged. Four residences crumbled before the wind in Ripley county.

5 SUBURBS FIGHT FOR CONTINUANCE OF RAIL SERVICE

Residents of the towns of Oak Lawn, Worth, Chicago Ridge, Palos Park, and Orland Park yesterday petitioned the Illinois commerce commission to compel the Wabash railroad to continue its suburban service to those towns. The road has planned to discontinue serving the communities. The petitioners said there is no other steam railroad or electric line connecting them with Chicago.

Attorney Charles Lewe and the Rev. Peter J. Geraghty, pastor of St. Gerald's church in Oak Lawn, spoke for the petition.

"For ten years," Attorney Lewe said, "the railroad has been reducing its suburban service and now plans to abolish it altogether, regardless of the interests of thousands of families who have moved to these communities and built substantial homes with the expectation the train service would be improved."

Father Geraghty said most of the residents of the towns are employed in Chicago or have occasion to come into the city frequently.

The railroad was directed by the commission to reply to the petition by May 24.

AUTOIST HELD FOR DEATH.

Robert Draper, 738 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park, was recommended held to the grand jury yesterday on a manslaughter charge by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Raymond Howell, 40 years old, colored, who was struck by Draper's automobile on Sunday.

76,000 ROUNDS OF AMMUNITION IS SEIZED IN FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., May 9.—(AP)—Seizure of 76,000 rounds of ammunition at Tavanier, 75 miles south of Miami, by United States customs border patrolmen was confirmed here today after Sidney Brown, collector of customs at Tampa, made the announcement.

The ammunition was of .44 caliber, suitable for pistols or for two types of foreign made rifles. Federal authorities declined to give out further information, saying they had not completed their work on the case.

The Miami Herald said it learned from reliable sources that the ammunition was destined for Cuban revolutionary forces and that it was about one-fourth of a shipment.

Insists U. S. Railmen Will Fight Further Pay Cuts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 9.—Railroad workers in the United States will firmly oppose any attempts by railroads to institute further pay cuts on the termination of the existing wage agreement June 15, E. J. Manion, St. Louis, Mo., president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, told 500 delegates to the triennial convention today. At the opening session of the convention yesterday, strong opposition to the St. Lawrence waterways project was voiced.

BRITAIN ACCEPTS U. S. PROPOSAL FOR TARIFF TRUCE

Pact Leaves London Free on Pending Treaties.

"will have to go on concurrently and on parallel lines. They will have to be dealt with by another body. There are so many awkward relations to be dealt with to complete the final settlement and a permanent settlement is the thing we have got to aim at. June 15 is going to be an awkward hurdle, but what is required is a quiet survey of the possibilities in the meantime. Nothing should be said in the house here which will increase the difficulties which will make the hurdle impossible to clear."

Wants Free Hand.

The premier in effect asked the house to trust in him and President Roosevelt to come to the best settlement possible without interference.

The prime minister then turned indignantly to the story published while he was at sea that Great Britain and France had united in a conspiracy for war on the dollar and that the British exchange equalization fund had been placed at the disposal of France. These things are bound to occur while currencies are unstable, he said, and he appealed for as quick a settlement as possible.

Seeks to Dodge Debt Payment.

Meanwhile, it was learned that a new plan to dodge the June 15 debt payment is under consideration.

When MacDonald and President Roosevelt talked at Washington, it is learned, three courses were envisaged. The first was that the President should obtain and exercise power from congress to grant another moratorium or postponement of the debt payment while the economic conference is sitting.

The second was that Britain should pay, which has been made easier by the slipping value of the dollar and may be further eased if the proposal to accept payment in silver goes through.

The third, and the one now disclosed for the first time, is that Britain, by a unilateral declaration, while acknowledging the debt, should postpone payment during the economic conference, and that the United States, while registering a formal protest, would let it go at that.

Italy Makes Reservations.

ROME, May 9.—(AP)—The Italian government, it was learned tonight, will soon issue an official communique accepting the American tariff truce proposal with the reservations that the armistice be based on the present dollar valuation and that Italy can impose a superduty if the dollar depreciates further. The stipulations are similar to those advanced by France.

GERMANY NABS TWO LEADERS OF SILK TRUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 9.—Dr. Willy Springorum and Dr. Karl Benrath, directors of Germany's largest rayon company, Vereinigte Glanzstoffwerke, which is connected with the Associated Rayon Corporation of America, were arrested today, charged with violating commercial laws and falsifying balance sheets. A warrant for the arrest of Fritz Bleuthgen, one of the founders of the German rayon industry, was also issued.

Authorities declare that the company has been under suspicion for some time. They allege it is still listing the shares of their companies in Germany, the United States, and Holland at the value in which they were registered in 1928. It is asserted the company listed assets of their American branch at ten times their value and concealed a loss of $6,000,000.

[Associated Rayon closed at 3 on the New York curb yesterday, a rise of 1½ points.]

A "general cleanup of industry" will be carried on, the government has announced. The Springorum case is to act as a warning signal to industrialists who attempt to evade government measures, officials said. Three directors of the Charlottenburg water works also were arrested today and charged with "incorrect business dealings."

LATVIA RAISES TARIFF; HIGHEST IN BALTIC STATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 9.—The Latvian cabinet today ordered a 25 to 50 per cent increase in duties on a wide variety of goods. This increase is effective immediately and makes Latvia's tariff the highest of any country in the Baltic states.

The government announced that the budget balanced at $23,000,000 without provision for foreign debt payments, including those due the United States.

The increase in duties, which was promulgated by decree, affects articles of general use such as coffee and citrus-fruits. It makes importation prohibitive. The duty on oranges is now 20 cents a pound and on coffee 30 cents.

FRENCH CABINET AGAIN REFUSES TO CONSIDER PAYING U. S. WAR DEBT

PARIS, May 9.—(AP)—The French cabinet today confirmed its decision not to pay the defaulted $19,261,432 war debt installment due the United States last Dec. 15 unless there is a moratorium, or its equivalent, on the payment due June 15.

The French ambassador at Washington, Andre de Laboulaye, was designated to carry on further debt negotiations which former Premier Herriot started during his recent visit to the White House.

Immediate payment of the debt interest was again recommended by Herriot, but the cabinet rejected the proposal. A communique said the cabinet was "happy to recognize the friendly disposition and spirit of understanding shown by President Roosevelt," and thanked Herriot for his trip to the United States.

Government quarters explained the cabinet's decision on the ground that it seemed hopeless to try to induce parliament to change the stand it took last December when Herriot's cabinet was defeated on the payment issue.

U.S. Group Reaches Geneva for World Wheat Parley

GENEVA, May 9.—(AP)—The American delegation to the international wheat conference which opens tomorrow arrived in Geneva today. The delegation includes Henry Morgenthau of New York; Frederick E. Murphy, publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune, and George C. Haas, member of the United States farm board. Mr. Morgenthau said he came with no concrete plan, but wished first to explore the ground with others to see what should be done to solve the wheat situation.

GIVES ECONOMIC PARLEY A 50-50 CHANCE TO WIN

Prof. Alley Lists Major Obstacles.

The world economic conference will have about an even chance of accomplishing some good in finding cures for the three most destructive forces that influence current conditions, Alden G. Alley, professor of history at Dana college, Newark, N. J., said yesterday at a forum luncheon in the City club.

The three destructive tendencies which the conference will attempt to bring under control, Prof. Alley explained, are high tariffs, depreciated currencies and the widespread repudiation of debts. He said that complete failure of the conference is possible, and that a dramatic success is not to be expected at all.

"The political situations in the sixty-six leading nations of the world will have a tremendous effect on the results of the conference," he said. "The results of the disarmament conference also will have great bearing on the econmic sessions. If the arms discussions end in failure, we can have little hope of international coöperation along economic lines.

"The need for international economic coöperation is acute," he added. "The trade of the world is reduced to one-third of its volume in 1929, largely because of the nationalistic panics that have swept over us during the depression. These restrictions of free trade have had worse effect than high tariff barriers.

"It is my belief that the Bank of International Settlements may be called upon by the world economic conference to supply a stabilizing effect upon the monetary systems of the world, which will go far toward improving the current conditons."

ASK AUTHORITY FOR PRESIDENT TO SETTLE DEBTS

Message on Tariffs Also Expected This Week.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this week will send to congress, it was learned today, a message asking that he be given authority to deal with the other nations of the world in settling the debt issue, at least temporarily.

In the same message the President will ask for a blanket power to negotiate tariff revisions, in line with his program for stimulating world trade by breaking high tariff barriers.

Prime Minister MacDonald, addressing the British house of commons today, discussed both questions, holding that his government would favor a temporary "gentlemen's agreement" to desist from a tariff war at this time, and that so far as the debts were concerned he had found President Roosevelt in agreement that the world economic conference cannot be wholly successful without an earlier and permanent settlement of the war debts.

To Be Scanned at World Parley.

The reaction of the Roosevelt administration to Mr. MacDonald's disclosures, as discussed by Secretary of State Hull, was to make an admission, for the first time, that the war debts would be taken up concurrently with the issues before the world conference. But he insisted that they would not form part of the conference discussion itself and that the debt negotiations would be taken up by representatives other than those engaged in the general conference.

Asked if the debt talks would be held in London or Washington, Mr. Hull said he could not say, but his failure to deny outright that they may be held in London was taken in many quarters to admit the possibility that a general conference on debt revision with all the debtor nations represented may be staged as a sideshow to the main parleys.

June 15 Debts "Awkward."

Mr. MacDonald's characterization of the June 15 due date on debts as an "awkward hurdle," and his plea that his colleagues in parliament do nothing to make it harder to leap over that hurdle, were also interpreted in administration circles here as strengthening the possibility that the President will ask congress for authority to suspend the June 15 payment, pending a full settlement, or at least allow the payments to be considered as applied on principal and not as interest. Such an agreement would also imply that the June 15 payments would be considered as part of any settlement to be reached later.

The President and his advisers were reported to be gratified at MacDonald's announcement that the tariff truce, initiated by Mr. Roosevelt, would get British support.

May Surmount Tariff Barrier.

With England's approval, Italy having publicly embraced the idea, and other nations showing favor to it, President Roosevelt now feels the world conference will be given at least the good start engendered by a preliminary agreement not to make the tariff barriers even more unsurmountable. Germany, China, Belgium, and Japan have given indications to the administration that they will enter the tariff truce pact.

The French government in the last day or two has eased out through unofficial channels reports that a lump settlement of her debt to the United States, consisting of a waiver of all interest due and a radical scaling down of the principal besides, has been proposed by this country.

This was denied today, and explanations were made in administration quarters that Emanuel Monick, financial attache of the French embassy here, had really originated the proposition, had discussed it in a wholly informal manner with an official adviser of the President, and then passed it on to France as an American idea. No one with authority to speak for the administration had discussed the plan.

The administration is said to feel strongly that no consideration shall be given to France on the June 15 payment unless she first has paid up the $19,000,000 due since last December.

BERLIN IS WARNED BY U. S. TO ALTER DISARM POLICY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 9.—Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, chief Nazi adviser in foreign affairs to Chancellor Hitler of Germany, had a long talk here today with Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large.

The talk, while described as frank and friendly, is understood to have taken the form of a blunt intimation from Davis that the United States is utterly opposed to any increase in armaments by any one, and that America regards Germany's present policy of demanding a larger army as an obstacle to the success of the disarmament conference. It is even said that Davis told Rosenberg that the United States believes Germany is tending to become a disturber of the peace in Europe.

Rosenberg in return, it is said, disclaimed any intention on Germany's part to disturb peace, but reiterated Germany's claim to equality of armaments, preferably to be obtained by disarmament of other nations to the present German level than by Germany's rearming to their level.

HOUSE REMOVES COST GUARANTEE FROM FARM BILL

Sugar Lobby May Lead Fight in Senate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—With the Simpson cost of production guarantee rejected by the house today the farm relief bill, including the provision for inflation of the currency, appears destined to become a law before the end of this week.

Senate leaders tonight betrayed a lack of confidence that the upper house would insist on retention of the Simpson provision guaranteeing the farmer the cost of production together with a reasonable profit. This amendment, which was added in the senate, was the only portion of the bill on which the conference committee of the two houses was unable to effect a compromise. If the senate recedes the bill will go at once to the President.

Sugar Senators May Fight.

Sugar states senators may fight adoption of the conference report on account of the elimination of sugar beets and sugar cane from the list of basic commodities subject to the measures of farm relief provided by the bill and also on account of the elimination of a joker that domestic sugar interests had got into the bill to deny its benefits to refiners of Cuban sugar.

The sugar lobby was extremely active during the progress of the bill through congress, particularly through the senate. As a result of its efforts sugar beets and sugar cane were made basic commodities through a senate amendment. Then the lobby set out to put the refiners of competing Cuban sugar outside the pale.

As the bill came from the house the secretary of agriculture was authorized to enter into marketing agreements with the processors of any agricultural commodity entering into interstate commerce. Under that phraseology marketing agreements to raise prices could be made with the American refiners of Cuban raw sugar.

Amendment Is Engineered.

The sugar lobby thereupon engineered an amendment in the senate limiting such marketing agreements to "basic" agricultural products. As the bill then stood basic products included sugar beets and sugar cane but not sugar. The refiners who own most of the Cuban sugar plantations had been thrust out of the picture by the joker.

Thereupon the refiners got busy. They bore down upon the administration with the argument that the joker made it impossible for the President to carry out his project of aiding Cuba financially by doing something handsome for Cuban sugar. The administration at once came to the rescue of the refiners by causing the conference committee to eliminate the joker from the bill.

In fact the refiners of Cuban sugar got satisfaction in good measure, for the conference committee also eliminated sugar beets and sugar cane from the list of basic commodities to be benefited by the allotment provisions. All sugar, whether produced at home or in Cuba, will now be eligible to the marketing benefits only.

Vote Is 283 to 109.

The Simpson cost of production provision was rejected by the house by a vote of 283 to 109. Voting for it were 82 Democrats, 22 Republicans and 5 Farmer-Labor members; against 201 Democrats and 82 Republicans. The conference report on other sections of the bill was approved under a gag rule waiving Republican points of order that the conference had exceeded their authority in rewriting various provisions. The inflation section injected into the bill by the senate was approved by the house last week.

The lineup of members in the central states on the Simpson provision to guarantee farmers the cost of production and a reasonable profit follows:

ILLINOIS.

FOR THE AMENDMENT—Gillespie, Keller, Democrats; Allen, Republican.

AGAINST—Arnold, Beam, Brennan, Dobbins, Kelly, Kocialkowski, Major, Meeks, Nesbit, O'Brien, Parsons, Sabath, Schaefer, Schuetz, Thompson, Democrats; Britten, DePriest, Dirksen, Simpson, Republicans.

WISCONSIN.

FOR—Henney, Cannon, O'Malley, Democrats; Blanchard, Boileau, Withrow, Frear, Peavey, Republicans.

AGAINST—Reilly, Hughes, Democrats.

INDIANA.

FOR—Durgan, Griswold, Gray, Democrats.

AGAINST—Schulte, Pettengill, Farley, Jenckes, Greenwood, Bohne, Larrabee, Ludlow.

NOT VOTING—Crowe.

MICHIGAN.

FOR—Lehr, Hart, Musselwhite, Weideman, Lesinski, Democrats; James, Republican.

AGAINST—Cady, Brown, Dingell, Democrats; Hooper, Mapes, Wolcott, Woodruff, McLeod, Dondero, Republicans.

NOT VOTING—Sadowski, Foulkes, Democrats.

IOWA.

FOR—Eicher, Wearin, Gillette, Democrats; Thurston, Dowell, Gilchrist, Republicans.

AGAINST—Jacobsen, Williford, Biermann, Democrats.

The President had turned thumbs down on the Simpson amendment and the Democratic leadership appealed to the enormous Democratic majority to stand by Mr. Roosevelt.

"I speak to you with authority," said Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic leader, "when I say that the administration is opposed to this amendment. The reason is they know it is impractical and unworkable and will destroy the purpose of this bill to give the farmer a reasonable price for his products. You have made a record of standing by the administration in relieving the farmer and all the people. Let's stand by now and vote down this motion to concur in the amendment."

Representative Marvin Jones [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the house agricultural committee, read a statement by the department of agriculture vigorously opposing the scheme which was fostered by the farmers' union.

"The amendment," said the statement, "is economically unsound. It would depress rather than increase farm prices, would lead to bootlegging of farm products, and would impair farm progress."

Mr. Jones pleaded that the department of agriculture should not be hampered in any way and should be given the farm legislation in the form in which it wanted it.

Defended by Wisconsin Member.

"This amendment," said Representative Gerald Boileau [Rep., Wis.], its chief advocate, "provides the most satisfactory method possible for raising farm prices. Collection of a processing tax is an extremely cumbersome procedure, whereas this cost of production plan is very simple. It requires merely that the farmer receive at least the cost of production for his farm produce."

Mr. Boileau pointed out that the department of agriculture's statement read by Mr. Jones had declared it impossible to determine the cost of production. He pointed out, however, that later in the statement the department declared that the cost of production would be lower than the parity price proposed in the bill.

The latter statement, said Mr. Boileau, was an admission on the part of the department of agriculture that it was possible to determine cost of production.

"The farmers," Mr. Boileau said, "want this legislation. Let's give them what they want for once."

GOES BANKRUPT; LISTS DEBTS OF OVER 12 MILLION

Houston, Tex., May 9.—(AP)—John Henry Kirby, financier and lumberman, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court today, listing $12,995,360.74 in assets, as against $12,276,171.12 in liabilities.

The largest single liability was a note for $3,117,882, which, with three smaller notes, was payable to the Southwestern Lumber Company of New Jersey. These notes were secured by 29,667 shares of Kirby Lumber company stock, the par value of which was listed as "unknown."

Among assets the personal property was listed at $2,690,563. Assets receivable were listed at $8,311,299.

At a hospital a surgeon amputated the arm.

J. M. BECK SEES REDIVISION OF U. S. INTO STATES

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9.—[Special.]—Asserting that our form of government "seems to be in process of dissolution," Representative James M. Beck suggested in an address at the Manufacturers and Bankers club tonight that it might be well to scrap the present constitution and write a new one which would "take into account the varied character of our population and the present irrepressible conflict in economic interests."

A constitution such as he had in mind, Mr. Beck explained, "would classify the present artificial division into forty-eight states, with its palpable unjust distribution of political power, into three or four self-governing groups of states, whose economic interests would be the same, and with a common bond of a central government to carry out the original objectives of the constitution."

This, he declared, would be "better calculated to preserve the union of the American commonwealth than the present highly artificial federation of the states."

In an analysis of political developments since the adoption of the constitution, and particularly in recent years, the speaker said that this generation was witnessing "the death agonies of our noble form of government, whose essential spirit was that of individuals."

Holiday Group Also Asks Wallace's Removal.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 9.—[Special.]—From two sources disobedience to constituted authority was advocated by and on behalf of Minnesota farmers today.

The Farmers Holiday association of the state, meeting at Montevideo, voted a resolution stating that the members would not pay debts or interest until "the dollar is an honest measure of value," and demanding that the government take over all banking and declare a national moratorium of mortgage foreclosures on farms and city homes. The association also called on President Roosevelt to remove from office Secretary of Agriculture Wallace because he doesn't favor the cost of production clause in the farm bill.

Thousands of Handbills.

In Minneapolis anonymous distributors gave out thousands of handbills urging the agricultural population to adopt passive resistance to civil law based on the methods used by Mahatma Gandhi in India. The writer of the handbills condemned the program advocated by the holiday group and urged farmers not to pay money to any organizers.

The Farm Holiday association already has declared in favor of a strike to be called Saturday, and there was no backdown from this plan at the session in Montevideo attended by some 4,000 farmers.

Instead the delegates urged that the strike be used as a weapon to gain wide political power. The resolutions urged the formation of a third party, condemning both Democrats and Republicans as parties of special privilege.

Those Money Changers.

"The government has endowed a small group of money changers with a charter to exploit and plunder the producers of the nation's wealth," it was stated.

Among the holiday association demands were: Legislation to insure farmers the cost of production; retirement of all tax exempt securities; steeply graded federal income, gift and inheritance taxes; discontinuance of compulsory military training in schools; payment of the rest of the bonus in notes or certificates, and cooperation between the farmers, labor groups and the unemployed.

Tell What Gandhi Has Done.

After asserting that Gandhi had brought "mighty England to her knees," the Minneapolis pamphleteer continued:

"Don't pay a cent to a banker, don't pay a cent to a storekeeper until we can sell our grain, cream, cattle, hogs and eggs at a price that is right. Don't pay a single cent to the civil disobedience league. People looking for easy money come to farmers. First the Nonpartisan league demanded $16.50; then the farm bureau $5; then the Farmers' union $7.50; now the farmers' holiday, whatever it can get.

"Just sit tight. You don't have to run to meetings. Don't pay. That's all."

End Martial Law in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., May 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Clyde L. Herring today announced that martial law will be lifted in two west Iowa counties, Crawford and Plymouth, at 9 a. m. Thursday. Militiamen have been in control since rioting broke out two weeks ago in the two counties. The most spectacular incident in the riots was the seizure of Judge C. C. Bradley of Le Mars, who was threatened with hanging.

C. N. WELSH'S LAWYER ASKS MRS. WOLON ABOUT ANOTHER MAN

Philadelphia, Pa., May 9.—(AP)—Counsel for Charles Newbold Welsh, wealthy Philadelphian sued for breach of promise by Mrs. Estelle M. Wolon of Chicago, charged today that she had another friend at the same time she alleges she was betrothed to Welsh.

The lawyer had the wife and daughter of Edmund C. Grossman stand in court. Mrs. Wolon could not recall any endearing letters to Mr. Grossman, now dead. Grossman and she were "very dear pals," and he "gave his winnings" in roulette to her, Mrs. Wolon added.

Mrs. Wolon told of a trip around the world with Welsh, ending in Paris, where, she declared, Mrs. Welsh demanded that Welsh choose one of them and Welsh replied, "I love you both," but later returned to the United States with his wife.

PERMITS PATIENT TO HAVE 30 DAYS' LIQUOR SUPPLY

U. S. Eases Restrictions on Physicians.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—Regulations pertaining to the distribution of medicinal liquors issued by the industrial alcohol bureau today provided that physicians may prescribe 30 day supplies of spirits and wines in ordinary cases and a 90 day supply in exceptional cases. The effective date is May 15.

Physicians must hold permits from the bureau to prescribe liquor, while only retail druggists with permits may fill prescriptions.

Regulations providing for the manufacture and distribution of 3.2 per cent wine probably will be approved tomorrow by Attorney General Cummings. Secretary Woodin already has approved the wine regulations.

These Restrictions Imposed.

Restrictions imposed on prescriptions by physicians included the following:

"A physician shall not prescribe for a patient at any one time a quantity of spirituous or vinous liquor in excess of what he in good faith believes is required to meet the medicinal needs of the patient as shown by the patient's condition at the time of prescribing.

"No prescription shall be issued for a quantity that in the judgment of the physician will last, when used as prescribed, more than thirty days; except that if a patient's medicinal needs will with reasonable certainty continue for a period longer than thirty days, a physician may prescribe for that patient at one time a quantity of spirituous or vinous liquor sufficient to meet such needs, in which case the physician shall indorse on the prescription the word 'special' and within twenty-four hours after its issuance shall notify the supervisor of permits in writing of the issuance thereof, giving all the information required to be written on prescriptions, without disclosing the nature of the patient's ailment.

More Distilleries to Open.

"In no case shall a physician issue a prescription for a quantity of spirituous or vinous liquor in excess of that required to meet the medicinal needs of his patient for a period of ninety days."

Opening of a number of additional distilleries probably will result from the liberalization of the medicinal liquor regulations, officials asserted.

The present supply of medicinal liquor in bond is from 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 gallons, of which 5,000,000 gallons has been in bond for fifteen years or more. The remainder has been produced since December, 1929, when distillation was resumed because medicinal supplies were beginning to get low. The treasury department is charged by the law with the duty of maintaining an adequate supply of medicinal liquor. Liquor withdrawals amounted to 57,000,000 gallons in 1917, with a maximum of 99,000,000 gallons in 1914.

Penalty for False Statement.

Nothing in the regulations should be construed as authorizing the prescribing by physicians of any liquor in states prohibiting that traffic, Dr. James M. Doran, chief of the bureau, said.

False statements or representations made to physicians to obtain prescription when there is no medical need for liquor or amounts in excess of that actually required were made a violation of the law.

Spirituous liquor was defined as meaning alcohol, whisky, brandy, rum, gin or other beverages produced by distillation.

JUDGE REBUKES DRY AGENT WHO ABUSED WOMAN DURING RAID

Indianapolis, Ind., May 9.—[Special.]—"Free for all" tactics used by prohibition agents in making raids were denounced today in federal court here by Judge Robert O. Baltzell.

Mrs. Virgil Frederick testified that Harmon Crossley, prohibition agent, twisted her leg to prevent her from calling police during a raid on her apartment. "There is no use for prohibition officers treating a woman the way this woman has been treated," Judge Baltzell said. "I don't like that kind of capers by prohibition officers. It is not necessary."

Crossley is alleged to have visited the apartment of the Fredericks several times with a government informer and asked Mrs. Frederick to get him some whisky. On Feb. 24 Crossley, accompanied by other officers, went to the apartment, but they were not admitted because Mrs. Frederick had learned they were prohibition agents.

According to Mrs. Frederick, Crossley and Maurice Bennett, another agent, broke into the apartment. Her husband went to the kitchen to destroy liquor and Crossley followed him, she said, striking him to prevent him from dumping the liquor in the sink.

Crossley testified that in the scuffle in the kitchen Mrs. Frederick struck him with a lamp, breaking his nose. However, both Frederick and his wife testified Crossley's nose was broken by Frederick while Crossley was twisting his wife's leg to prevent her from calling police on the telephone. Mrs. Frederick also said Crossley knocked her down five times.

Identify Three of Four Burned to Death in Barn

Three of the four Negroes who were burned to death early yesterday in a barn at 9 West 57th street were identified later in the day. They are Frank Sharp, 55 years old, who lived in the barn; Willie Flavin, 56 years old, 5857 South State street, and Dave Hairston, 45 years old, 5716 South Michigan avenue. The fourth man was believed by the police to be Samuel Warmeth, 37 years old, 5709 South State street.

JUDGE LOWELL'S JURY COMMENT TOLD HIGH COURT

Criticized for Action in Narcotic Case.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.] — The United States Supreme court today heard Solicitor General Thomas D. Thatcher declare that if he were a member of the court he would grant the defendant in the case a new trial because of remarks to the jury made by Federal Judge James A. Lowell of Boston.

It was Judge Lowell who recently refused to extradite George Crawford, Negro, to stand trial in Virginia for the double murder of Mrs. Agnes B. Ilsley, society woman, and her maid. Judge Lowell refused extradition on the ground that since Negroes were excluded from jury service in Virginia any conviction of Crawford would be held illegal. His impeachment has been demanded in the house of representatives.

Thought Prisoner Lying.

The case being argued before the court today involved Angelo Quercia of Somerville, Mass., who was convicted of violating the Harrison narcotic act by a jury in Judge Lowell's court. Presenting Quercia's appeal, Attorney Essex S. Albert began by stating that in his instructions Judge Lowell had reminded the jury that during his testimony Quercia had "made motions with his hands as if wiping them." This, Judge Lowell had said, indicated that Quercia was lying; every statement of the witness except those tallying with government testimony was a lie. Judge Lowell had asserted, it was declared by Attorney Albert.

Chief Justice Interrupts.

Chief Justice Hughes heard this much, then did the unusual thing of halting the attorney and ordering the solicitor general to state what defense he had to make on behalf of the government.

Instead of offering a refutation, Mr. Thatcher replied that the case illustrated the importance of determining how far a judge might go in his instructions, and he closed by saying that if he were on the bench he would vote to give Quercia a new trial.

MAYOR CALLS CITY TO OBSERVE FRIDAY AS HOSPITAL DAY

Mayor Kelly yesterday issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens of Chicago to join in the observance of Friday as National Hospital day in memory of Florence Nightingale. The day will be the 113th anniversary of her birth. The mayor's proclamation said:

"On May 12, 1820, Florence Nightingale came into the world little knowing that she would some day be placed in a niche of fame as one of the world's greatest humanitarians.

"On May 12, 1933, National Hospital day will be observed in honor of this great woman who was the founder of modern nursing. Her memorable work has contributed in no small measure to the relief and comfort of suffering persons everywhere.

"Today the hospital has become an integral part of our daily life, and its importance is still increasing.

"I, therefore, call upon the citizens of Chicago to observe Friday, May 12, as National Hospital day in memory of one of humanity's outstanding personalities, Florence Nightingale, and to visit, wherever possible, some hospital on that day."

Hospitals in Chicago will observe the day by holding open house for the public.

4 BREWERIES GET U.S. BEER PERMITS; ONE TURNED DOWN

Four more permits to manufacture beer were granted yesterday by E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of the Chicago division of the department of industrial alcohol. The permit sought by the Superior Brewing company, 732 North Leavitt street, was denied. No reason was given for the refusal.

The permits issued were to the Manhattan Brewery company, 3901 Emerald avenue, of which Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder is president; the Mound City Brewery company of Quincy, Ill.; the Dick Brothers Brewing company of New Athens, Ill., and the William G. Jung Products company, Random Lake, Wis.

In Wheaton yesterday the Du Page county board of supervisors fixed the license fee for retailers of beer, who are out of the territory governed by municipal corporations in the county, at $50 a year.

JOBLESS, WINS PROBATION.

Judge Leon Edelman in the Stockyards court yesterday granted a year's probation to Frederick Beilstein, 35 years old, 5834 Wentworth avenue, an unemployed salesman, charged with assault by his former landlord.

You will save more money with these pure flakes

It is not by accident that women who can buy the best insist on Kirk's American Family Flakes. They buy it for safety's sake—but they use it too because it helps them save more money.

"Much of the beauty of my home is safeguarded by the purity and mildness of American Family Flakes," says Mrs. James Ward Thorne. "You'd really be amazed at the number of things we entrust to its gentle suds. It's marvelous the way everything comes out unfaded and fresh and clean."

"I have found American Family so pure, so rich and so quick-acting," says Mrs. William H. Lee, "that clothes laundered in its creamy suds give appreciably longer wear. White things come out dazzling-white without boiling—and without hard rubbing. My maid, too, insists on American Family for the china and crystal. She says it makes twice the suds of ordinary soap flakes."

"For years no other soap flakes but American Family has come into our house," says Mrs. Lee Wilson Hutchins. "Again and again my Deruta luncheon set and lace dinner cloths have been dipped in its pure suds. You should see how beautiful they are—and how bright and spotless the children's play clothes. The secret is in the suds!"

• • •

Mrs. Hutchins is right—the secret is in the suds. American Family, you see, was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. It makes a rich, creamy double-suds that floats out the dirt without hard rubbing . . keeps fabrics firm and colors true. Buy it—try it—and save as you never saved before. It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes!

10 MORE 'QUEENS' TO BE SHOWN IN SUNDAY TRIBUNE

Further Details of Their Fair Program Told.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Pictures of the second group of ten girls to be named members of the Queen's court at A Century of Progress will be published in next Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Photographs of the first ten of the total of fifty-one were reproduced in the rotogravure section of last Sunday.

Notification has already been sent to the second group of ten girls, and the forthcoming illustrated section of Sunday's TRIBUNE will herald their triumph to the rest of the world. Concurrently, pictures of these girls will be printed in others of the fifteen newspapers affiliated with THE TRIBUNE in the world-wide contest to find the girl who will rule as Queen of the World's fair inaugural. The queen will be chosen from the 51 winners and the 50 others will form her court of honor.

Girls to Arrive May 25.

President Roosevelt's announcement that he would open A Century of Progress exposition on May 27 instead of June 1 caused a quick readjustment of plans in the tentative schedule for entertainment of the 51 young women. Arrival of the girls, who will come to Chicago from other American cities and from Europe, was pushed forward one day—from May 26 to May 25.

Then, instead of a leisurely preparation of their costumes over a period of four days, they will hurry through fittings and be ready on Friday, May 26, for the portentous review by the judges that will place one of their number on the throne. This event will be held on May 26 instead of May 29, as originally planned, in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman.

That night, on the eve of the opening of the fair, the coronation dinner will be held with appropriate ceremony in the College Inn. Escorting each girl will be an honor student from Northwestern university or the University of Chicago. President Rufus Dawes of A Century of Progress and Mayor Edward J. Kelly will be present to salute her majesty, and the entire group of judges will be guests.

Queen to Receive $5,000.

The identity of the Queen and the two maids of honor [second and third prize winners], will be announced at the dinner, to which they will come attired in their robes of white satin, especially designed by Marshall Field & Co. artists. The rôle of queen carries with it also a check for $5,000, with $3,000 and $2,000 for the second and third place.

May 27, opening day of the fair, will be the grand climax of the girls' visit. They'll meet the President. They'll ride down Michigan boulevard on six colorful floats, prepared by members of THE TRIBUNE'S art department. They'll have luncheon with distinguished guests at the administration building of the fair. They'll see vast throngs and feel themselves an important part of the tremendous pageant of the exposition's opening.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon they will find themselves grouped for the significant ceremony on the temporary rostrum to be built in Soldiers' field for the personages who will honor the city and the exposition by their presence. In the same white organdy dresses in which they promenaded before the judges the preceding evening the girls will participate in the inaugural.

Queen to Aid President.

As President Roosevelt prepares to sign the proclamation informing the universe that A Century of Progress is an accomplished fact a gold pen with which he will affix his signature will be handed the chief executive by the queen.

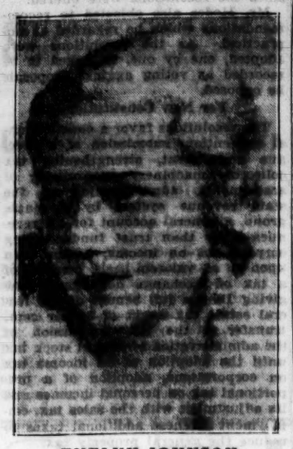
Once the great event is over the court will make its first inspection of the fair grounds. Automobiles will be awaiting the girls, each with an official guide. With their chaperones they will be whisked away to get their initial glimpse of the wonders they will return to view on different occasions before their ten days of fun and education come to an end.

To close this significant day the entire court will be entertained that night at the Joseph Urban room in the Congress hotel. And just before they return to their hotels they will enjoy another sightseeing trip through the exposition grounds.

Next Sunday's TRIBUNE will announce the second group of ten winners. Pictures of the third group of ten will appear on May 21.

Candidates for U. of I. May Queen

JANE EVANS.



EVELYN JOHNSON.

Urbana, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Two Chicago girls are among the three co-eds named as candidates for May queen at the University of Illinois. They are Jane Evans, 7327 Clyde avenue, and Evelyn Johnson, 10836 Forest avenue, both of Chicago, and Beth Olwin, Robinson, Ill. Voting to name the queen will be held Thursday and the winner will be crowned Saturday afternoon during the annual mother's day week-end festivities when several thousand mothers of students will be on the campus.

NOTES OF THE WORLD'S FAIR

The grass will be green when President Roosevelt sets foot upon World's Fair territory and opens the exposition May 27. Original plans were that the green lawns would be achieved through a three weeks' seeding process, but rainy weather and the advancing of the date of opening have resulted in the necessity for a speeding up process. Then acres of Kentucky blue grass sod, under cultivation for two years, are being moved to the exposition ground, Col. John Stewart, director of works, announced yesterday. The entire fair will be completely landscaped before May 27. In many areas the seed already has produced a healthy sod.

The Chicago Board of Trade post, American Legion, national championship band was notified yesterday that it has been selected to play at the formal opening of A Century of Progress by President Roosevelt May 27. Armin F. Hand will direct. His father, the late John A. Hand, as leading bandmaster of the day, played the initial musical program of the 1893 World's Fair.

A "talking book" will tell the story of the Federal Office of Education and its work in the department of interior exhibit in the Federal building at the Fair. A large book in red leather binding, it will open on the quarter hour, and the pages of brightly colored illustrations will turn automatically, while from concealed loudspeakers the voice of United States Commissioner William John Cooper will be heard.

The progress of chemistry from the middle ages, when alchemists practiced what was considered "black art," to the present is shown in the chemistry exhibit, nearing complete installation in the Hall of Science. All sections will be complete by next Saturday. The central feature is a large model of what scientists call "the periodic table," which shows the ninety-three elements of which every substance on earth is made, arranged in "families" according to their atomic weights. Above this table is a huge globe which shows on the earth's surface the principal countries of origin of the various elements. A complete miniature oil refinery is shown in another section.

A map compiled under the direction of Maj. E. S. J. Irvine, chief of the transportation division of A Century of Progress, designed for out of town visitors, has been designated as the official map of the fair and is being distributed throughout the country. It was prepared by the Goss Lithographing company of Chicago. All highways of the middle west leading into Chicago are shown in one section. Another section is of central Chicago, and a third shows the loop. A map of the fair itself and a detailed map of the Chicago area are among the five sections.

The charms of North Dakota will be shown World's Fair visitors in murals and a six-foot model of the new state capitol building. The paintings were by Homer B. Huntoon, head of the department of architecture at North Dakota State college at Fargo, and four young artists.

Four masterpieces the Art institute is borrowing for the Fair, for which the institute is the official fine arts building, are scheduled to arrive at 12:45 p. m. today at the La Salle Street station of the New York Central railway. They are from the Toledo Museum of Art. They will be under the personal supervision of Blake-More Godwin, director of the museum. They are Velasquez's "Man with a Wineglass," Holbein's "Catharine Howard," who was the fifth wife of Henry VIII.; Reynolds' "Honorable Mrs. Watson," and "After the Meeting," by Cecilia Beaux, an American. Three pictures, including "Lady Weighing Gold," by Jan Vermeer, will arrive from the Widener galleries in Phifadelphia in a special car at 9 a. m. tomorrow over the Pennsylvania railway at the Union station.

ROB BIG MOVIE THEATER.

Rockford, Ill., May 9.—(AP)—A robber last night held up the box office of the Coronado theater, the largest one in town, and escaped with $250.

FAMILY CAN GO TO FAIR WITHOUT BUSTING FATHER

Here Is Outline of What Trip Will Cost.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of Cairo, which is about 400 miles from Chicago, and their three children can come to Chicago for the World's Fair, stay two weeks, and visit the exposition daily without ruining their bank account.

It would cost this family a total of $55.60 for its railroad fare and for admission to the fair for 14 days, assuming that the Smith children are 15, 11, and 6 years old. With a rate of one fare and one-tenth for the round trip on a 16 day limit, offered by all railroads in the Western Passenger association, the railroad fare for the five Smiths would be $57.60.

If the Smiths want to stay longer they may obtain other rates. A season ticket, on sale between May 26 and Oct. 16, with return limit to Nov. 15, will sell for 1½ fare for round trip. A 30 day ticket will be sold for 1 1-3 fare, between May 26 and Oct. 29.

Admission Is 50 Cents.

The admission price to the World's Fair is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children under 12, making a total of $28 for the Smiths. Concessions are extra, but for the admission price more than 50 buildings may be seen, including all the buildings constructed by A Century of Progress and all the exhibits offered by the fair itself.

If a visitor actually sees all that the World's Fair offers free of charge except for the gate admission of 50 cents, officials have estimated he will walk 82 miles before he completes his inspection. Eighty-five per cent of the total investment of $25,000,000 which A Century of Progress exposition will represent after its opening May 27 is available to the visitor for the general admission only.

What Rooms Will Cost.

If the Smith family of Cairo wants to stay in a loop hotel while in Chicago they can do so at a cost as low as $1.50 per person a day. A first class loop hotel offers a double room for two without bath at $3 a day; a single room without bath at $2 a day; a double room with bath at $4 a day; single room with bath for $2.50, and room with twin beds at $5 up. In addition, rooms for $1 a day may be obtained in private homes in Chicago.

Assuming the Smith family paid $1.50 a day for each member of their family for a hotel room, a two weeks' stay would cost them $105. This would bring the total to $190.60, in addition to which bus fare to and from the fair and intramural bus fare on the exposition grounds if they wanted to ride must be added. The latter is 25 cents each for both adults and children.

Some of the buildings which the general gate admission will make available are: Communications and Radio building, Dairy building, Electrical building, Food and Agriculture building, General Exhibits group, Hall of Science, Hall of Social Science, Home Planning hall, Illinois Agriculture building, International Harvester building, Maya temple, the States building, and the Travel and Transport building.

Other Free Admissions.

The general admission will also gain admittance to many other buildings and projects, such as the Alaskan building, the Atlantic and Pacific carnival, the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Corporation building, the Chrysler building, the Columbus Lighthouse Memorial erected by the Dominican Republic, the Crane station, the Czechoslovakian pavilion, the Dahlia gardens, the De Saible cabin, Edison Memorial, Egyptian pavilion, Firestone building, and Florida gardens.

Others for which there is no charge are the General Motors building, the Hall of Religion, the Havoline [thermometer] tower erected by the Indian Refining company, the Illinois Host building, erected by the state of Illinois; the Italian pavilion, the Japanese pavilion, the Johns-Manville building, Kohler building, Marquette cabin, Moroccan village, Owens-Landscape pavilion, Peony garden, Polish pavilion, Poultry show, Sears-Roebuck building, Sinclair Prehistoric exhibit, Southern Cypress building, Swedish pavilion, Terrazo promenade, United States Government building, United States army camp, Whiting corporation and Nash Motor building, and ten modern homes.

Amount Is Flexible.

The Smith family can spend as little as they like or as much as they like on concessions. The 6 year old Smith girl will want to visit the Enchanted island. General admission is free. Most of the amusements on the island are 5 cents, the Magic Mountain is 1 cent, some are 10 cents, and a few are 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults. Ten and 25 cents will be charged at the Children's theater.

To visit the Byrd South Pole ship will cost 25 cents. The Sky Ride probably will cost 40 cents. Dancing at the Dance Ship, Inc., will cost a dime. A dirigible trip for 15 minutes in a Goodyear "Puritan" will be $3. Entrance fee to the Belgian village will be 25 cents; the Oriental village, 10 cents, with 25 cents extra for the theater and 25 cents to $1 for admission to the arena in the village.

Admission to the Midget village will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. The Streets of Paris, Inc., will charge 25 cents for adults, 15 cents for children. An hour's ride in a gondola on the lagoon will be $2. A large boat will charge 50 and 25 cents, a "drive-yourself" boat, 25 cents.

Twenty-five and 50 cents will be charged as admission to Hollywood. General admission to the Days of '49, Inc., will be 15 cents, with 25 cents extra for the Spanish dance hall. "Flying Turns," a ride, will cost 25 cents. The flower show of the Horticulture Exhibits, Inc., may be seen for 25 cents and 15 cents admission. Many rides are to be had for 10 and 15 cents.

JARECKI ORDERS TITLE AND TRUST QUIZ ON TAXES

Charge It Has Failed to Pay $10,000,000.

An investigation by the state's attorney of charges that the Chicago Title and Trust company had failed to pay $10,000,000 in delinquent taxes upon properties in its charge was ordered yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki.

The court's order followed a morning and afternoon hearing. There was some excitement at the early session when officers of the trust company failed to appear in response to a summons. The judge found that Holman D. Pettibone, president of the company, had been served with a summons April 28. The summons was one of a number asked by State's Attorney Courtney some time ago as his part in the general offensive to collect overdue taxes.

Receivership Fees Paid.

While an investigation was being made to determine why no representative of the trust company had appeared in court, Morris Pancoe, a representative of the Madison Square Building corporation, 119-123 West Madison street, told Judge Jarecki that the trust company had taken funds from the property's income to pay attorney and receivership fees but had paid no taxes.

After hearing these charges Judge Jarecki adjourned court until 2 p. m. At that time Attorney Joseph Fleming appeared for the Chicago Title and Trust company and protested that the company had been "placed in a wrong light." He said the failure of any representative to appear had been the result of an understanding that the case was not to be called until today.

He answered the charges of Pancoe with the declaration that the trust company, as receiver of the Madison Square property, had paid all taxes it had been ordered to pay by Judge Joseph Burke.

Attorney Denies This.

This assertion was denied by Attorney Frank J. Jacobs, representing Pancoe, who said that Attorney Fleming was misinformed.

"The taxes ordered paid by Judge Burke were never paid," he said. "The Title and Trust company just thought it could get away with it."

Because of the conflicting statements of the lawyers, the judge ordered the state's attorney's staff to investigate the court records of the case and report their findings Monday.

Concerning the charge that the company had withheld $10,000,000 in tax payments, an answer filed asserted that within the last six years only $3,599,628 had been deposited for paying taxes on properties governed by the trust company. Of this amount, $2,839,303 had been paid in taxes and the residue held pending the outcome of numerous objection suits, according to the answer. The judge told the state's attorney to investigate this answer.

Hotels to Pay Taxes.

Legal representatives of the Stevens hotel and the Hotel La Salle, both in federal receivership, also appeared before Judge Jarecki and declared that tax bills amounting to $1,286,103 would be paid as soon as possible. Revenue from A Century of Progress visitors is expected to improve the financial condition of the hotels, the court was told.

A representative of the Willoughby Tower corporation said that a payment of $100,000 on a delinquent tax bill of $304,902 would be made today and that the remainder would be cleared up in monthly installments of $7,000. Judge Jarecki continued the hearing on this matter until Wednesday.

Counsel for J. L. Kesner, who was cited to tell why back taxes aggregating $387,898 were unpaid on two pieces of loop property, was given additional time to file an answer to the summons and information.

No payments on large tax delinquent properties were received by County Treasurer McDonough yesterday, although the much publicized campaign to collect back taxes continued at full blast. A number of suits were filed against delinquents whose names had previously been published and a new list of properties marked for receivership action under the Skarda act was made public.

Six Properties Listed.

This latter list with the amounts in overdue taxes follows:

City State Bank building, 120 North Wells street	$83,063
Hotel Astor, 172 North Clark street	11,033
Equitable building, 178 West Washington street	50,072
H. O. Stone building, 2 North Clark street	78,409
Winthrop Terrace Apartment hotel, 5734 Winthrop avenue	18,037
132 West Lake street	54,606

As proof of his assertion that his recent activity has stimulated tax collections the county treasurer yesterday pointed out some statistics showing an ever increasing scale of daily tax collections.

Collections Are Increasing.

"Before we started using the Skarda act," he said, "the collections of 1928 taxes were averaging only about $1,000 to $3,000 a day. Now we are taking in about $35,000 a day in that class. The 1929 tax collections have jumped from a daily average of $14,000 to $121,000. The 1930 collections climbed to a total of $124,000 Monday, while the old daily average was about $34,000."

A total of $466,000 in 1931 tax collections was taken in Monday, McDonough pointed out, while the daily average before that was about $175,000.

JUDGES SEEKING RE-ELECTION

(Election June 5)

PHILIP J. FINNEGAN

Judge Philip J. Finnegan, Democrat, is chief justice of the Circuit court. He is 47 years of age, has had ten years of judicial service, and he was indorsed for reëlection in the Chicago Bar association primaries.

He was born in Chicago in 1886 and was educated at West Division High school, St. Ignatius college and the Chicago Law school. Admitted to the bar in 1913, he was for six years a professor and lecturer on probate practice and procedure, wills, and the administration of estates at the Chicago Law school.

For eight years [1914-1922] Judge Finnegan acted as assistant judge of the Probate court under Judge [now Gov.] Henry Horner. In 1918 he was a candidate for congress in the 10th [Evanston] district.

He was elected to the Municipal court in 1922 and received his commission for that office after a contest with Judge Emanuel Eller lasting one year. He was reëlected to the Municipal bench in 1928, and a year later he was elected Circuit judge to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Victor P. Arnold.

In his four years on the Circuit bench, Judge Finnegan has served two years in the Criminal court and one year as a chancellor. He is now hearing the divorce calendar. In addition to being chief justice he is chairman of the executive, help, and probation committees of the court. He is married and lives with his family at 1122 North Shore avenue.

Judge Finnegan was indorsed by the Chicago Bar association in 1922 and 1928 for the Municipal bench, and in 1929 and 1933 for the Circuit court.

COUNTY BOARD'S RIGHT TO REMOVE COLLECTOR TOLD

Complaints of Tax Laxity Bring Opinions.

Complaints that the collection of overdue taxes is proceeding in a desultory manner despite the power given County Treasurer McDonough under the Skarda act yesterday aroused several tax experts in the county building to ponder the question: How is a county collector removed from office?

County Treasurer McDonough, who is ex-officio county collector, was not in his office and his attorney said he did not know how such an official may be removed when his actions prove he has neglected his duties, willfully or otherwise. Another tax attorney, one to whom most of the fiscal problems of the county are referred, who asked that his name be not used, explained the law as follows:

County Board Democratic.

"The county board has the power to remove the county treasurer. The statutes say that if a county treasurer is guilty of any misconduct in office the county board may remove him and may appoint some suitable person to perform the duties of treasurer until his successor is elected or appointed and qualified."

Inasmuch as the county board is overwhelmingly Democratic, the chances of removing County Treasurer McDonough, a Democrat, via that method were considered debatable. Moreover, the duties of a county treasurer, according to the law, are merely to "receive" tax moneys.

Considering the Illinois statutes on the post of county collector, the lawyers found that a judge of the Circuit court, upon application, may have power to remove a county collector from office for neglect of duty.

Might Stay as Treasurer.

Whether such a removal of the Cook county collector would still leave him holding his office as county treasurer was another delicate subject the lawyers argued pro and con.

If the county treasurer and collector were removed by either method, he, of course, would have the right to appeal to the state Supreme court for a review of the evidence against him, the lawyers pointed out.

15% TAX CUT WILL PENALIZE THOSE WHO HAVE PAID IN FULL

Some 25,000 taxpayers who paid their 1931 real estate taxes in full when they were due will be penalized if the 15 per cent cut in 1931 valuation on homes and small flat buildings is upheld by the state Supreme court, it was revealed yesterday. The cut was ordered by the board of tax appeals.

"The 15 per cent cut will not apply to those who have already paid their tax bills in full," declared Assistant Corporation Counsel William L. Sullivan, who is now coöperating with the county treasurer's law department in tax matters. "For those who have paid the first installment on their 1931 taxes the cut will affect only the second installment.

"Strangely enough, those who have not paid their taxes at all will receive the full benefit of the cut. These last, of course, must pay the penalties ordered under the law for delay in paying taxes."

2 GIFTS SENT HUNGER FUND; HELP IS NEEDED

A gift of $5 "in memory of Frank M. Utt," reached the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday. The gift was sent to the fund as a memorial to Mr. Utt, the donor explained.

There was only one other gift, $10 from Mrs. C. G. Wilson. The two brought the grand total to $24,125.06 received by the fund since last September.

Contributions are needed to carry on until the close of the school year so that 10,000 needy children in 100 schools may continue to receive daily a nourishing noonday meal. Gifts should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

BABY JEAN WILL HAVE NEW HOME SOON, SAYS JUDGE

Municipal Judge Edward S. Scheffler in the Court of Domestic Relations announced yesterday that 3 year old Baby Jean will soon be adopted by foster parents, who will strive to make up for the baby's neglect. The judge put the infant's mother, Mrs. Marion Kalish, 117 West Chestnut street, on probation for one year.

"I am placing Baby Jean in the custody of the juvenile authorities," the judge said as the child watched him from the arms of Policewoman Mabel Rockwell. "I have had many requests from childless couples who wished to adopt her and I have referred them all to the juvenile officials. I am told that the adoption will take place soon."

The baby was rescued from the home of Frank Faraci and his wife, Katherine, 67 West Chestnut street, a week ago by Policewoman Rockwell. She had been left there by Edward Martin, now a convict, who says she had been left with him a year ago by her mother who was sent to Dwight reformatory for drug addiction. Mrs. Kalish and the Foracis were arrested and charged with delinquency in care of the child. The Foracis were placed on probation with Mrs. Kalish.

SCHOOL TAXES PLAN DIVIDES TAXING BOARD

Illinois Group Split 2 to 1 on Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—With two members of the Illinois tax commission doubtful of the proposal, the state school revenue conference called by Gov. Horner today gave its approval to revenue recommendations favored by the third member.

When the conference met here last week Chairman Scott Lucas, who was one of the speakers, announced that the tax commission could not be bound by the conference's action. This was regarded as merely a precaution against having the commission tied up with plans which might prove inimical to bills which it is sponsoring in the legislature, but it developed today that the commission is divided.

Lucas Doubts Proposals.

When a school revenue committee was formed last week Francis Blair, state superintendent of education, appointed Tax Commissioner S. P. Leland as a member. Commissioner Barnett Hodes suggested he had made an error in not naming the chairman. Mr. Blair at once named Mr. Lucas, but Mr. Lucas did not participate in framing the resolutions which were brought to the conference today. When they were presented Mr. Lucas said that, while he usually agreed in principle with Mr. Leland, he was not prepared to give his indorsement to a program urged by his distinguished colleague without giving it more consideration than had been possible since the resolutions were offered.

Mr. Hodes also objected to recommendations which he regarded as impractical. As the resolutions were adopted, one by one, he asked to be recorded as voting against proposals he opposed.

For New Constitution.

The resolutions favor a constitutional convention, submission of a revenue amendment, strengthening tax collecting machinery, centralizing of assessments, administration of the state revenue system by a single group, a general account for all revenues other than trust funds, taxing corporations on income, rather than upon an ad valorem basis, creation of a tax on exchange dealings, a law giving Illinois full benefit of the federal estate tax credit of 80 per cent, transfer to the tax commission of the administration of capital stock tax until the adoption of an income tax on corporations, adoption of a proportional tax on personal incomes and its adjustment with the sales tax, employment of these additional taxes to reduce the general property tax.

The resolutions declared against further curtailment of instruction in the state's schools, but recommended a survey to determine the desirability of consolidations and mergers.

Four Chicago Men Are Appointed by Horner

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—(AP)—Appointments announced today by Gov. Horner's office included the following: Dr. William P. Forkin of Chicago, assistant managing officer Jacksonville state hospital; Fred Helmich of Chicago, oil inspector; James O'Brien of Chicago, inspector of private employment agencies; Thomas J. Ross of Chicago, grain clerk.

BURGLARS STEAL 22 GUNS.

The Warren avenue police yesterday were searching for several men who forced the rear door of the Schulkin Sporting and Athletic Goods store, 2104 West Madison street, and obtained 15 shotguns and 7 rifles valued at $750.

Cat and Dog Trade Babies and Give Each Other Rest

A cat and a dog who give each other a day off, and care for each other's offspring, are the possessions of William Dixon, 2619 New England avenue. Ten days ago Daisy, the cat, gave birth to two kittens. Two days ago Trixie, a Russian Pomeranian, presented the Dixons with three puppies. The cat and the dog got their babies mixed, Mr. Dixon explained, and now each mother nurses the other's offspring along with her own.

FEDERAL BANKS MAY BUY TAX WARRANTS SOON

Healey Bill Offered to Help Teachers.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Chicago's 14,000 unpaid school teachers may obtain their long desired relief from an unexpected quarter.

Illinois congressmen were preparing to ask quick action on a bill introduced by Representative Healey [Dem., Mass.] to amend the federal reserve acts to permit federal reserve banks to discount municipal tax anticipation warrants for a period of two years after the date of enactment.

Resembles Wagner Bill.

Representative A. J. Sabath, Democrat of Chicago, said the proposal was similar to the Wagner bill pending in the senate, but that it was broader in its application.

"I wish the teachers had stayed at home and not come to Washington," Sabath said. "And, what's more, I wish they hadn't paraded around Chicago trying to force Chicago bankers to buy those warrants.

"That was no way to act. They did more harm to their cause than good. Perhaps they called the nation's attention to their plight, but they also prejudiced many officials against them.

"I talked to the President the other day about it. He assured me he appreciated their difficulties, but that it was a local situation.

Asks Truce to Parades.

"If the teachers will only permit us to act without staging so many demonstrations, perhaps we can get something done."

"The market for tax anticipation warrants of cities and towns," Healey said, "has dwindled to such an extent that they are unable to borrow money, even at a prohibitive rate of interest.

"It is customary to assess property valuation in practically all cities and towns in the United States during April. The tax rate is not determined until the middle of September, and generally tax bills are not sent out until some time in October. So that for a period of practically eight months cities are run on borrowed money.

Get Short Term Loans.

"Prior to 1930 it was possible for these cities to make short term loans in anticipation of tax collections at a rate of interest of about 2½ per cent. The prevailing rate of integest is now 6 per cent, with the possibility of borrowing money, even at a prohibitive interest rate, practically negligible. There are so many tax delinquencies."

Pass Bill to Protect Newspaper Confidences

Trenton, N. J., May 9.—(AP)—By a vote of 46 to 0 the house has passed a bill to protect the confidence of newspapers and newspaper men. The bill now goes to the governor. Under the measure, a person employed by a newspaper could not be compelled to disclose the source of any information used in the newspaper before any court, grand jury, or legislative committee.

MOVIE MAN BECOMES FOURTH HUSBAND OF RUTH ELDER, FLYER

Yuma, Ariz., May 9.—(AP)—Ruth Elder, the first woman to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight, made her fourth venture into matrimony today.

After a flight from Indio, Cal., this morning, the movie actress and aviatrix was married to Arnold Albert Gillespie, art director of a Culver City, Cal., movie studio, in a ceremony performed by Justice of the Peace Earl Freeman. The couple then headed for Los Angeles by air.

The ceremony was only nine days after Miss Elder's affectionate greeting of her third husband, Walter Camp Jr., at San Francisco, inspired conjecture as to whether they would patch up their romance, which ended in a Reno, Nev., divorce last year.

Miss Elder and Camp, Madison Square Garden director, New York, were married in August, 1929, two years after her attempted flight across the Atlantic ocean ended in a forced landing near the Azores. She flew with Capt. George Haldeman.

Miss Elder's first husband was C. E. Moody, a school teacher. They were married in 1922 and later divorced. In 1925 she wed Lyle Womach, later a member of the Byrd south pole expedition, who obtained a divorce at Balboa, Panama, on Dec. 11, 1928.

Husband Goes a Hunting and Wife Goes to Court

Mrs. Marie Winters, 24 years old, 3400 South Mosspratt street, yesterday told Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti that her husband, Bruno, walked out of their home in May, 1928, two months after their marriage, and announced he was going hunting. He wore a hunting jacket and carried a shotgun, she said. Bruno, she related, never returned and not until recently did she find him living at 2634 Hillock street. On the plea of her attorney, Victor Frohlich, Mrs. Winters was granted $8 a week for the support of her daughter, Irene, 5 years old.

4,000 MARCH AS PUPILS PROTEST SCHOOL SLASHES

Loop Demonstration Is an Orderly One.

Four thousand students of Chicago high schools and Crane Junior college staged a parade in the loop yesterday, protesting any cuts in the 71 million dollar school budget and demanding pay for their teachers. The students put on a much more orderly demonstration than their teachers, who stormed the five loop banks during the spring vacation two weeks ago.

Under the leadership of Jack Light, a junior at Crane Junior college, the parade started at Jackson boulevard and Michigan avenue. Marching to the tune of five high school bands and waving banners aloft, the students moved west in Jackson boulevard to La Salle street, thence north through the financial center and east in Randolph street to Clark street.

Police Halt Rerouting.

Turning east in Washington street the leaders decided to change their line of march. Policemen stopped them, however.

"Listen, kids," said one policeman, "you promised to stay on the scheduled line of march and keep moving. All these motorists honking their horns will be sore at you, and it will hurt your own game."

The leaders held a hurried conference and proceeded on their regular line of march, which took them to State street, south to Jackson boulevard, and then east into Grant park.

Burn Banker in Effigy.

The throngs assembled at the foot of Congress street. There they burned an effigy of a banker while their cheer leaders led them in chanting: "Save our schools!" "Keep Crane Open!" "Keep Normal college open!"

The closing of Normal and Crane colleges has been suggested as an economy measure. There were more students from Crane than any of the other schools in the parade. Two hundred from Calumet High school chartered three buses to reach the parade in time. The five bands were from Lake View, Harrison, Englewood, Calumet, and Crane High schools.

It appeared a large majority of the marchers came because they thought they would have a good time. Speeches of the leaders in Grant park were drowned out by the din of the bands and the chanting of the students.

Demands "Mass Action."

It was noted that one of the marchers carried a banner bearing the legend: "Mass Action Gives Results!"

Others who helped young Light organize the forces were Bert Weinstein and Lawrence Singer, both of Crane junior college, and Jay Melind of Lake View High school. The leaders said they were the "students' committee on education."

While the students were marching in orderly lines 300 teachers stormed the mayor's office. They were informed Mayor Kelly had left with Postmaster General Farley, and it was not known when he would return.

The teachers then held a meeting in the corridors outside the mayor's office. After several speeches it was decided every one would write a letter to President Roosevelt asking for aid. The delegation then departed.

Interview State Auditor.

Earlier a delegation from the Chicago High School Teachers' association interviewed State Auditor Barrett. They requested him, if taxes were not paid on properties held by trust companies, to see that Attorney General Kerner revoked the charters of the companies.

Attorney Henry P. Chandler, head of the committee selling school tax warrants, announced additional sales of $38,000. With the money obtained by this committee and from other sources the board of education is $538,000 short of having enough funds to meet the $3,400,000 pay roll for last September.

STATE INCOME TAX DISPUTE SMOLDERS NOW

Farmers Reviving Illinois Revenue Feud.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Bitterness between Cook county and downstate cropped up again today in the state senate over the biennial question when the revenue article of the constitution should be amended to do away with the rule of uniformity in taxation, a change which would permit the levying of an income tax.

Because of an adjournment for the day in honor of the late Senator Clifford J. Vogelsang, who died yesterday, the battle did not break out on the floor, but during the recess that followed there was warm argument between the members from the two sections of the state.

Had the upper house been in session the subject would have been brought up, but the present inclination of advocates and opponents of the amendment resolution is to allow action to be postponed for a time, until it has been subject to more informal conferences.

Ward Fights Amendment.

Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] is leading the fight against the resolution in its present form and Senator Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline], who introduced it, is acting as spokesman for the agricultural bloc which for several sessions has advocated the removal from the state's basic law of the restriction which the Supreme court has held bars the enactment of state income tax law.

A similar amendment to the revenue article was voted on by the people of the state on Nov. 4, 1930, and was beaten by 513,861 to 371,812. Downstate voted against it, 249,193 to 191,879, and Cook county beat it, 264,668 to 179,933. A total "yes" vote of 1,166,348 was required for adoption.

"Yet," Senator Ward said, "this is the same question in a slightly altered form. The issue is the same.

Cook County Pays Most.

"Because of the emergency we passed the sales tax fully conscious of the fact that although Cook county would pay more than 60 per cent of the tax and would receive back slightly more than 50 per cent and that downstate counties will use their shares to reduce their school taxes, meaning that Cook county will be bearing part of downstate's tax burden.

"It is impossible for any member of the assembly from Cook county or other large districts of the state to vote to give the later assemblies this blanket power in tax matters until the state is redistricted on the basis of the constitution with equality for all its voters.

"To pass this resolution would be a waste of time and money. If it were submitted to the voters it would meet with certain defeat. Its only advocates are the Illinois Agricultural association and its friends."

The pending resolution, put into this form on the motion of Senator Carlson, would make section 1 of Article IX. of the constitution read as follows:

"The general assembly shall have power to enact laws to provide revenue and may exempt from taxation the property of the state, counties, and other municipal corporations, both real and personal property used exclusively for agricultural and horticultural societies, for schools, religious, cemetery and charitable purposes and such other property, objects and subjects of taxation as may be provided by law; but such exemption shall be only by general law."

The amendment also would repeal sections 2 and 3 of the present article IX. which cover the subject of exemptions which is included in section 1 of the proposed amendment.

The revised resolution went through the judiciary committee of the senate by the vote of 7 to 5. The roll call showed two Cook county senators, James J. Barbour [Rep. Evanston] and P. J. Carroll [Dem., Chicago] voting for it.

UPHOLDS SETTLEMENT PLAN FOR ESTATE OF SMITH REYNOLDS

Salisbury, N. C., May 9.—(AP)—Judge Wilson Warlick signed a judgment in Superior court here today approving plans for distributing the estate of the late Smith Reynolds to charity after his first and second wives and their children have divided $5,000,000 equally.

The judgment was despite the petition of the Cabarrus Bank and Trust company of Concord, which demanded that Mrs. Annie L. Cannon be forced to join with the bank in a fight for a full half share of the estate for two year old Anne Cannon Reynolds II., daughter of Smith Reynolds' first wife and granddaughter of Mrs. Cannon, who is co-guardian.

Judge Warlick denied the petition, saying "the petition is not for the best interests of said infant under existing conditions."

Under this proposition the child and her mother would have been given $500,000 each under a quit claim agreement entered into at the time a Reno divorce was granted the couple. The child, under the agreement approved today, would receive $1,500,000 more, while Reynolds' posthumous son by Libby Holman Reynolds would receive $2,000,000, and the former Broadway torch singer would get approximately $500,000. The balance would be used to establish a charitable foundation.

Colorado to Vote on Dry Law Repeal on Sept. 16

Denver, Colo., May 9.—(AP)—A special election for selection of delegates to a constitutional convention on the question of ratification or rejection of repeal of the 18th amendment was approved by the Colorado house of representatives. The house set the date for the special election Sept. 16 and the convention date Oct. 4. Previously the senate had set the election June 29 and the convention Aug. 7. It was believed the senate would concur in the house amendments.

CROWE AND LINK WIN NEW DELAY IN SANITARY CASE

Lawyers Given More Time to Perfect Appeal.

A new delay was won yesterday by Timothy J. Crowe and Frank J. Link, former sanitary district trustees, who were convicted fifteen months ago of criminal conspiracy and sentenced from one to five years in the penitentiary. Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher granted a stay of mittimus until June 9, on the plea of counsel for the two men that they needed more time to perfect their appeal to the Appellate court.

On April 8, then 14 months after the trial, Judge Fisher, who was the trial judge along with Judges James J. Kelly and John Prystalski, before whom Crowe and Link were convicted in the Criminal court, signed the bill of exceptions filed by the two defendants. Their attorneys announced at that time that the appeal would proceed quickly.

Chief Counsel Out of City.

Yesterday, however, Attorney Edward H. Murnane, representing Crowe and Link, appeared before Judge Fisher. He said that he was appearing for Attorney John McInerney, who is chief counsel for the two men and who was in Springfield yesterday. Attorney Murnane announced that another extension of time was needed to complete preparations for the appeal. He asked for the stay of mittimus until June 9. Assistant State's Attorney Henry Seyfarth objected to the delay.

"These defendants already have been granted 15 months in which to prepare for their appeal," he said. "It is evident that these tactics are dilatory and calculated merely to delay matters for month to month.

"These defendants can take their appeal to the Appellate court now and within five days at the most they can obtain a writ of supersedeas which will automatically stay the evidence until the opinion of the higher court is given. Such a writ eventually will have to be allowed. Let them get it now and get the case out of the hands of the lower court."

Wants a 30 Day Stay.

Judge Fisher demanded why Attorney Murnane did not go ahead and perfect his appeal immediately. The attorney made no reply to the question. Judge Fisher then announced that he would grant the stay for thirty days.

Crowe and Link were convicted of a conspiracy to defraud the public. August W. Miller, a department head employed by the sanitary district while the two former trustees were in office, was also found guilty and sentenced to six months in the county jail and fined $2,000. Miller has not appealed his sentence. Three other former trustees indicted with Crowe and Link were found not guilty.

U. S. THREATENS NINE BELIEVED HIRED AS DRY LAW VICTIMS

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Nine men believed to have been hired by cordial shop men to plead guilty in prohibition cases, in place of actual defendants, and thus to serve short terms were adjudged in contempt of court today.

At the same time, Arthur H. Schwartz, assistant United States attorney, brought the men before the federal grand jury and compelled them under threat of imprisonment for long terms to reveal just how they had been induced to become proxies for cordial shop men. He also asked them if their appearance in that rôle was part of plot.

Federal Judge Goddard ordered that bonds of the original defendants be forfeited and announced he would impose sentences on the imposters on Monday.

YOUNG GIRL DIES IN 10 FLOOR LEAP INTO LOOP STREET

An unidentified girl about 16 years old plunged to her death yesterday afternoon from the tenth floor window of a loop department store at Madison and Dearborn streets. Her body struck in Dearborn street and narrowly missed a pedestrian walking on the sidewalk.

Employes of nearby office buildings saw the girl poise on the ledge and made frantic telephone calls to the store in an effort to stop her. She evidently had made her way through the furniture department to a stairway out of sight of employes. She opened the window, stepped to the ledge, and kicked off her shoes, which fell to the sidewalk below.

She was taken to the Iroquois hospital and pronounced dead by Dr. Thomas Leahy. She was dressed in a black tam, green sweater, black silk dress, blue cloth coat, black oxfords, and flesh colored stockings. She was about 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighed approximately 102 pounds. Her pocketbook, found by detectives on the ledge, contained three pennies, two keys, a pencil, a comb, mirror, compact, and rouge.

KELLY NAMES 3 NEW OFFICIALS IN HIS CABINET

Mayor Kelly last night confirmed reports that he would make appointments to three cabinet positions at the meeting of the city council today. Besides these appointments, five new members of the board of education will be named. Their names are being withheld until the council is in session.

The city appointments are: Martin H. McNally, real estate man, to the board of local improvements to succeed Ernest J. Kruetgen, appointed recently by Gov. Horner to the Illinois Commerce commission; Dr. David O. Jones to the position of city physician which he held under Mayor Dever, and former Ald. Frank H. Landmesser as commissioner of compensation. Landmesser will succeed Joseph H. Voss.

We will accept, until further notice, payroll identification and receipt vouchers of Cook County Employees, as well as City Corporate Employees.

FARLEY PRAISES LEADERSHIP OF ANTON J. CERMAK

City and State Officials at Memorial Rites.

The late Mayor Anton J. Cermak was hailed last night as the highest type of politician by Postmaster General James A. Farley, himself a practical politician. Mr. Farley was the main speaker at memorial services for the late mayor attended by a large audience in the Auditorium theater.

City and state officials attended the services and also made addresses. Patrick A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, presided. Yesterday was the sixtieth anniversary of Cermak's birthday and the many speakers lauded the man who was the victim of an assassin's bullet last March 7.

Cites Cermak's Rise.

"He was a politician," said Mr. Farley. "Not only that, but a deft, expert politician. He had risen in the political ranks just as he had risen in the commercial and industrial world. He led his party first in the precinct, then in the district, then in the city itself. Inevitably, he must have stepped from his party eminence in Illinois into the national field had he survived.

"It is a tough school, this school of politics that produced Mayor Cermak. Leaders of men are not accidental. They attain leadership by force of character and it takes a strong fellow to withstand the temptations of the long climb and the bitter battles out of which the chiefs emerge."

The speaker then outlined Cermak's early life, his poverty and his rise to political leadership.

"George Brennan brought Cermak into public life," he said. "The old master of midwest politics knew his pupil. Let me tell you that party leadership is neither a sinecure nor a dictatorship. A political captain continues in power only by the strength that resides in him.

Cermak Fits Specifications.

"I did not intend to deliver a lecture on the theory and practice of political philosophy as exemplified by the trials and tribulations of a party chieftain but I was led into it by the impressive manner in which the mayor squared with the indicated specifications."

Other speeches were made by Attorney General Kerner and Gov. Horner, who made a special trip from Springfield to attend the program and who returned to the state capitol immediately afterwards. Mayor Kelly also spoke.

"The work that Anton J. Cermak started on behalf of our city is not yet completed," Mayor Kelly said. "Mine is the great and honorable burden of carrying it on."

A musical program was presented by the Chicago Musicians' orchestra, conducted by H. Leopold Spitalny.

PRUSSIAN POLICE FORCE WELDED INTO NAZI UNIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 9.—Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier and Chancellor Hitler's right hand man, today turned the Prussian police force into a Nazi unit by forbidding policemen memberships in all associations except a professional association of Nazi "schupos." The officers will wear white helmets emblazoned with the Nazi swastika emblem.

Capt. Goering also ordered Prussian authorities to cease appointing special commissioners such as have been named for almost every phase of German life.

"The victory of the national revolution is complete," he said. "Its success in every field of life is secure. Consequently the appointment of special commissioners are no longer necessary. Only commissioners appointed by the supreme commanders of the Nazi storm troops or by the Prussian cabinet or by myself are entitled to act."

Bernhard Rust, Prussian minister of culture, today announced that schools from now on must "educate children politically." Eugenics and anthropology will also play an important part in the curriculum with emphasis placed on history especially on the achievements of the Nordic races.

ALDERMEN VOTE FOR CERMAK ROAD CAR LINE TO FAIR

The council local transportation committee yesterday recommended for passage an ordinance authorizing the extension of the Cermak road surface line tracks to the central entrance of A Century of Progress grounds. Action was deferred until today on a second ordinance providing for the extension to the exposition grounds of the Roosevelt road tracks.

Objections were raised by committee members to the section of the Roosevelt road ordinance that provides that the city must build a trestle and viaduct across the Illinois Central tracks at a cost of $135,000. Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the committee, met the objection with the statement that the payment would be made out of the traction fund.

"This fund belongs to the street car riders," Ald. Bowler said, "and so far they have gotten nothing out of it. I am in favor of paying the entire cost out of this fund in order to get the people to the exposition grounds."

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] announced that he would oppose the Roosevelt road ordinance unless the surface line's use of the viaduct is restricted to a certain period of time. He pointed out that the street car company had been allowed to put tracks along Lake Shore drive and that efforts to remove these tracks had been unsuccessful.

50,000 JEWS TO STAGE HITLER PROTEST TODAY

More than 50,000 Chicago Jews are expected to take part today in a parade and demonstration against persecution of their race by the governing National Socialist party in Germany. Jacob Siegel, managing editor of the Jewish Daily Forward, is in charge of the protest movement. The parade will start at Ashland avenue and Roosevelt road at 3 p. m. and the line of march is east on Roosevelt road to Michigan avenue, thence north in the boulevard to Congress street. In Grant park the marchers will congregate to hear speeches condemning the choice of Joseph Goebels, anti-Semite leader, as Germany's ambassador to A Century of Progress exposition. One of the speakers will be Paul Hutchinson, editor of the Christian Century.

KAISER BREAKS UP ROMANCE OF YOUNG PRINCE

Wedding to Commoner Is Reported Off.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, May 9.—Wilhelm von Hohenzollern's modern student prince romance has been blighted, according to high dignitaries of the former imperial court. They assert that plans for his wedding to 26 year old Dorothea von Salviati, a commoner, have been canceled.

Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, insists the wedding only has been postponed in order to give him and his fiancée a chance to marry quietly without attendant ballyhoo and the presence of a throng of curious outsiders.

Decide to Delay Wedding.

The wedding was to have been held in Bonn on Tuesday, May 16, but the curious began flocking to that city in such numbers that the prince and Fräulein von Salviati decided to postpone the ceremony. They agreed to keep the date a secret to all except their closest friends.

The truth of the matter is that the Hohenzollerns, particularly former Kaiser Wilhelm, the prince's grandfather, and the former Crown Princess Cecilie, his mother, are waging a bitter fight against the marriage because they regard Fräulein von Salviati an aristocrat of small rank and a person not entitled to become queen of Prussia or empress of Germany.

The conflict has been going on for two years. During this time, Prince Wilhelm spurned his mother's warnings and insisted that he would marry the girl, who is a descendant of an old Italian aristocratic family.

Mother's Tactics Fail.

The former crown princess did everything a fond mother does in these circumstances. She first induced her son's friends and then high German nobility to stage parties to distract the 26 year old prince's attention. When these tactics failed the former kaiser was brought into the dispute.

To lure Wilhelm away from Dorothea the former kaiser offered to pay the expenses of a world cruise, promising lavish funds for "incidentals," Prince Wilhelm refused.

Court dignitaries then turned to Fräulein Salviati's mother. They warned her that her daughter would be an unhappy bride in the knowledge that she was standing in the way of the "prince's future."

Now representatives of the ex-kaiser claim that his friends have at last succeeded in inducing Fräulein von Salviati to surrender her prince.

"I am modern—I'll choose my own wife," Prince Wilhelm said. "I won't let the old family traditions handicap me. If necessary I can work like anybody else. The wedding will take place soon but secretly."

9 U. S. STUDENTS BEATEN BY NAZI MOB IN AUSTRIA

Anti-Jewish Riots Break Out in Vienna.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, May 9.—Nine American students today charged that they had been beaten by Nazis in anti-Jewish rioting. They filed protests at the American consulate and gave their names as Isador Goodman, Henry Zanes, Nathan Shapiro, David Weinstock, Harry Diener, Harold Reifert, Maxwell Silbermann, Eli Starr, and Leonard Perlmutter.

The riots began at the Vienna Anatomical institute. Twelve persons were injured there. The disorders then spread to the University of Vienna.

Rescued by Firemen.

At the institute Jewish students rushed to the upper stories of the building to escape the attack of Nazis. They barricaded themselves and were rescued by firemen who placed ladders at the windows.

At the university crowds shouted "Down with the government!" and "Hail, Hitler!" Police were summoned and clashed with the rioters.

Meanwhile a threatened "air invasion" of Austria by leaders of Chancellor Hitler's National Socialist revolution in Germany has aroused the Socialist and government press. The "invasion" is scheduled for Saturday.

Not Welcome! Germans Told.

One of the visitors is expected to be Hans Kerrl, Prussian minister of justice. He is scheduled to speak on the coördination of the German and Austrian legal codes, but the semi-official Reichspost contends that the Germans are coming as Hitlerite agitators. The newspaper warns them that they are not welcome.

Chicago will come back FIRST!

because of its geographical location

CHICAGO is at the axis of the great central valley of the United States. It is at the head of the Great Lakes and Mississippi River waterway systems. It is the railroad center of America. Within approximately 300 miles of Chicago are the centers of manufacture, of farm value and of population.

Because of its strategic position, commerce and industry and people have steadily converged on Chicago. Its location will in time make it the first city in America. And because of these forces, in the recovery from depression Chicago will come back first.

Chicago's first newspaper is the Tribune. It has led and will continue to lead in influence on the social, political and economic development of Chicago and the Central States. As no other organ, party or individual, it has expressed convictions which have pervaded and dominated this territory in its growth to a population of over 12,000,000 people.

And today with 74% more daily circulation than any other Chicago newspaper it is the newspaper best able to aid advertisers get business in this great market.

DAY OF BOMBINGS TERRIFIES SPAIN; 8 SLAIN, 40 HURT

Red Mobs Roam Streets; Blow Up Convents.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, May 9.—The revolutionary general strike called yesterday by the syndicalists resulted today in an orgy of bombing and sabotage which took a toll of eight dead and 40 wounded.

Nearly every town in Spain saw its streets patrolled by police armed with rifles. Madrid has heard during the last 24 hours the detonations of at least one bomb each hour. A girl syndicalist in flight dropped one in the path of pursuing police this morning, killing one policeman and one of her comrades, and wounding nine other persons.

In other cities a virtual reign of terror prevailed. Street cars, convents, bridges, and buildings were bombed and burned. Attempts were made at Madrid and Barcelona to burn monasteries.

Three Convents Bombed.

At Burgos three convents and a church were bombed, with considerable damage but no casualties. This phase of the strike is causing the authorities considerable worry. Next Thursday is the second anniversary of the burning orgy which swept the country following the proclamation of the republic, and it is feared that radical elements are planning to observe it by repeating their exploits as a protest against the conservative opposition to the government.

Barcelona came in for a good share of today's terrorism. Mobs of syndicalists ran through the streets, spraying street cars with gasoline and touching matches to them. One group blew a street car up with dynamite. The Avenida theater and the Catalan headquarters were bombed. A civil guard and several syndicalists were wounded in street battles.

At Seville four street cars were dynamited after the passengers had been forced to alight.

Anarchists Seize Town.

The town of Badalona was seized for a time by anarchists, who blew up several railway bridges. The town was recaptured by civil guards after considerable damage had been done.

At Betanzos a mob robbed and beat up a priest and threatened to burn him alive. Several bombs were exploded at Coruna and at Ferrol the rectory was burned.

Despite all this, the government issued a communique saying the strike was a "complete failure."

The military rebellion which was to have accompanied the strike and the alleged leaders of which the government arrested yesterday has not yet appeared. Nevertheless, extreme precautions have been taken in all garrisons throughout the country. Officers who would normally be on duty tonight were replaced at the last minute in every garrison to frustrate any possible plan they might have.

Doubt Loyalty of Officers.

The loyalties to the republic of a very high percentage of officers is doubtful, but the non-coms are belligerately republican. They have been instructed to warn the troops against following their officers on early morning errands the nature of which is concealed.

Premier Azana in parliament today said that Gen. Miguel Goded, who was seized yesterday and immediately deported to the Canary islands, was the only general arrested, and he perfunctorily denied the existence of a monarchist plot. The Conservative element, which is popularly supposed to be involved in a carefully laid conspiracy to unseat Azana's republican-Socialist coalition by force now that their parliamentary filibuster has failed, pooh poohed the Premier's statement.

INTERURBAN CAR WRECKED.

Fortville, Ind., May 9.—[Special.]—An interurban car, traveling from Anderson to Indianapolis, was wrecked today near Dent Siding, a mile and a half east of here. Five passengers and the train crew escaped with only minor injury, although the car turned on its side. The accident was but a short distance from the spot where a head-on collision Feb. 2, 1924, killed twenty-one persons.

CALL PHYSICIAN FOR GANDHI ON 2D DAY OF FAST

POONA, India, May 9.—(AP)—A prominent Bombay physician was called here tonight to attend Mahatma Gandhi who developed symptoms of nausea during the second day of his three weeks' fast in protest against untouchability. The fragile, 63 year old political and spiritual leader reclined among pillows at the sumptuous home of a devoted follower, Lady Vittal Das Thackersey, after breakfasting on water.

A professional male nurse, Lady Thackersey, and Mme. Naidu, famous Hindu poetess, were near hi always, apprehensive of his health especially as the time for the severest hunger pangs approached. The Mahatma relished the glowing sunshine and his release from Veravda jail yesterday by governmental authorities. He announced voluntarily, he said, that he was suspending for a month the civil disobedience campaign against the government in connection with which he was jailed 16 months ago.

Gandhi slept three hours this afternoon and awoke considerably refreshed. He took only water during the day and told friends that he was quite hungry.

LESTER, 3, TAKES STROLL IN DAWN FOR HIS HEALTH

Lester Beall Jr., 3 years old, was placed in the keeping of his grandfather, Dr. Joseph L. Miller, 5315 Greenwood avenue, while his parents went visiting Monday evening. Early yesterday morning Lester decided that a walk would be good for his health, so he wrapped an overcoat over his pink pajamas and strode forth in his stocking feet into the dawn. He was found at 54th street and University avenue by W. P. Riley Jr., 1020 East 54th street, a watchman, who escorted him to the Hyde Park police station. There Lester was unable to tell more than his name. He went to sleep in the desk sergeant's chair while policemen telephoned his parents at their home, 7318 Ridgeland avenue.

10 POLISH CHIEFS WIN NEW TRIAL IN "REVOLT" CASE

High Court Rules Against Dictator Pilsudski.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, May 9.—Marshal Pilsudski, dictator of Poland, today suffered a setback in his effort to suppress his political opponents by confining them in prison.

The Supreme court annulled the verdict of guilty against ten former deputies and former cabinet ministers who were tried more than a year ago on charges of plotting to overthrow the government.

The ten men had been sentenced to prison terms ranging from eighteen months to three years at hard labor. The Supreme court ruled that the case must be tried again before a different tribunal.

Former Premier Sentenced.

The trial of these enemies of Dictator Pilsudski was considered the greatest political trial in the history of modern Poland because of the prominence of the men involved. They included Vincente Witos, three times premier and one of the heroes in saving Poland from bolshevism in 1920. Witos was sentenced to eighteen months at hard labor.

Among the other leaders sentenced were Ladislas Kiernicki, former minister of the interior and a leader of the Polish Peasant party; Herman Lieberman, who as attorney general successfully prosecuted Pilsudski's former minister of finance, Czechowicz, and Norbert Balicki, former minister of public works.

Tried on Many Charges.

The men were tried on charges of organizing a plot to overthrow the Pilsudski government between 1928 and 1930; inciting the public to disobey the government and to withhold taxes; forming revolutionary centers and arming peasants and workmen; creating a central revolutionary organization which demanded President Moscicki's resignation, and mobilizing the masses for a march on Warsaw.

The defendants were arrested in August, 1930, and for fourteen months were confined in the military fortress at Brest-Litovsk before being brought to trial. During this period, their supporters charged, the were subjected to extreme hardships and mistreatment. Seven of them were elected to parliament while in prison.

President Moscicki today took the oath of office to succeed himself to the presidency. He was reëlected by parliament yesterday. Premier Prystor submitted the resignation of the cabinet, Moscicki accepted the resignation, but asked the ministers to continue in office for the time being.

Ex-Secretary Ogden Mills Buys Railroad in Nevada

Carson City, Nev., May 9.—(AP)—The sale of controlling interest in the Virginia and Truckee railway to Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury, was announced by road officials here tonight. The concern has been owned in recent years by the Mills and Sharon estates. The sale price was not announced. The road runs between Reno and Virginia City.

U. S. SEEKS FAIR, FRIENDLY TRADE, DANIELS SAYS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, May 9.—Ambassador and Mrs. Josephus Daniels were welcomed to Mexico tonight at a dinner at the Churubusco Country club by a gathering representative of all phases of American life here.

Mr. Daniels, declaring President Roosevelt and the American congress and people were seeking a policy to "restore fair, friendly, and normal trade," said in part:

"On my arrival in this republic I find President Rodriguez and the people of Mexico likewise deeply interested in economic recovery by the stabilization of currency and the freer exchange of farm products and those of the factory and the mines. Both countries look in the same direction to the road away from international isolation.

"President Roosevelt has come to the White House under solemn pledges to give his country what he called the 'new deal.' He has shown more regard for results than for archaic traditions or even fairly modern traditions."

BANDITS FREED BY SHURTLEFF PLEAD TO BEGIN TERMS

Carl Parker, 27 years old, and Stanley Wilson, 20, who had been released after robbery sentences in 1931, when Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Marengo county intervened for them, yesterday asked Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to send them to Pontiac reformatory immediately.

Since the disclosure of their release they have been in the county jail and have received no credit on their sentences of from one year to life. Judge Prystalski set May 18 for a hearing on a motion to nol pros new charges against them. Parker is a nephew of Judge Carl G. Sherwood of Clark, S. D. Judge Clark had asked Judge Shurtleff to recommend clemency for the youths.

WOMAN DIES OF KNIFE WOUNDS.

Akron, O., May 9.—(AP)—Miss Clara Brickman, 38, died last night from knife wounds received nearly a month ago and James Goodin, 53, of Cisco, Ill., her former employer, will be charged with murder, police said today.

DUTCH ORDER PERU WARSHIPS TO LEAVE PORT

WILLEMSTAD, Dutch West Indies, May 9.—(AP)—A Peruvian cruiser and two submarines which were taking on supplies at Caracas bay before proceeding to the upper Amazon country were ordered today to leave. So unexpected was the order that the ships had to leave without a full water supply.

League to Protest Action.

GENEVA, May 9.—(AP)—The league of nations advisory committee decided today to send a letter to Peru emphasizing that it would be undesirable to allow a fleet of three Peruvian warships to proceed up the Amazon river because such action might interfere with the settlement of the Leticia border warfare between Colombia and Peru.

The Dutch representative informed the committee that Holland had given the fleet oil and food at Willemstad, Dutch West Indies, believing that such action was justified by the distress of the ships.

15 CENTS A DAY

Now buys a FULL-SIZED FULL-POWERED

KELVINATOR

WHEN you see this beautiful Kelvinator you will realize that here is the electric refrigerator you will be proud to own, at a price you will be glad to pay!

Only 15c a day

During the month of May, you can buy this full-sized, full-powered, standard 1933 model Kelvinator for only 15 cents a day—a sum so small that you can easily save enough through quantity buying and through the elimination of food spoilage and waste to pay for it.

Price May Go Up!

The remarkably low price of $98.00 (installed) is guaranteed only until material costs go up. When they do—and business authorities agree that further price increases may be expected—the price of this Kelvinator goes up, because Kelvinator will not cheapen the product to meet a low price.

Many Features

This beautiful model is a genuine, quality-built, full-sized Kelvinator, with feature after feature you will want in your electric refrigerator. It has a Temperature Selector with 8 freezing speeds; the KeepCold Defroster; rust-proof, bar type shelves; Table Top; one-piece porcelain interior; chrome hardware; the same time-tested and proved power plant forund in the larger, more expensive Kelvinators; and many other important features.

UNTIL MATERIAL COSTS GO UP!

FREE INSTALLATION
FEDERAL TAX PAID
STANDARD GUARANTEE

Don't Delay

See it soon—before the price goes up and while you can enjoy the liberal easy payment plan of only 15 cents a day. Don't wait. Take advantage of the present low price and enjoy your Kelvinator while it pays for itself.

THINGS We Might Have Done—But Didn't

We could have offered you a new, untried refrigerator, deliberately built down to this $98.00 price. We didn't.

We could have adopted a cheaper type of power plant. We didn't. The mechanical unit is of exactly the same type as that in the biggest, highest priced Kelvinator.

We could have used a smaller, less powerful motor and compressor. By running all the time, or most of the time, such a power unit would have provided a certain degree of refrigeration. It would have cost us less to build. But it would have cost you a lot more in the long run since a machine that runs only a third of the time will last a lot longer than one that runs continuously. We did not compromise.

We could have built a smaller cabinet, with less insulation. We didn't. This model is full size.

We could have cheapened, substituted, reduced size, power and capacity—to meet a price. We didn't. Instead, we offered you our kind of a refrigerator—a Standard 1933 Kelvinator—at your price.

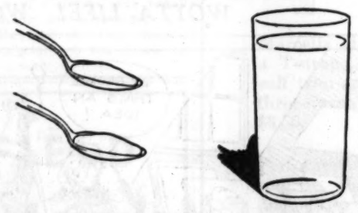
WHAT STOMACH ACIDITY IS AND WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT

A Few Simple Rules

THE SIGNS OF ACID STOMACH

Nervousness	Sour Stomach	Loss of Appetite
Neuralgia	Mouth Acidity	Frequent Headaches
Indigestion	Nausea	Feeling of Weakness
Auto-intoxication		Sleeplessness

WHAT TO DO FOR IT



TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

It usually makes itself felt in headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

What This Does

That's all you do. But you do it regularly, EVERY DAY, so long as you have any symptoms of distress.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy.

Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Neutralizes Food and Tobacco Acids a few minutes after taking.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A COLLECTOR WHO DOESN'T COLLECT.

From the office of County Collector McDonough have issued columns of ballyhoo telling just how the collector was going to take advantage of the new Skarda law to bring in the delinquent taxes. He was going to file thousands of suits for tax receiverships. He even listed some fifty properties against which the first suits were to be instituted. After about a fortnight of this kind of thing an effort was made to discover just what Mr. McDonough had really done. The facts are ludicrous. Four suits had been filed and small down payments had been accepted on a few other bills. And that was all.

Only two conclusions are possible in the light of the facts. Either Mr. McDonough is so lacking in executive force that he can't get his orders carried out and is therefore utterly unfit to hold any office, or he doesn't want to get the taxes collected and is therefore the last man in Cook county who ought to be occupying the chair of the county collector. A collector who can't or won't collect is something this county can get along without for some time to come.

The policemen, firemen, teachers and other public servants whose pay has not been forthcoming can now blame Mr. McDonough for a large share of their troubles. The owners of defaulted bonds of the local governments can also blame him. The debts of the governments cannot be paid if the taxes do not come in, and until the taxes come in and the old debts are retired it is going to be extremely difficult for the governments to borrow any additional sums to meet current bills. McDonough knows that if he knows anything, yet he has failed to take the action which he himself has outlined as the proper course.

It is just possible that he isn't applying pressure to the delinquents because, as a politician, he fears to make enemies and prefers to make friends. Whatever the reason, McDonough is entitled to about one more week in which to get results. If he doesn't deliver by that time steps must be instituted to replace him with some one possessed of greater force, greater determination, and some sense of the responsibilities of public office.

FUTILE JUSTICE.

The record of a notorious gangster who, it is reported, will shortly have further attention of the state's attorney's office, deserves consideration beyond the official precincts. In 1919 he was convicted and sentenced to Joliet for robbery. In 1924 he was paroled and in 1925 discharged from parole. A few months later he was arrested for robbery in Kansas City. Local records do not show the disposition of this charge. The next year he was tried in Chicago for robbery but was not convicted, and one year later, 1927, he was tried for murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. Two years later, 1929, this sentence was reversed and a new trial ordered, upon which in 1931 he was again convicted and this time was sentenced to 14 years' imprisonment. In 1931 this sentence in turn was reversed and a third trial ordered, and a year and three months later the case was nol-prossed. He was arrested for carrying concealed weapons in 1930; the charge stricken off later was reinstated in March and is now pending.

We cannot here examine the legal procedure of which this individual has been the subject and finally the beneficiary, or attempt to fix responsibility for results. But the general picture is one of ineffectuality in the process of justice somewhere along the line. A persistent malefactor, while subjected to inconvenience and expense, has been able on the whole to evade the more serious penalties and it is not surprising that his experience with the law, irksome as it has seemed, no doubt, to him, has not yet resulted in discouraging him in his chosen way of life.

The picture is significant because it is familiar. There are so many like it. The principal explanation of criminal statistics in this country lies in them. The solution of the problem of organized criminality must deal with slack police work, incompetent or corruptly compliant prosecution, inadequacies in administration of the law and in the laws themselves, and the allied operations of crime and corrupt politics.

But the gist of the matter is a languid citizenship, unwilling to trouble itself with the competent choice of political representatives and the alert criticism of official conduct.

MR. ICKES AND HIS COLLEAGUES.

The secretary of the interior, Mr. Ickes, finds that all the bids for cement to be used in constructing the Hoover dam are substantially identical. They are 20 cents a barrel higher than the government was asked to pay a few months ago. Mr. Ickes scents a conspiracy on the part of the cement manufacturers and observes that the more money the government must spend for cement the less will be left for wages.

Mr. Ickes' indignation is, perhaps, not without warrant, but it is interesting to observe that his colleague, Mr. Wallace, the secretary of agriculture, is scarcely in a position to share it. Mr. Wallace has demanded of congress the right to do precisely the thing which Mr. Ickes resents and to do it on a scale vastly greater. Mr. Wallace proposes arbitrarily to fix the prices of the principal farm products and to tax the American consumer to achieve his end. It has been estimated that the tax will amount to 800 million dollars a year, but perhaps this figure is now too large in view of the recent rise in the commodity markets. Maybe a fairer estimate would be half a billion a year. Just as the money which the government spends unnecessarily for cement will, as Mr. Ickes says, reduce the government's power to provide employment, so Mr. Wallace's rigged prices for farm products will reduce the power of the American people to buy other things and therefore provide employment. The principal difference between an arbitrary price for cement and an arbitrary price for farm products is one of degree. Mr. Ickes says the Hoover dam requires 3½ million barrels of cement. If the price is 20 cents a barrel too high the taxpayers are being gypped to the extent of $700,000. If Mr. Ickes disapproves of that, what can he say of a proposal to take half a billion a year from the same taxpayers from now on?

Before Mr. Ickes goes much further in his protest he might well take time to consult another colleague, Mr. Roper, the secretary of commerce. He will find that Mr. Roper at the moment is occupied with drafting a bill which would authorize men to make and enforce trade agreements governing wages, working conditions and production. Nothing is said about agreements regarding prices, but it is difficult to see how the quantity of production of cement, for example, can be determined without a pretty careful consideration of price. Certainly there can be no point in restricting production if it does not result in higher prices, and the degree of restriction determined upon will be decided in the light of its effect on prices.

Mr. Ickes in the rôle of consumer does not like price fixing by agreement among producers. He does not charge that the price quoted by the various mills is giving them excessive profits. For all he knows, the mills may be operating at a loss. He feels, merely, that he is not getting a fair break and so does every one else who finds himself unable, because of arbitrary restrictions, to obtain the best price which the most efficient producer can afford to make. The Sherman act was passed in response to the widespread indignation of consumers against just such practices as Mr. Ickes is now complaining of. It is possible that, if Mr. Ickes' colleagues have their way, history will repeat itself.

FACING THE FACT OF REPUDIATION.

The adult mind ought to be able to face realities and ought not to be terrified by words. Accordingly, when the adult mind comes to the conclusion that the United States government has repudiated its written obligations it ought not to try to conceal the fact under some euphemism. That the government has failed to fulfill its obligations to holders of its bonds and notes there can be no doubt. The government had agreed to pay the interest and the principal, when due, in gold if desired. It has not done so and for some time to come will not do so. The fact has recently been presented in dramatic form in the decision not to pay the foreign holders of our obligations in anything but paper money.

It can easily be shown that the refusal to pay in gold or even in the current equivalent of gold was expedient and many observers would go farther and say that this repudiation was not only expedient but necessary. Yet when all this has been said the fact remains that the failure of the government to carry out its contract to the letter is humiliating to those who take pride in the financial integrity of their government. If such incidents are not to be repeated the policies which led up to the repudiation must not be repeated.

The obligations of the United States might have been met to the satisfaction of the most scrupulous save for the immense floating debt that has been accumulated in recent years. That debt is the visible symbol of the accumulating deficits of the government, caused by its extravagances. Short-term paper was issued to meet the bills which the government had contracted in excess of its income.

The government, like an individual, can fulfill its obligations if they are in moderate amount. Governments, like individuals, can only repudiate when their debts become unreasonably large. The moral is clear. If the United States government is to avoid further repudiations it can do so only by curbing its expenditures. Nothing is gained by attempting to conceal the excess of outgo over income by accounting methods. If the government undertakes to borrow and spend billions on futile public works like the Tennessee valley scheme there must be further repudiations either of the letter or the spirit of federal obligations.

REDUCING GOVERNMENT.

[Topeka Daily Capital.]

One thing widely discussed for the last year and more in Kansas which the late legislature ignored in its progressive and constructive program is consolidation of county government and likewise of school districts. The latter is practicable at any time, and the sooner the better, but there are tough problems connected with county consolidation.

In Wisconsin, however, a bill was introduced in the legislature for county consolidation, and two counties, Pepin and Buffalo, are talking of taking advantage of it. The county jail and courthouse of Pepin county have to be replaced at considerable cost, so county officials of the county looked into the advantages or otherwise of combining with the neighboring county. They found that county costs of operation could be reduced $18,000 a year by having one instead of two sets of county officers and that no interests of the county would be adversely affected.

The question will be put up to the people to decide in a referendum.

In Kansas consolidations do not require amending the constitution, the legislature having authority to make and alter county lines. No legislature, however, would undertake to do so in any case without submitting the issue to vote of the counties concerned.

COURTESY PAYS even in small things. A gunman was holding up a restaurant keeper in Chicago. The restaurant man put up his hands very meekly when requested, but when the robber in searching him called him a big cheese the restaurant man got mad and, seizing the robber's gun, beat him with it until the police arrived. Thus we see that true politeness is best even when committing a robbery.

THE PICTURES of the summit of Mount Everest made by the first aviators to fly over it are being published and one look at 'em convinces us they're all wrong. And why? There are no tourist boarding houses shown, no Gifte Shoppes, and not a single iced drink and hot dog stand. And not one single gas station. Nature fakers! Nature fakers!

"FRENCH SPURN U. S. Debt Proposals."—Headline. They may spurn—they've done that any number of times—but they're not really mad at the U. S. A. When they get mad they tear down the Column Vendome and stand in front of the American ambassador's house, sing the "Marseillaise," and heave rocks at the buildings. And former American ambassadors who have been through the experience say they would much rather have 'em heave rocks at the building, as they don't know the words to the "Marseillaise" and sing it "la la la, la la la," like Americans singing the "Star-Spangled Banner."

FAIRY STORY.

"Happy-ever-after,"—
And "Once-upon-a-time."
That is all the story.
That is all the sunny climb
Up this hill and that hill,
With the wind in your face.
That is all the story
Of the dark lonely place
Where you found yourself once
In a stillness like a well.
There were other things beside,
But they're things you'll never tell:
Of leaves left over from the raking;
Of winter berries on the rose;
Little things you'd hardly notice,—
Things like deer-prints on the snows;
Things like polish on old wood,
And a zinnia deep in weeds;
The blue of the lake one morning;
And the manifold doughty deeds
Of knights who braced their lances
In a book you had in school;
The gray swathes of a fog;
And cat-tails by a pool.
"Happy-ever-after,"—and the rest
You forget,—or perhaps you never knew,
You say, "Once-upon-a-time."
And that's all you say. You're through.

AND, FURTHERMORE, before any of us attempt to cultivate an inward calm which the aged Chinese gentleman said was all that was necessary to live to be a hundred years old, we must consider the physical difference between China and the United States. In China they attain an inward calm by going out and sitting day after day on their grandfather's grave. But in China the ground is a light, dry, sandy soil, and one can roost around on his grandfather's grave and have a perfectly grand time all he pleases, but over here our graveyards are dank and gloomy and if one spent his time sitting on his grandfather's grave he would get pneumonia or rheumatism if the police didn't grab him and throw him in the hoosegow. Besides, the interesting question comes up, Is the possession of an inward calm the best thing for a nation? The Chinese have an inward calm and the Japs push 'em around all over the place. And what's the use of an inward calm if you're only two jumps ahead of a Japanese bayonet?

THE SEASONS.

Across the years I see a wintry storm,
The angry waves, the ragged sky, the dark;
And all my fortunes tossed in one small bark.
But ah, that little bark was taut and warm;
Love journeyed with me in his coziest form,
And I rode snugly at the tempest's core,
Laughing at gales from sea and squalls off-shore,
For, east or west, no wind could blow me harm.

It is mid-summer now. On land and sea
The golden haze hangs moveless in midair.
The skies are soft and friendly. Everywhere
Are light and warmth and bright serenity—
Save in my heart. 'Tis bleak midwinter there,
Since Love no longer voyages with me.

PERNICIOUS ANEMIA AND IRON.

PERNICIOUS anemia is often complicated by disease of the spinal cord. The sick person suffers pain in various parts of the body, or peculiar and unpleasant but not harmful sensations in many places. Disturbance of locomotion is likely to go hand in hand with those of sensation. He is unable to balance himself in standing and he falls easily. He has various disorders of gait, or he loses his ability to walk.

The soles of his feet may become numb, as in locomotor ataxia, causing loss of balance. There are not many disorders of the spinal cord that are not matched at some time or other by the secondary changes in the spinal cord associated with pernicious anemia. Most of us think of cord involvement as being found in no form of anemia except that which commonly goes by the name pernicious, or primary. There is good ground for this, though in rare instances nerve changes are encountered in other forms of severe anemia. In these secondary anemias it may be that whatever is operating to cause the anemia is also acting on the nerves somewhere.

Dr. William Sargent is of the opinion that very large doses of iron are a specific for the diseases of the spinal cord and nerves which accompany the severe anemias, and particularly primary or pernicious anemia, which he and many others anxious to get away from the name pernicious call Addisonian anemia.

He gives Blaud's mass, the iron compound out of which the pills of that name are made. The daily dosage ranges from 40 to 150 grains. Most people who take this medicine limit their dose to 15 grains a day.

In a certain number of cases he found that in the third week of iron the nerve symptoms began to improve noticeably and the case progressed to cure, so far as these symptoms were concerned.

To get such action as this the treatment must be begun fairly early. He makes no claim that the treatment will cure advanced cases of cord disease where the nerves are already dead. In Addisonian anemia the liver treatment is proving very satisfactory. Persons with the disease who have taken this treatment are still at work and in reasonably good health after about ten years. But the liver treatment somehow failed to overcome cord symptoms when these were present. This, then, is a treatment to be used in addition to the liver treatment in those cases of Addisonian anemia that are developing symptoms that show involvement of the spinal cord.

AVOIDING CRAMPS.

Dr. J. D. B. writes: To prevent night cramps of the legs in old or young people: Before retiring for the night stand before the bed and make the muscles of the legs from the thigh to the toes as rigid as possible, and hold them rigid for about ten seconds before relaxing. Repeat this at least three times, and each time make the muscles as rigid as possible. To those accustomed to what is called writer's cramp, whether from holding a book or writing, following the above method of making the arms and fingers rigid before starting to write means good-by cramps.

1. It may be.
2. It might be a fibroma, a cyst, or the result of an old inflammation.
3. Early cancer causes almost no change in sensation. Pain is a symptom of late cancer.

UNIMPROVED STREET.

Chicago, May 7.—[Friend of the People.]—I live in the 3000 block on North Octavia avenue. The street in this block is in terrible condition. It is almost impossible to get through with a car. In fact, autos sink to the hub caps in the mud. Could you ask the city to dump a few loads of cinders on this street? L. J. K.

Report is made that North Octavia avenue is an unimproved thoroughfare in which there is no sewer, and will not permit of any filling as it is now considerably above grade. The installation of a sewer and the improvement of the roadway by paving is the only relief for present conditions.

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 10, 1893.

CHICAGO.—Two of the four elevators in the north end of the Manufactures building at the World's Fair will be in running order today, though passengers will not be carried to the roof for some days. The elevators run to the height of 185 feet, making the trip in a little less than one minute. A flight of stairs will lead from the top landing of the elevator to the roof, where there is to be a promenade extending around the entire building, giving a view of the lake, of the grounds at Jackson park, and of the city. Fifty cents is to be the charge for riding up and down in these elevators.

The earl and countess of Aberdeen and the members of the committee of the Irish Industries association have issued invitations for a private view of the Irish Industrial village, from 2 to 5 o'clock today. A special program has been arranged, including addresses and music.

The material for the Samoan village arrived on the grounds and the islanders who have been living in tents on their grounds will begin the construction work today. It took the material about as long to get from Chicago to Jackson park as it did from Samoa to Chicago.

Complaints are made along the Plaisance of attractions being overrun by Columbian guards, who "dead head" into the different shows when off duty. Several of them were requested to leave Herr Hagenbeck's show yesterday because they had sought admission by a rear door.

The gates of the exposition will be closed nights until next Saturday, May 13. This is an official announcement as visitors will not be admitted until then. While the illumination Monday [May 8] was pronounced grand it will be surpassed Saturday because then the electric fountains will play. So many unforeseen things have happened to retard the working of the electric light plant that it was determined to take no more chances until all is in readiness.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 10, 1917.

THE WAR.—(Abroad.)—London reports that part of the ground lost in the vicinity of Fresnoy was regained by the British last night. Further German counter attacks were repulsed. Paris reports gain in local operations to northwest of Reims. French carry 1,200 yards of German trenches near Chevreux. Berlin reports German and Bulgarian troops administered a severe defeat upon entente forces in Macedonia. Petrograd reports that Russian troops on the Rumanian front northwest of Senne broke through the Teuton positions and advanced towards Janawer. Bethmann-Hollweg is expected to give new German peace terms in reichstag on May 14.

THE WAR.—(United States.)—Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo issues statement giving all details in regard to issue of the Liberty loan. President Wilson warns congress leaders that delay in war preparations means added cost of lives and treasure and urges speedy passage of shipping and army bills.

LONDON.—Today's admiralty report of last week's U-boat toll shows a total of 62 British ships sunk. This makes 414 British ships sunk in the ten weeks ending yesterday. During the debate in the commons George Lambert, former civil lord of the admiralty, declared that some day the British public would wake up to the gravity of the submarine peril. He added that Premier Lloyd George had offered him a post in the government which he had refused because he was dissatisfied with the manner in which the admiralty was dealing with the submarines and the national position generally.

NEW YORK.—An armed American line steamship which arrived here last night from a European port reported that its gun crew fired six shots at a German submarine off the coast of Ireland on May 2. The undersea boat immediately submerged. Whether it was hit or not is not known.

PARIS.—The Stars and Stripes appeared on the streets of Paris as the battle flag of an armed force yesterday when the flag and fifty men of the American field service under it on their way to the railroad station for the front were acclaimed enthusiastically by early risers all along the route.

CHICAGO.—Edward A. Cudahy Jr., vice president of the Cudahy Packing company, has enlisted in the coast artillery. He will fit himself for his new military duties in the training camp which opens May 14 at Fort Sheridan.

AUTHORIZATION FOR THE DIVERSION.

Chicago, May 4.—I read with interest the letter by Judge O'Connor regarding the curtailment of water flow through the sanitary canal and think the judge brought out some very sensible arguments.

I am not a lawyer, perhaps am not competent to judge rightly in this matter, and was not a resident of Chicago at the time this work was begun, but it would seem as though permission must have been obtained from the war department to construct this canal, and upon certain conditions before the work could even be started. This being true, or assumed, it would seem as though this permit should be irrevocable and not even subject to modification later, whether the flow of water lowered the level of the lakes or not.

AUTOMOBILE THIEVERY.

Chicago, May 5.—Dealers in stolen auto parts are numerous and rampant. They boldly flaunt their illicit business before the eyes of officials and citizens. They are the untouchables in our community. There will be no successful appeal from this immunity until it is stamped out by organized society. It is true that automobile owners are feeling the effects of automobile thievery in advanced premiums for this kind of hazard. As you say, the increase in this specific hazard has been from 15 to 100 per cent. That is no satisfaction to the average citizen or the insurance companies. But worse is yet to come. If this systematized, protected thievery is permitted much longer it will be impossible to secure any kind of insurance covering this particular hazard. When that time comes automobile ownership for the average citizen will practically cease.

Treat automobile thieves like horse thieves of old, and, verily, I say to you, peace and happiness will be the result.

TOO MANY TEACHERS IN TRAINING.

Bloomington, Ill., May 3.—The state of Illinois maintains five free normal schools besides Chicago Normal, supported by the city of Chicago. Last year these institutions trained more than twice the number of teachers needed in the public schools at a cost of some $300 each per year, or $1,200 for a four year course. One wonders if this waste of public funds is really necessary. May I suggest that the free normal schools select among the best qualified applicants for admission only as many as the state is likely to need and let the others pay for their own training in private colleges? A SKIRT BOUGHT IN '93.

Chicago, May 4.—The World's Fair of 1893 brought valuable products from all over the world, which people not only saw but bought. I have woolen material imported from India which was purchased at the fair for my mother, then a little girl, and which she wore as a dress. I am now wearing the same material, good as ever, made into a skirt. The cloth is dark red shot through with wiry silk threads of black and gold.

MRS. J. S. T.

THE NORMAL COLLEGE.

Chicago, May 5.—Our group cannot see why the board of education's economists persist in their efforts to close the Normal college, since the saving will be so small.

Any one familiar with the campus situation knows that the building which houses the 800 Normal students also accommodates an equal number of Parker High students. The lunchroom, library, study halls, and assembly hall are used in common. No money can be saved on maintenance or janitorial service.

The maintenance of the college and high school rooms is included in the $200,000 college budget, which has been cut from $500,000 already. The faculty would be retained because of tenure laws.

We can't see that the saving would be worth throwing 800 students into the streets at the price of untrained or outside teachers for Chicago schools, especially in view of the fact that the small home owner has paid his taxes. Is public education to be eliminated because of the big tax striker while public officials stand by? EDMUND KUBIK.

WHERE ST. MARY'S WAS AND IS.

Chicago, May 5.—Notwithstanding the surprise of E. W. Murray, it is historically accurate to say, as you did in your sketch of Old St. Mary's, that the original building was for a time located at Madison street and Michigan avenue. When the site on which it was first located was sold the frame building was removed to a lot on Madison at Michigan avenue, where it served as a church until May, 1844, when the brick structure at Wabash and Madison was completed. We, however, are "very much surprised" to find your correspondent, E. W. Murray, locating the present St. Mary's at Tenth and Wabash, for the seemingly valid reason that it is located at Ninth and that there is no Tenth and Wabash. Eldredge court became Ninth street. J. J. D.

DISARMAMENT AND THE SOVIETS.

Chicago, May 4.—The agitation for recognition of the soviets at this time is particularly significant in view of the accompanying propaganda for reduction of our military and naval establishments.

The forces behind the one have been always equally insistent on the other, although the greatest military establishment on earth is maintained by Russia in spite of the fact that its people are practically facing starvation.

The recent movement in congress to reduce the size of our army, eliminating the citizens' military training camps and withdrawing support from the Reserve Officers' Training corps in high schools and universities, will at one stroke destroy the result of years of effort.

DISRAELI ON DEMOCRACY.

Chicago, May 4.—In 1859 Disraeli said in parliament: "If you establish a democracy you must in due season reap the fruits of a democracy—extravagant expenditure, discontent in meeting it, rash wars, humiliating treaties, insecurity of property and of liberty—the whole culminating in a reaction to despotism." Truer words were never spoken; we are now reaping the fruits.

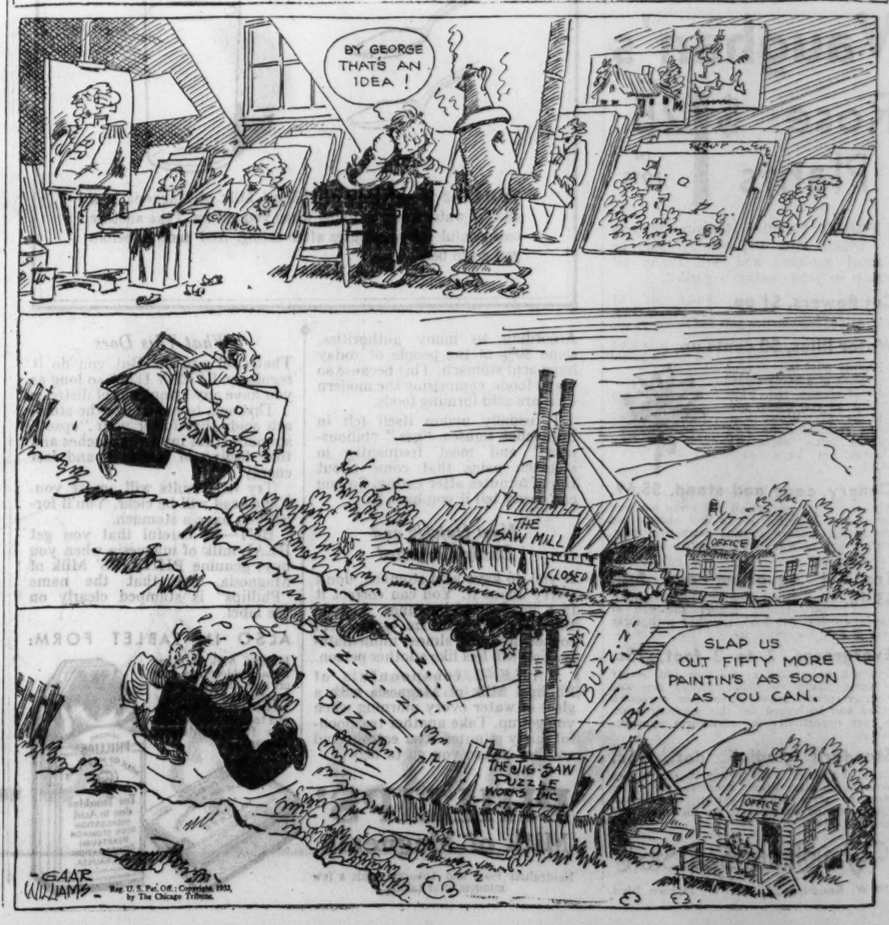
WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!



TELLS HOW BOY OF 16 STABS HIS ENEMY TO DEATH

Witness Says Defendant Put Tattler on Spot.

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—Harry Murch, 16 year old school boy, sat calmly in Queens county court today and heard 10 year old Johnny Miller describe the murder of William Bender, 12, for whose slaying young Murch is on trial.

The witness said he and Harry attended the same public school, that they had met in front of a neighborhood butcher store on the afternoon of the crime, Jan. 31.

"Harry said he was going to get the Bender boy for letting on all around that he [Harry] hit a lady over the head and took her money." The witness said, "He says to me if I didn't go along with him he'd do the same thing to me."

The witness then told how Harry had procured some cloth and rope from an old basket in a garage. On the way, he said, Harry drew a knife and declared, "This is the knife we're going to pull the job with." He identified the knife and its case.

Argues with His Victims.

They encountered the intended victim, Johnny Went on, and told him that they were going to kill a peanut vender. They went to a vacant house for rehearsals. Johnnie said he let Harry tie his legs and arms. Then Harry wanted to "rehearse" with William as the victim.

According to the young witness, "Harry says to William, 'You'll let us try it out on you, won't you?' and William says, 'Yes.' William says, 'When you get me tied, you're going to throw me out the window,' and Harry says, 'What'sa matter, don't you believe me?' and William says, 'Sure, I believe you. Go ahead'."

William sat on the floor and permitted his limbs to be tied, his mouth to be gagged and his eyes blindfolded. The witness proceeded:

"Harry says, 'Let's see if you can yell,' and William yelled.

Tightens Up Blindfold.

"Harry fixed him a little tighter and says, 'Now let's see if you can yell,' and William he yelled a little fainter. Harry took out his knife and says, 'I'll put my finger where we're going to stab the peanut man," and he took the knife and stabbed him through the heart."

Johnny said that when he realized that Harry had actually stuck the knife into William's chest he started into the street and yelled "Help" but Harry overtook him and made him accompany him to the Miller home. There the boy said his sister, Grace Miller, 13, was told of the stabbing. The girl as a witness corroborated much of her brother's testimony.

Prosecutor James Conroy in his opening remarks failed to disclose whether he would demand death in the electric chair. The boys defense is expected to be that he is mentally irresponsible.

INVESTOR FILES CHARGES AGAINST STRAUS CO. HEADS

Melvin L. Straus, a partner in the firm of S. W. Straus & Co., was charged with conspiracy to gain control of the Adams-Franklin building, 222 West Adams street, of which he is trustee, in an intervening petition filed yesterday before Circuit Judge Hugo Friend. The petition asks that Straus be removed as trustee, that a receiver be appointed, and that the decree of foreclosure sale entered last April 19 be set aside. Judge Friend granted Straus 10 days in which to file an answer.

The petitioner is Mrs. Bridget E. Foley, who holds $8,500 worth of bonds issued on the building. She charged that Arthur W. Straus, Melvin L. Straus, and "other persons financially interested in S. W. Straus & Co." sought to depress the market price of bonds on the building. Having done this, the petition related, they proceeded to buy up the bonds and stock in the building corporation.

EX-JOCKEY ADMITS SLAYING.

Harrisburg, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Henry Mayberry, 19, ex-jockey from McLeansboro, Ill., today confessed that he shot and killed Bill Smith, Negro, Sunday night in East Harrisburg. Mayberry said that Smith had beaten him with a pistol Saturday night and had threatened to kill him.

MAN FOUND GUILTY OF SACK SLAYING OF GIRL; GETS 90 YEARS

MAURICE MEYER

Rock Island, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—Maurice Meyer, 27, was found guilty today by Judge Leonard E. Telleen in Rock Island county Circuit court of the sack murder of Miss Rose Gendler, 22, department store clerk and lifelong acquaintance of the defendant.

Meyer's penalty was fixed at 90 years. Execution of sentence was deferred pending probable appeal. The case was heard without a jury.

The body of Miss Gendler, trussed and strangled, was discovered Dec. 22, 1932, on the ice of Rock river under the Moline high bridge a few hours after a ransom note demanding $2,000 was found pinned to the door of her home here.

STEVENSES LOSE MOTION TO QUASH FRAUD CHARGES

Judge to Set Trial Date May 22.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan, in the Criminal court yesterday, overruled the defense motions to quash the indictments against James W. Stevens, 79 years old, former president of the defunct Illinois Life Insurance company, and his son, Ernest J. Stevens, a former official of the insurance company and former head of the Stevens and La Salle hotels.

The Stevenses are charged with the embezzlement of $1,000,000 and conspiracy to wreck the insurance company, which is now in receivership. After the judge's ruling, Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy asked for an early trial. Judge Sullivan granted the motion of Attorney Jay Fred Reeve of defense counsel for a bill of particulars by the state, outlining the prosecution's evidence. The state was given 10 days to prepare the bill, and Judge Sullivan announced he would set the trial date on May 22.

Elder Stevens Ill.

The elder Stevens was not in court, being confined to his home by illness. Although the law requires that a defendant be present when a ruling is entered, Judge Sullivan said that the ruling on the motion to quash the indictments would apply to him should he ever appear in court. The state indicated it will proceed with the trial of Ernest Stevens alone, if his father should not be able to appear.

In seeking to have the indictments quashed, the defense raised the point that the grand jury, which returned the indictments, was illegally chosen. In a bank case several months ago, the state Supreme court held that there was not sufficient element of chance in the selection of the 23 grand jurors. The Supreme court did not reverse the lower court, however, but ordered a new system which would make the selection more at random. The other defense contention was that the language of the indictments was ambiguous and did not sufficiently charge a crime.

Holds Indictments Valid.

After Assistant State's Attorney Grenville Beardsley had replied to these arguments, Judge Sullivan said: "My mind is made up. There is no need to take these motions under advisement. The point of ambiguity is overruled. This type of indictment has been held valid so long, that to quash it would be revolutionary.

"On the question of the choice of the grand jury, there is no decision to guide the court. There was an expression by the Supreme court, but there is nothing in the expression to give this court the right to quash the indictments on the allegations that the jury was illegally chosen. The motions are therefore overruled."

Father of Bride Dies After Wedding Reception

Kenosha, Wis., May 9.—[Special.]—Excitement incident to the marriage of his daughter, Mary Morasky, to William Dunn of Chicago here today proved too much for Alexander Morasky, 57. He died of heart disease after the reception at his home in honor of the young couple.

URGE DEFEAT OF PLAN TO FIX PAY ON STATE WORKS

Civic Federation Fights Assembly Bill.

Defeat of a bill to fix a prevailing rate of wages on state public works was advocated yesterday in a bulletin by the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency. The measure is now under consideration in the legislature.

The bulletin held that enactment would be a "cruel futility" and would deprive "thousands of men of desperately needed employment pending court decision." The reasons advanced for defeat of the bill are threefold:

"1. It would increase the cost of public works, local and state.

"2. It would cause increase in property taxes and vehicle or fuel taxes, or curtail public improvements which otherwise would be possible on a basis of normal costs.

"3. It would practically suspend employment on public works in Illinois during the entire period that its constitutionality is being tested in the courts, and this at a time when necessary public employment is being urged.

Believe It Illegal.

The bulletin held that the bill, if enacted, seems certain to be declared unconstitutional, in view of the Illinois Supreme court decision invalidating the 1931 prevailing rate of wage act, and a subsequent Massachusetts Supreme court decision invalidating a similar measure in that state.

"The last general assembly passed a prevailing rate of wage act effective July 1, 1931," the bulletin said. "Final enactment did not come until late in June, 1931, and made it necessary to cancel bids for millions of dollars worth of highway construction work and to submit to bidders new specifications complying with the new enactment.

"In the attempt to establish 'prevailing rates of wages' in various communities where work was to be done, great confusion arose, and disputes before the 'appeal board' created by the act lasted late into the summer, some groups complaining the rate of wages was too high, and others protesting that they were too low.

Demanded Injunction.

"Officers of the Civic Federation attended these hearings, and became alarmed by the confusion, the delay and the evident prospect of greatly increased public costs. They were instrumental in organizing the Joint Committee on Economy in Public Construction which immediately sought to enjoin the operation of the act.

"Pleas of unusual emergency induced the Illinois Supreme court to hear arguments and render a decision in October, 1931. However, it was impossible for the written opinion to be filed earlier than Dec. 17, 1931, and the state highway division was without a clear legal basis for proceeding with its work until the text of the opinion was available.

"Thus the effect of the 1931 prevailing wage act was to tie up all state highway work and, to a great extent, all local public construction work for six months. It is obvious that this situation contributed materially to the unemployment distress which, in the winter of 1932, began to reach a climax."

RESERVE FLEET PLANS ASSAILED BY NAVY LEAGUE

Appeals to Roosevelt Against Proposal.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—The Navy league of the United States, which fought the celebrated "abysmal ignorance" battle with President Hoover, fired a first salvo today across the bow of the Roosevelt ship of state.

In vigorous language it assailed the proposal for a "rotation reserve" under which, for economy's sake, the navy is contemplating laying up one-third of its vessels at a time.

"While the second best bull dog in a dog show may get a red ribbon, in a dog fight it gets nothing but a sound licking," said the league. And a rotation reserve fleet, it contended, is very much a "second best bull dog."

Would Halve Effectiveness.

The contention made was that far from one-third reduction in efficiency, the policy would cut effectiveness of the fleet by half because of the awkwardness of crews manning the ships brought out from reserve status.

"A challenge to fate, doubling the hazards to the nation already involved in the studied neglect of our naval defense by former administrations," said the league of the plan, warning that while the President was "bravely carrying us through a veritable storm of tragic problems involving the recovery of a sick nation in the midst of a sick world," the other nations "stand ready to be cured at our cost."

Hit at Budget Director.

The league struck especially at Lewis W. Douglas, the budget director.

"With immensely complicated problems confronting him the President must necessarily rely largely upon the director of the budget and other non-naval advisers. Are these latter giving him sound advice on naval affairs?

"The Navy league thinks not. If the President and the nation come to a full realization of the effects of what the director of the budget is forcing the navy to do—it won't be done."

Today's statement was signed by N. M. Hubbard Jr., league vice president. The one that unleashed the extraordinary squabble with President Hoover was written by William Howard Gardiner, president of the league, who charged the national executive with "abysmal ignorance" of why navies are maintained.

Col. Roscoe Turner, noted distance speed pilot, who is having his Wedell Williams [Wasp motor] racing plane repaired at Chicago airport, called at the headquarters of the American air races in Hotel Sherman yesterday to discuss plans for the racing meet with Maj. Turner said he is trying to arrange his schedule to be at the races.

HOW ARE YOUR NERVES? TEST DISCLOSES ALL

U. C. Scientist Measures Human Jumpiness.

A human being in a nervous state will discharge 10,000 times more electricity through his nerves than a person in a relaxed state. This conclusion and a method of measuring the amount of current generated in individuals by various irritating impulses are described by Dr. Edmund Jacobson, associate professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, in an article in the current issue of the Proceedings of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine.

Dr. Jacobson, who conducts his experiments with students in a specially insulated laboratory at the university, has found that individuals in an advanced state of relaxation produce less than one-millionth of a volt, while individuals in an excited state generate as much as one-hundredth of a volt in the ulnar nerve, which controls the movements of the hand.

Describes Measuring Method.

"Nervousness' has in general been a matter of speculation," Dr. Jacobson said yesterday. "Even the word itself is surrounded with indefinite meaning. Now, for the first time, we have an opportunity to measure directly what goes on in the nerves when an individual is excited, irritable, or emotional."

The measuring process, as described by Dr. Jacobson, consists of the insertion of a hypodermic needle, containing two fine wires, into the ulnar nerve. The wires are connected, through an amplifier, with a string galvanometer, and the agitation of the string, in response to impulses given to the nerve, is recorded on a motion picture film.

Finds Many Cannot Relax.

"Many people fail to achieve relaxation," Dr. Jacobson said. "Half hour tests on a number of students, all of them untrained in the technique, showed that about half of them achieved almost perfect relaxation, with less than one-millionth of a volt present in the ulnar nerve, while the others could not relax thoroughly, and showed as much as 50 millionths of a volt."

Dr. Jacobson said that he regarded the measuring technique as more important than the results of the nerve studies because the technique can be applied to conditions of high blood pressure and depressive types of insanity.

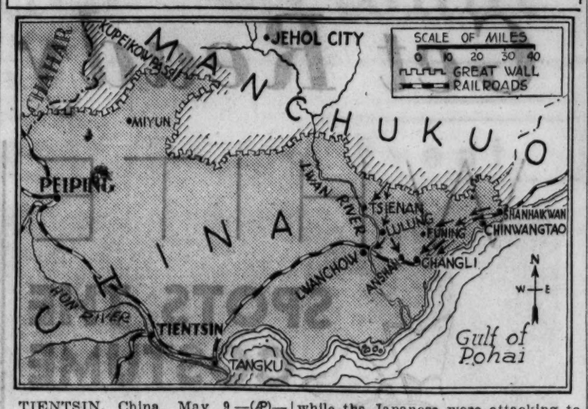
JAPS ADVANCE TOWARD TIENTSIN



TIENTSIN, China, May 9.—(AP)—Japanese troops, apparently victorious in several major engagements, were reported tonight to be pushing on toward Lwanchow, principal city north of Tientsin.

Fears that Tientsin, less than 100 miles southwest of the battlefront, would be attacked by the invaders increased as Japanese aviators bombed Changli, Funing, Lulung, and Lwanchow. Heavy fighting occurred between Chinese cavalrymen and the Japanese at Anshan, according to Chinese dispatches.

In a battle at Tsienan, 100 Japanese and 1,500 Chinese casualties were reported by the Japanese. Bitter street fighting was reported. After occupying Tsienan a Japanese infantry brigade was pressing on toward Lwanchow, driving the Chinese troops before them. The offensive of Japanese and Manchukuoan forces last month stopped short of Lwanchow.

East of the Lwan river, which forms one side of a north China triangle that the Japanese wish to be declared a neutral zone, the Chinese were steadily withdrawing. The Manchukuoans advanced along the railway from Shanhaikwan along the coast, while the Japanese were attacking to the north, closer to the Great Wall.

[Other dispatches said a major battle was beginning further to the west of Miyun, where Japanese troops were advancing southward from Kupeikow pass in the Great Wall toward Peiping.]

SVEN HEDIN, 68, TO SEARCH FOR LOST SCIENTIST

PEIPING, China, May 9.—(AP)—At the age of 68, Dr. Sven Hedin, Swedish explorer, is planning an expedition into the Sin-Kiang province of Chinese Turkestan to search for Dr. Nils Ambolt, the Swedish scientist who has been missing in the wilds of central Asia since November.

Dr. Ambolt, who was a member of a Chinese-Swedish expedition sent into Sin-Kiang in 1927, was lost with a caravan of 80 camels during a terrific snowstorm in a lonely spot in the mountains of northern Tibet. He was compelled to abandon the results of four years of research in central Asia and also scientific instruments worth thousands of dollars.

Dr. Ambolt proceeded afoot towards Cherchen oasis, 400 miles south of Urumchi, the capital of Sin-Kiang, and has not been heard of since. A recent Mohammedan revolt in Sin-Kiang increased fears for his safety. Dr. Hedin is awaiting the permission of the Nanking government before proceeding into the province. He will lead a rescue party of Chinese and foreigners.

RUSSIAN ENVOY SEEKS ANTI-WAR PACT WITH CHINA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 10.—[Wednesday.]—The Chinese government announced today that negotiations have been opened by the new soviet ambassador to China, Dimitri Bogomoloff, for a nonaggression pact and a Sino-soviet commercial treaty.

The government in a statement strongly opposed reported negotiations between Japan and Russia at Tokio for the sale of the Chinese Eastern railway to Japan. It declared that the only parties having legal rights to the railway are Russia and China and that neither has the right to make a transaction with a third party. The statement added that the Chinese Eastern must continue to be governed by the Peking-Mukden agreements negotiated between China and Russia in 1924.

The Manchukuoan ultimatum to Moscow demanding that Russia return locomotives and other rolling stock of the Chinese Eastern is scheduled to expire today. Manchukuo has discharged 100 railway officials. Most of them are Chinese appointed by the old régime and are alleged to have been involved in intrigues.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Walter Hampden's staging of "Hamlet," given at the Grand Opera house last night, is the finest example of Shakesperean acting now available on the American stage. The star himself offers an impressive interpretation of the title rôle, the final and most exacting test of a tragedian in dramatic literature; and his company appears to much better advantage than in "Caponsacchi," the other bill in this week of repertory by the distinguished actor manager.

More than a few years have elapsed since Mr. Hampden last gave his "Hamlet" in Chicago. He still uses the flexible and austere backgrounds by Claude Bragdon—an interesting manifestation of modern scene design, which permits the performance to flow at a rapid pace and the use of a much more complete text than the older prompt books contain. His grip on tht rôle has strengthened, it seems, for he is the kind of an actor whose treatment of a character mellows and ripens with its age in his repertory. I believe that we are now seeing Mr. Hampden at the peak of his power and talent, so far as "Hamlet" is concerned—and the greatest Prince of Denmark since Forbes-Robertson's.

Mr. Hampden has, primarily, the physical endowment for a notable Hamlet—a fine figure, a rich and vibrant voice, a countenance upon which the mask of brooding melancholy and introspection is at home. He also has the spiritual gifts—the poetic mood, the alert intelligence, the vivid imagination that must be brought to Shakespeare's greatest conception. He plays the rôle, in my opinion, in perfect agreement with Hamlet's celebrated speech of advice to the strolling players—and I know of no higher praise, since that passage contains all the canons of dramatic criticism.

William Sauter as Horatio, J. P. Wilson as Polonius, and Whitford Kane as the First Grave Digger may be selected for special mention in the cast. There is no need for discrimination, however, for almost every rôle is well cast and the reading of the famous lines is according to the high standards of the Hampden school of diction. The Ophelia is Evelyn Venable, a pleasant actress with youth and a pretty face in her favor.

"Hamlet" will be repeated tonight and Saturday afternoon. This is a notable opportunity for all playgoers who have been wondering, these last few years, what has become of Shakespeare.

The Oriental, one of the best known of the downtown cinema theaters, will become a "legitimate" playhouse Friday, May 19. William Morris, Inc., veteran vaudeville firm, have acquired the lease from Balaban & Katz, and will begin a régime of vaudeville revues. The first show will be a production, now on tour, which has Jack Pearl [the Baron Munchausen of the radio], Cliff Hall, his partner of the radio programs, and Paul Whiteman [with his orchestra] as the featured entertainers. Others on the bill will be the Boswell Sisters and Burns and Allen. The engagement is for two weeks. Other entertainments of similar character will follow.

Show Summer Styles at North Shore Event

This is the way smart young men and women will look at informal evening affairs this summer, according to the fashions displayed by "Larry" Scott and Mrs. L. Edward Hart Jr. at the style show at a dinner dance given at the Evanston Golf club last Saturday. The affair was given by the North Shore auxiliary of the Chicago Maternity center. Mr. Scott's white jacket is of mesh and Mrs. Hart's dress is of blue coin dotted sheer material with field flowers at the waist and on the brimmed straw hat. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Other styles shown at the Maternity center benefit were: Mrs. Fred Wolff Jr., wearing cerise and black combination; Mrs. Burdott Gibson in a new print in brown shades, and Mrs. William Robert Tobey in a beige and brown ensemble. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Art Institute Tells Position on Fair Show

The position of the Chicago Art institute on the official Century of Progress art exhibit which is to be held at the institute was explained yesterday in connection with a recent protest made by a group of 150 local artists.

This group, headed by Paul von Klieben, sent a petition to Robert B. Harshe, director of the institute, and to Chauncey McCormick, chairman of the institute's art committee, demanding the right to hold a free lance art exhibit at the Fair, and charging that the institute by its position was preventing 4,000 Chicago artists from earning "bread and butter" by the sale of their works.

According to Mr. McCormick the Art institute has always aimed to aid artists, and has never knowingly put an obstacle in the way of their earning a livelihood. The Art institute has been selected to house the official fair art exhibit, it is added, because of its fireproof construction and other protective properties. Moreover, the institute is not concerned with any private financial gain, it is pointed out.

Private financial gain is admittedly one of the considerations of those desiring to hold a free lance exhibit at the Fair, Mr. McCormick said, in discussing the matter.

Some time ago, he revealed, Mr. von Klieben called upon him seeking indorsement of a plan for an art exhibition which the latter described frankly as a business venture. Mr. von Klieben's plan, as told to Mr. McCormick, according to the latter, was to charge all artists exhibiting a fee of $1 a week and a 50 per cent commission on gross sales.

Mr. McCormick refused to indorse the plan, pointing out that he has no connection with the World's Fair, and that the Art institute itself never indorsed private business ventures. He added that last year he had given his personal, not official, approval to the outdoor art exhibit in Grant park, which is to be repeated this year through the coöperation of the south park commission. This show last year, sponsored without profit by Miss Cati Mount, netted artists $17,000 in sales. They were assessed no sales or exhibit fees.

Lawrence Heyworth also saw Mr. McCormick with a concession plan dovetailed to Mr. Von Klieben's. Under the Heyworth plan the $1 weekly fee and 50 per cent gross sales commission would be in effect, but the $1 fees would go to the Von Klieben group. Of the 50 per cent sales commission, Mr. McCormick was told, the Heyworth group would get 25 per cent, the Von Klieben group, 1 per cent, and the Exposition, 15 per cent. Mr. McCormick refused to indorse this proposition.

It is said that considerable profit could result from a show such as considered by Mr. Von Klieben and Mr. Heyworth. One analysis pointed out that if 4,000 Chicago artists exhibited at a $1 fee each per week they would pay a total fee of $100,000 for the 25 weeks of the exhibition. The artists would be out that much. If $200,000 in art works was sold, the Von Klieben-Heyworth groups would realize another $100,000 on the 50 per cent sales commission basis, less, of course, the 15 per cent allotted to the Exposition. This $200,000, it was suggested by Mr. McCormick, would buy a lot of bread and butter.

New Handbags Use Fabrics in Many Colors

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Hats may be flippant, but handbags certainly are serious affairs . . . what with complicated new fabrics capacious models with the prize collection of artfully concealed compartments, and all the delightful extras or gadgets, such as comb, mirror, and a couple of separate cases, a 1933 handbag is anything but an airy trifle.

The newest arrivals fairly shriek about fabrics. For instance, a stunning straw and silk combination that glints smartly in the light and yet is fashionably dull and interesting without being spectacular . . . or a cotton and leather weave mixture, and of course some of the newest homespun wool materials effectively lined and contrasted with gay plaids.

If you are the lucky owner of a beige homespun swagger suit there is a light beige square handbag that is a knockout . . . it is faced back at the top and boasts of a wide swanky flap covered with a stunning bit of brown, the plaid wool also stressing three shades of brown.

Or you can cheerfully accent your plain colored suit with red plaids that breezily do wonders for the dullest dark colors, or giddy green plaids and some particularly fancy checks that speak most authoritatively.

Blue and brown handbags are quite the smartest things you can use for a proper color contrast . . . some of the best looking blue handbags that have been seen in weeks are now being shown . . . look for the new glittering bags with lovely transparent prystal clasps and frames.

And nothing is as smart as fancy doodads of chromium. Everybody approves this wonder metal that keeps its original unstained surface for months after you buy it.

The new brown handbags are perfect as a lively contrast for practically every shade of gray, beige, green, and brown . . . stunning ginger brown models in either pouch or envelope style feature unusual accents, such as a twisted gold and seed pearl handle or a clasp of two carved coral peacocks parading across a gold metal frame.

All new spring evening vanities or small handbags are carried by a slender link chain . . . they are the most romantic looking things you have ever tucked a bit of money and your door key into. They are made of rows and rows of narrow lace frilled onto a pouched bag, or rows and rows and rows of the narrowest cire ribbon or fringed to the last lovely inch with narrow silk fringe.

The cire ribbon affairs are as new as tomorow. You will find them in ivory, blush pink, star sapphire blue, white, buttercup yellow, as well as black and navy blue. They have silver or gold metal clasps that are fashioned of a row of flat solid circles which divides evenly when the bag is opened.

Carnival Head

Miss Helen Lawler of Austin and Miss Marie McDermott of Oak Park are co-chairmen of the annual spring carnival to be given by St. Mary's High school alumnae in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel on Friday. Assisting the chairmen are the Misses Loretta Ruland, Eleanor McLaughlin, Helen Donovan, Eleanor Dowling, Annabelle Callanan, Beatrice McCormack and Dorothy Reynolds.

Arts Club Musicians to Give Program at Tea Next Tuesday

Modern Compositions Will Be Presented by Professionals of Membership.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE professional members of the Arts club who use oil paints, crayons, water colors, pencils or clay as the medium through which to express their art had their inning on April 23 when an exhibition of their works was opened with a swanky tea, and next Tuesday the professional musician members are to have theirs when they will give a musical at the club.

It sounds as if it would be one of the really nice affairs of the season and we predict that every member and the one guest he or she is allowed to have will be there, which will mean the greatest crush ever in the history of this smart and popular club that draws such large crowds for all its affairs.

John Alden Carpenter is chairman of the music committee, but he has returned so recently from a wedding trip abroad that the vice chairman, John Palmer, has done most of the arranging of the program which is to be given by professional musicians. Mr. Palmer told us yesterday that an unusually delicious tea was to be served after the program, which is to start at 4 o'clock, and that those who don't enjoy the music, most of which will be modern, at least will enjoy the tea, but we can't imagine that any one would be so deaf as not to find something to his taste in the program that is planned.

Louise Harrison Slade is to sing a group of songs in her rich contralto; Ruth Hanak, who has lived in Spain for several years, is to give several modern Spanish piano solos; Cara Verson will play on the piano some ultra-modern solos by Italian composers she knows personally; Amy Neill and Henlot Levy will play a violin sonata composed by M. Levy and Helen Abbott Byfield will sing a group of modern French songs.

The art exhibition by professional members will be hanging in the galleries that afternoon for the date for taking it down has been postponed until the 19th.

Society Shows Interest in Bridge.

In the spring a woman's fancy must turn to bridge, for the Woman's Athletic club is starting new classes in that popular pastime today, and out in Evanston at the Cradle the lessons that have been given on Thursday mornings for several weeks are so well attended that the committee has decided to continue them through the first half of the summer.

The beginners' class at the club in town is to meet at 10:30 o'clock, and at 11:30 the more advanced players will assemble for instruction. Luncheon reservations for bridge tables have been made in the order of luncheon reservations. After luncheon supervised bridge games for the members of the classes will be played between 1:30 and 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Katherine Baker is donating the lessons at the Cradle as her contribution to the home where homeless babies are cared for so scientifically and beautifully and eventually placed in loving homes. Some of those who have signified their intention of being present at the lesson tomorrow—most of them are there every Thursday—and the buffet luncheon afterward are Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. Buckingham Chandler, Mrs. Allen Withers, Mrs. Henry Gardner, Mrs. Henry Dawes, Mrs. Robert Roloson, Mrs. W. Carlton Wilson, and Mrs. Edwin A. Ashcraft Jr.

Most of the well known Italians of the city and the socialites who count themselves good friends of Italy and all things Italian will be present tonight at the dinner the Dante Alighieri society is giving at the Belden-Stratford hotel for Prince Ludovico Spada Veralli Potenziani, royal Italian commissioner to A Century of Progress and former mayor of Rome.

Some of those who will be there are Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio, the Italian consul general; Dr. Italo F. Volini, president of the society; Admiral and Mrs. Wat T. Cluverius, Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Dr. Antonio Ferme, Col. and Mrs. Tryggve Siqueland and the Misses Alyce and Margo Siqueland, Mrs. Wentworth Field, Mrs. Marco Adrogna, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager.

There won't be any elaborate dinner parties for the members of the Chicago Business Men's orchestra before their concert this evening in Orchestra hall, because they have to rehearse at 6:30. But to make up for this all of them with their wives and friends will have an after-concert party at the Cliff Dwellers. George Lytton, who is the orchestra's sponsor, is making the arrangements. The Bohemians' Aid society, an organization of professional musicians and those interested in music, will benefit by the concert.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rosslyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah, who considers him just a hick. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for both of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone, with Jane's purse instead of her own. In Jane's purse Dinah finds an automatic pistol. All the lights are turned out. Dinah rushes for the door and is grabbed by strong arms. She shoots. Jane reappears. She rushes Dinah away from the scene of their host lying in a pool of blood. Next morning the papers carry the story of the murder of Philip Divine, Broadway playboy, and said there were two bullet wounds. Jane and Dinah saw a tall, dark man with a mustache as they left Philip Divine's house. Jane recognizes Jack Fiske's sterling qualities and tries to bring Dinah and him together.

INSTALLMENT IX.

"WHICH OF US?"

As a rule when others gathered, there Dinah was to be found. But this evening when Jane returned, though there was a little group on the steps of the boarding house, Dinah was not among them.

Jane went upstairs to the big front room the two girls shared; she knocked and Dinah's voice answered, "Come in!"

The room was in darkness; only the light that shone in from the street showed Dinah sitting by the window, her head on her arms. Jane turned on the light and Dinah cried hastily:

"Don't! Please!"

Jane snapped it out again and came over to the window, sat down by her friend, but not too near. She had a talent for being unobtrusive; she did not so much as touch the other girl's hand, did not even speak. After a long time she took out a cigaret and lit it and sat there in the dark, smoking. And somehow there was about her something so steadfast, so strong, so patient that the confusion and misery in Dinah's heart began to lighten.

"Jane?" came her unsteady little voice.

"Yes, Dinah."

"I've been thinking—all day . . . I—Jane?"

"I saw him in the subway coming home tonight—and I thought he recognized me!"

"Yes, Dinah?"

"Would it be better if we talked about it? Jane. I've got to, anyhow. Jane, you know what my friendship for you is. That's why—I can't stand—not talking—not—not asking you things, Jane."

"Go ahead and ask me, Dinah."

"Jane, if these questions sound as if I didn't trust you. It's not that. Jane! It's only because I've thought so much—too much about it. I've got to know——"

"Just what, Dinah?"

There was a long silence.

"Jane, it wasn't like you to get talking to that man. I can't help thinking. Please don't mind—if I ask—if I say—what's in my heart. Jane, had you ever met him before?"

"Yes," Jane answered without hesitation.

"Did you know he'd be there—in the drug store—last night?"

"No," said Jane. "But I wasn't much surprised. I knew I'd see him again somewhere, sometime."

"Jane——" This time Dinah hesitated a long time. "Did you like him?" And Jane, too, was long in answering.

"I thought I did—once," she said at last. "And even now I can remember some things about him that were good."

"But then—why didn't you just introduce him?"

"I couldn't."

"Couldn't, Jane?"

"No," said Jane, and there was a new note in her voice, something strained, almost stern. "It had been so long since I'd seen him. I couldn't speak his name. I couldn't even make up my mind that moment if I hated him or if I didn't. You see, the last time I'd seen him we'd quarreled—dreadfully. When I saw him again I thought perhaps he'd changed. I wanted to see. I didn't know—I'd never dreamed I was bringing you into anything so horrible."

"You'd been in that house before, hadn't you, Jane?"

"Yes, often."

The silence between them now seemed to Dinah an intolerable thing filled with that last, irrevocable question which she must ask. Again she postponed it.

"I . . . . There was a revolver in your bag, Jane——"

"Yes."

"Jane—when you went out to look for him—did you find him, Jane?"

"No, not then."

They were coming closer now, horribly close, to that ultimate question.

"You know I shot at him, Jane. But the newspaper said there were two bullet wounds——"

"Yes."

"After I'd done that, Jane, I thought I fainted. But I didn't really. I thought I heard an echo of my shot."

Now it had to be faced. The question had to be asked.

"Jane," said Dinah, "did you shoot, too?"

"Yes," Jane answered.

"Then," Dinah's voice trembled; "then, did you kill him?"

"I don't know," said Jane.

Dinah caught her by the arm.

"O, you must know! Jane, we must know which of us did it."

"We can't know," said Jane; "ever"

"But that's—it just seems—impossible to go on living without knowing."

"It's much easier to stand things than you realize, Dinah. If you just go on. That's the way people did in the war. My father went, you know. I was only a little girl, but I remember my mother—just going on. I suppose she was numb inside—dead—nothing mattered. But she smiled; she talked to people, she pretended she wasn't dead. And after a while she got used to it. Just as we'll get used to this."

"I never will, Jane! Never!"

"At first," Jane went on, "I thought I'd tell you I was sure I'd done it. Because I could stand this better than you. But somehow I couldn't do it. And it wouldn't do any good, either, if it's ever known that we were in that house last night."

"Do you think it will be known?"

"I hope to God it won't!" said Jane with a bitterness so extraordinary in her that Dinah was startled.

"You mean that when we'd be arrested? They'd ask us questions?"

"Questions we can't answer because we don't know. And Dinah, if it does come to that, the only thing is to tell the truth. All the truth we know. You shot at him in the dark. You can't tell where you hit him. I shot at him when he came out into the hall——"

"But why, Jane?"

"I'd rather not tell you, Dinah. He's dead now. The account's settled—in full. I shot at him, but I don't know where I hit him. I just fired at random. I didn't—want to kill him."

Dinah's hand sought for her friend's, and held it fast. She knew that here was some tragedy immeasurably greater than her own.

"Jane darling, there's one more thing I've got to tell you—because it might be important. You remember, Jane, when we left the house we passed a man in the street? A tall man with a dark mustache?"

Jane's fingers gripped hers with a pressure that made her wince.

"Yes, I remember, Dinah."

"Well, I saw him in the subway coming home tonight. And I thought he recognized me."

"O, God!" said Jane half aloud.

Girls of 15 Too Young to Think of Matrimony

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One of the tragedies of our times is the tender age at which high romance attacks the young and the necessary postponement of marriage.

High school girls of 15 and 16 are commonly observed in the throes of a heated love affair. Not just one of those puppy love flareups through which we all passed in our early 'teens. These youngsters talk seriously of love. They talk of marriage as if it, too, were just something around the corner.

They do not talk wisely of marriage, of course. They never stop to visualize what a very early wedding is going to do to their lives. We doubt if any of them ever think of what marrying means. Rather it is the excitement of having one boy crazy about them that possesses them to act like maturer beings. It is the fear of losing this one "steady," as they invariably call him, that incites the marriage ideas. Not the desire to be married, to have a home, to rear a family.

Heaven forbid that we'd want to see these very young girls burdened in what should be their most carefree years with such thoughts! But frankly, we do not like the processes of their minds and we wish parents could be inveigled into separating these young women from the idea that one "steady" is better than a number of boy friends at this time in their lives. There is no small element of danger in this isolation of boy and girl to the exclusion of the group. Clever parents could outmaneuver this one man idea at 15 or 16.

So imbued with the idea of having a "steady" at the tender age referred to, we learn on the best of authority that in one group the girl will sneak in and out of a tearoom on Saturday afternoons so that she will not be seen unescorted by a boy. Let this be the worry of 18, 19, and 20, if it must worry any modern miss. At 15 and 16 group fun is the thing to strive for. For it will be three, four, maybe more years before marriage is economically possible.

MINUTE MYSTERY

FINAL EDITION.

"Extra! Extra! Big Moider!" shouted a ragged urchin as he whisked a newspaper from under his arm, folded it with a flip of the hand and collected his two cents from the professor. Fordney stepped into a nearby hotel lounge and gleaned the following from the account:

Vickers, Dan Layton's valet, told the police that two men whom he had never seen before called for his master around 10 o'clock the previous morning. They had refused to give their names—stating that Layton was expecting them and for him to "make it snappy." Vickers delivered the message to his employer who grinned at the servant's perturbation and concern over the gruff looking characters and asked him to tell the gentlemen he would join them as soon as he finished dressing. Fifteen minutes later Layton left with the two callers saying he would be back by two o'clock. Vickers had remained up all night but his master had failed to return. He knew nothing more about the affair.

Layton was called the Beau Brummel of the town and a conqueror of women's hearts. There was much conjecture regarding the gardenia he was wearing in the lapel of his evening clothes when found—the gardenia stained with blood! Had some woman placed it there? Who was the woman of the gardenias? Several were mentioned.

Layton's amours held little interest for the professor—he rushed to a telephone.

"Hello, Inspector. Just read about Layton's murder. What? O, I know you didn't overlook the important clew that the——"

Exchange Rate Stumps Crosby; He'll Stay Home

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 9.—[Special.]—Bing Crosby doesn't feel he is expert enough in foreign exchange to demonstrate the American art of crooning in foreign capitals. Receiving an offer from the Monseigneur Night club in London, Bing says: "I'd like to go. But I'd be so worried trying to figure how much I would be drawing in salary, and translating the fluctuating pounds, shillings, and dollars that I decided I would stay where the groceries have prices which I can understand marked on them."

No retakes are being made on Marlene Dietrich's last picture, "Song of Songs," which Rouben Mamoulian directed. Mamoulian gave Marlene a farewell formal party last Saturday and the guest appeared in a mannish looking but skirted black formal outfit, coat cut like a tuxedo, starched shirtwaist, unusually big white tie, something like an Eton tie, and a skirt.

Dorothea Wieck, who attended the party, was a striking contrast in a Paris model of black and white, with puffed sleeves; and Elissa Landi, in another typically feminine evening gown, with curly blond hair, made the contrast with Dietrich still more vivid. Part of the conversation of the three girls was in German.

Herbert Mundin, the English actor with the Bruce Bairnsfather mustache who has been making such a box office impression as a comedian at Fox's, confesses he got his start as an actor by doubling as an ostrich. "I'd bury my head in the sand on one of the English beaches. My partner would hit me across the projecting portion with a flat stick that made considerable noise. I would add to it by screaming, 'Stop it! You are killing me!' When a good sized crowd had gathered and seemed about to pounce on my partner I would jump up and we would go into a song and dance and pass the hat." Mundin entered films about three years ago after being in one of Charlot's revues. His big hit was as Bridges in "Cavalcade."

Benita Hume, English importation, played hostess in the Paramount studio café the other day to Hugh Plantagenet Lygon, son of the Earl of Beauchamp and brother of Viscount Elmley. Lygon knew Benita in London and promptly looked her up.

Congress hotel. The North Wabash avenue room will also be open today and tomorrow to receive donations. The officers of the organization conducting this charity are: Mrs. Charles King Corsant, president; Mrs. W. S. Monroe, Mrs. George Rasmussen, and Mrs. Charles S. Clark, vice presidents; Mrs. Robert F. Bensinger, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. R. Fifield, recording secretary, and Mrs. Norval Pierce, secretary.

Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr., who suffered a fracture of her right foot in a rehearsal of "Peter Pan" at the Children's theater on the Enchanted island at A Century of Progress Monday afternoon, is leaving the Evanston hospital today, but she will be confined to her home for at least six weeks.

All the Junior league members feel terribly over Mrs. Gambrill's accident, but they are rejoicing that they have a member who is clever enough and a good enough sport to step into the pirate boots that Mrs. Gambrill wore on such short notice. Mrs. Norman H. MacLeish has agreed to take Mrs. Gambrill's part, that of Capt. Hook in the play.

This is not Mrs. MacLeish's debut as a Junior league actress, for she was in the cast of "The Secret Garden" last year. "Peter Pan" is to be given Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock and again at 3 and the dedication of the Enchanted island is to take place at 2 o'clock.

Delightful Party at Fair Friday.

One of the nicest of all the World's Fair parties is to take place Friday noon when a small and select group of guests christen Tony Sarg's delightful little Toy Town tavern on the Enchanted island. Invitations have been issued for 1 o'clock and every one of them has been accepted.

The guests will be Mrs. William J. Chalmers, with her devoted friend, Ethel Barrymore, Walter Hampden, Edward Hungerford, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel A. Owings, and Miss Dorothy Schmidt. Representing the fair will be Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Ray Moulton, Edward Gonsior, Col. F. C. Boggs, Maj. and Mrs. Lennox Lohr, and Miss Josephine Blackstock. Edward L. Morris will be the host.

Chicagoans who lingered late in their Palm Beach residences were the Kenneth G. Smiths who recently have returned to Winnetka. Their yacht the Kenkora, on which they cruised to South America this winter, is in New York now having a few minor repairs, but the Smiths expect that it will be anchored off Monroe street by June 1.

Mr. Smith has joined the group in the Palm Beach colony whose farms are at Boynton, ten miles south of the fashionable resort. Just before he left Florida he completed negotiations for the purchase of Frederic Foster Carey's Prosperity farms, which are highly developed for the raising of Florida vegetables and fruits.

Morses Hear from Daughter.

The Charles H. Morses of Lake Forest have just received their first letter from their daughter, Baroness Wolfgang Beck von Pecoz, since her departure for foreign shores six weeks ago. The letter describes in interesting detail the effect of German policies on friends of the Morse family.

For the present Baroness von Pecoz, with her new husband, are occupying the Morse house just outside of Munich. During the summer they will move to Baron von Pecoz's estate, which is one of the finest in Bavaria. The former Martha Morse Stibolt was married to the German nobleman just before Christmas in Waukegan.

Mrs. Owen F. Aldis, who spent most of her visit in America in the Passavant hospital because of a broken ankle, is sailing today on the Aquitania for France, where she lives. Her nephew, Graham Aldis, and his family have moved out to their Lake Forest house, where Mrs. Aldis, the former Dorothy Keeley, is impatiently counting the days until June 18, when her sister, Mrs. Cabot Brown, the former Peggy Keeley, and her two little boys will arrive from California to spend a month in Lake Forest with James Keeley, father and grandfather. It is not certain if Dr. Brown will accompany his wife and children.

Mrs. Robert Hixon has motored to New York to meet her daughter, Miss Margaret Hixon, who has been at Miss Schroff's school in Paris with Miss Jean Wilhelm. The Frank E. Wilhelms are bringing the girls home and are landing tomorrow. Miss Hixon and her mother will motor home via Niagara Falls and Farmington, where Miss Hixon went to school.

Members of the Fortnightly and their guests will meet today at luncheon for a round table discussion, led by Jacob Viner, on "The Present Business Situation."

An important affair of the late spring season in Hinsdale will be the spring dance to be given by the Hinsdale Infant Welfare Junior auxiliary at the Hinsdale Golf club Saturday night, May 20. The proceeds will go to the mothers and children at the Barlington station. Miss Margaret Ann Veeck is chairman.

These Novels Show Presence of Mysticism

BY M. D.

"Grand Canary," by A. J. Cronin. [Little-Brown.] Published today.

"I Can Wait," anonymous. [Bobbs-Merrill.] Published today.

The two novels reviewed today go a long way to prove that mysticism still holds its own in modern fiction. A. J. Cronin, who distinguished himself with "Hatter's Castle" and "Three Loves," and the anonymous author who wrote a quietly promising book in "Miss Tiverton Goes Out," both are guilty of distortions and wild flights of exaggerated emphases that reveal only too clearly what can happen to a mystic approach that is not severely and intellectually disciplined.

A. J. CRONIN.

If the reader will compare the mysticism of Thornton Wilder, particularly in "The Cabala" and "The Woman of Andros," and to a lesser extent in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," he will understand how much more powerfully this point of view can be communicated through the author's rigid control of his stylistic approach, his technique, and his very subject matter.

A. J. Cronin starts his story, "Grand Canary," in a very conventional manner. The hero is a disgraced doctor who in black despair and numb rage is seeking to "get away from it all." A friend of his books passage for him on a boat going to the Canaries. On this boat Dr. Leith meets several people who are to turn back the trend of his life. One in particular is the petted wife of a rich man. They fall in love with each other against their wills. Separated for a time, she seeks him out when she is suffering the delirium of yellow fever. He nurses her back to health and sees that she returns safely to the arms of her husband in England. The obvious symbols used throughout the book are a certain dreamy lagoon with white swans floating on its surface and a great spreading clump of freesia flowers that are heavy and hypnotic with a vague sweet perfume.

The doctor returns to London and is inspired to go on with his work. That is the general outline of the story. There are many other characters that appear, one of which I became very impatient with before the end of the book, the pugilist with a heart of gold. Another is the evangelist who, with his devoted sister, plans to bring God to the natives of the islands. Most of the characterizations are so grossly caricaturized that they lose all reality. The equivocal and inconclusive end seems to indicate that technically the author was at the end of his tether. It is astonishing to realize, considering A. J. Cronin's reputation, how careless and platitudinous is the style of this book.

A much madder attempt at mysticism, and one on the whole less successful even than "Grand Canary," is "I Can Wait." The theme songs in this novel seem to be "Adela . . . where are you going?" and "Adela . . . where have you gone?" Other symbolic devices are a black cat, a nunlike child, two cabbage roses, and Dion.

Dion is a strange figment of the imagination—whether it is a he, a she, or an it, the reader never determines—that forever beckons the heroine on toward eternity or doom or humanity, or any other of a dozen or so objectives, the choice of which depends on the reader's personal eccentricities. The heroine continually repeats (it is a bit harrowing at first and finally pretty ridiculous), "I am here, Dion," while she is striding the moors or befriending the flotsam and jetsam of the underworld.

There may be a very subtle planning in this novel. If so, it is too subtle for this reader to detect its presence. Wild and fantastic and bleak are the heroine's wanderings over the face of the earth from youth to old age in search of her Dion. But her wanderings have none of the authentic madness, the compelling power, or the inevitable doomed terror that would, under more skilled hands, have commanded the involuntary and fascinated attention of the reader.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt, and his daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, have been guests over the week-end at the White House. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt left yesterday afternoon for Boston, and Mrs. Dall left last night for New York to join her mother for the dinner to be given tonight by Miss Fannie Hurst for the new United States minister to Denmark, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen.

Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the secretary of commerce, and Mrs. William L. Austin, wife of the director of the census, were entertained at a tea this afternoon given by Mrs. John B. Harrell.

Twin Vitamins B and G Food Topic Today

Whole Grains, Eggs Among Available Sources.

(This is the third in a week's series of popular vitamin chats by Miss Meade. The Tribune vitamin and mineral charts and menus explaining the main sources, benefits of the vitamin and important minerals, and the best method of cookery to retain them, together with a week's health-boosting menus, will be sent you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

BY MARY MEADE.

We're going to double up today—in this week's jaunt through the vitamin family—and see what we can do with two vitamins at once. These are vitamins B and G.

And here's the reason. When investigators discovered a new vitamin and named it "B," they never dreamed that they were discovering twins—and perhaps a whole family! But before long they couldn't ignore it any longer. Vitamin B is really made up of at least two parts found sometimes in quite different foods and doing at times quite different things for us. So finally it was decided to call one part vitamin B and the other vitamin G—and every one was happy.

In the first place the two together (sometimes we call them the "vitamin B complex") are great boosters for growth. Likewise they're needed for reproduction and lactation. Thus nursing mothers need large amounts of grains and seed foods, vegetables, legumes, and milk—foods which are rich in this B and G combination. As a rule we eat freely of cereal foods, but unless these foods give us all or a large portion of the whole cereal grain may miss out on a great share of our vitamins B and G.

But now let's divorce the twins and see what they can do for us separately.

If we lack the first half—vitamin B—again we'll find our appetite lagging, our digestion upset, and our weight going down. We will be bothered with constipation, and following this may come assorted nervous troubles and enlargement of various organs. Or, to put it in the positive way—and in a tabloid form:

VITAMIN B.

Main benefits:
1. Stimulates appetite and helps digestion.
2. Promotes growth.
3. Helps to ward off nervous disorders.
4. Lessens the danger of enlarging heart, liver, thyroid, and other glandular organs.
5. Prevents beri beri, a nervous disease.

Main sources:
1. Whole grains and foods made from them.
2. Legumes, dried.
3. Eggs.
4. Yeast.
5. Most vegetables, cooking water saved.
6. Milk.
7. Glandular organs.

Stability:
There's some loss by heat when vitamin A foods are cooked, though not a great deal. An alkali such as soda destroys it, however. For this reason better refrain from parboiling your beans with baking soda before baking.

Now for the twin—vitamin G. This fellow is much harder to destroy than the weaker sister "B." Which is lucky, for it seems quite likely that vitamin G is a good sized factor in the growth of children, in addition to helping along the general health of the adults. Whole grains and yeast are good sources of "G," as well as of "B." If we fail to ring in the proper amount of foods equipped with vitamin G, experiments show that we are liable to be distressed by pellagra, stomach upsets, nervous disorders, and diarrhea. So this is how this vitamin looks in tabloid:

VITAMIN G.

Main benefits:
1. Peps up the appetite and aids in digestion.
2. Works against nervous upsets.
3. Is a factor in preventing pellagra.

Paris High Hats May Be on Probation, but Are Infinitely Smart About It

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—High hats are waiting their fate, which is to be decided by fashionable women this summer. They have been tentatively accepted by some ladies, but not wholeheartedly nor wholesale as yet. The milliners, who have set themselves to make these towering millinery structures irresistible are decking them out with field flowers, lace, and veils.

Reboux, one of the pioneers in the present high hatting, likes to put field flowers on top of toques and brimmed hats. The first of these was shown in THE TRIBUNE last winter. Remember? It was banked on top with violets. Today Reboux puts poppies, cowslips, violets, and daisies on top. The hat shown at the top of the sketch is a natural leghorn straw with yellow cowslips piled up on the round crown. It's her latest, and some of the smartest social leaders wear it.

Second in the sketch is a picture of Agnès point-lace-straw turban for formal daytime and informal evening wear. This is a turban, which has no lining and shows the hair through its lace. The quill that is stuck up in front is made of black lacquered satin, and Agnès' has black lacquered satin gloves to go with it.

The turban at the bottom is from Suzanne Talbot, and is made of dark blue milan straw. It has a band of white grosgrain ribbon and a bow at the bottom, and is worn with a mesh veil that ends at the tip of the nose. Veils are longer this season.

Trim Neckline Aids Looks of Older Women

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a news picture the other day a scene snapped in a lobby showed the full length back view of a woman. Facing the camera to her left was a very chic young person, making the untidy back view of the first woman even more striking. Now, what made this view so unpicturesque was not the cut of the coat nor the heels. The outfit was smart enough from the shoulders down. But the hair—

Straggling ends escaping a hat brim. Hair half curled resting on the coat collar. The length had and the general landscape cluttered like the yard just before the gardener gets to it in the spring.

Women seem still to be afraid to let go those lengthened tresses they've labored hard to raise. Older women, we refer to especially.

It's those straggling hairs and half-out curls, and a half moon of untidy dressing lopping over the coat collar that make a woman look older. Especially if hair is graying we think it advisable to have it cut so that the neck is left clear and free of stragglers and half-baked ringlets.

Only the young and slender throated ever did look well with that tumble of shoulder length hair. And they have abandoned it for smarter dressings. Lifting the hair off the back of the neck and arranging it neatly around the fact will lift the face and refine a thickening chin and jawline miraculously.

Colonial Coverlet Guild Holds May Breakfast Today

At its annual May breakfast today in the Wedgwood room of Marshall Field & Co. the Colonial Coverlet guild will make public acknowledgment of the gifts it has received during the last year. There will be on exhibit the coverlets and collection of coverelet photographs that have been given by the Misses Madie, Lucy, and Flo Woodbury of Danville.

Other gifts are the coverlet bequeathed by Mrs. G. Arthur Butler and the two ancestral coverlets of Charles F. Murphy. At the luncheon today Mrs. J. W. Young will give a silver medal engraved in 1835 to the weaver who has merited distinction in making coverlets.

Mothers Find Reading Lists of Great Help

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

So often mothers write to me saying [and I am taking parts of different letters], "Knowing how to manage my children has made all the difference in the world to us—in their happiness and my own."

"To get to understand what it is all about, and then to act on that knowledge spells all the difference between harmony and discord, between smoothness and friction."

In many cases these letters come from women who found themselves getting into hot water with their children, but who read and watched both the children and themselves—and then changed their viewpoint and their methods.

"My second child is reaping the benefit of my experience with my first, which is hardly fair to the first one. I am trying to rectify the mistakes I have made, but O, it is so much easier not to make them in the first place."

This is so true that I can't emphasize it too much. I don't believe in mothers-to-be or mothers of very young children doing too much reading and not digesting it, or putting it into practice. But I do believe that some reading, which is brief yet authoritative, can be illuminating.

It is this sort of thing I have had in mind in planning the leaflets and writing the booklets in our service. One group I have made up especially for the mothers of young babies or those who are about to become mothers. I have called it the "Before Reading" set. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped self-addressed envelope.

KEEP YOUR YOUTH!

AT ANY AGE . . . buoyant youth! It's largely a matter of vitamins, proteins, minerals and carbohydrates, so food authorities tell us. And that's what you get in Shredded Wheat. All of wheat's vital elements—nothing added, nothing taken away! Nature's own measure of bran. Try two of these golden biscuits, with milk or cream, with fresh or preserved fruit. And smile with the youthful millions who enjoy this VITALLY DIFFERENT food every day.

When you see Niagara Falls, you KNOW you have Shredded Wheat.

Good Singing by Symphonic Choir Praised

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago Symphonic choir, formerly the Avalon A Cappella choir, gave a concert last night at Orchestra hall under the direction of Walter Aschenbrenner. It has been developed, says a program note, with the idea of simulating instruments, violins and flutes, clarinets and trumpets, bass strings and horns, even the kettledrum.

It is quite likely that my ears are not as accurate as they should be. At any rate, a considerable time of careful listening did not bring these effects to me. What I did hear, however, was an uncommonly well trained group of human voices, excelling in soft, sustained tones, though at the same time able to bring out firm chords, always of fine clarity, and with words enunciated so that they projected clearly.

Much of the program was of sacred music, and special emphasis was laid upon two races, the Russians and the Negroes. Mr. Aschenbrenner has a special faculty for simplicity of interpretation, whether the work be of the Russian liturgy or a spiritual, and simplicity of manner is what makes them both impressive. A group of Russian folk songs was also included.

The second concert by prize winners in the recent contests of the Society of American Musicians took place at Kimball hall last night. The prize winning young artists were Dorothy Foster, solo pianist, and a chamber music trio consisting of Pauline Peebles, pianist; Mary Jones, violinist, and Ada Michelman, cellist.

Both soloist and trio were deserving of attention. Miss Foster is an effective technician and is well on the way to the development of a musical personality, as she showed in the MacDowell "Eroica" Sonata, a pair of Chopin pieces, and shorter works by Sowerby, Ravel, and Albeniz. The trio, though slightly subdued in tone, was neatly efficient.

SOX BUY WEBB FROM TIGERS; REPORTS TODAY

IT'S STILL COLD IN BROOKLYN; CUBS LOAF ON

Root and Bush Pitch Twin Bill Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—Another Sunday double header budded in the schedule of the Chicago Cubs when the lads in the Brooklyn counting room this afternoon for the second time in two days decided it was too cool for the Dodgers to engage the champs at baseball. The officials duplicated their procedure of yesterday in that they waited until the players were on the field and they had a peep at the potential gate before they decided how cold it was.

It was too cold for comfort, at that, and a double header here on Sunday, July 2, the last day of the Cubs' second eastern trip, is bound to be a much jollier get-together of the customers.

In the cancellation today Lefty Beryl Richmond was deprived of his opportunity to make his first major league start. He had been carried over from yesterday's postponement, but today Manager Grimm announced that the pitchers for tomorrow's double header with the Dodgers would be Charley Root and Guy Bush. Manager Max Carey of the Dodgers was inclined to stick to his rotation with Beck carrying over for one of tomorrow's games and Clark or Benge working in the other.

It's O. K. with the Cubs.

The Cubs haven't minded their two day layoff here, what with a three game winning streak to ponder—a streak in which a total of 40 hits were accumulated in two afternoons of endeavor.

Many fans will recall the first road trip of the Cubs, an eight day six game journey to St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. Well, on that trip the Cubs made 12 runs, as compared to the 25 they made Saturday and Sunday afternoons. And in the eight days of that trip they made 37 hits, all singles except two doubles by Babe Herman, as compared with the 40 hits Saturday and Sunday, which included five homers and six doubles.

So, you see, Cub affairs have been looking up a bit and the individual hitters have been able to take the two days' rest without fretting.

And speaking of the individual hitters, Gabby Hartnett's .384 with 20 runs batted in from No. 8 position in the batting order, continues to be the main subject of conversation. Charley Grimm predicts that Gabby will keep right on going. Said Boss Charley: "During 1930, when Gabby had his best year, finishing with a season mark of .339, including 36 homers, he wasn't hitting the ball with anything approaching the perfect timing he's got this year.

"The ball that used to fool him is being knocked into right field or over right field fences and now the pitchers don't know what to serve him. Once something of a chump for a rather high curve outside, this season he's been slaughtering the pitches that distressed him in 1931 and 1932. Gabby may not finish the season with a mark as high as .384, but that the end of the season will find him among the leaders is my sincere belief."

English Also in .300 Class.

Despite the boom in Cub hitting on the current trip, Gabby still has only one companion in the .300 flight, Capt. Woody English, without making much noise about it, has risen to .305, supplanting Bill Herman in that circle. Bill had a little slump during the Boston stay, his mark shrinking from .301 to .278 during the stay among the codfish.

Babe Herman, through a rather belated rampage which saw him make a homer, two doubles and a single in his last four times at bat in Boston, has boosted his mark to .275. Though this isn't much of a percentage for one of the game's leading hitters, analysis shows that the Babe hasn't been pulling any of his shots. His 22 hits to date have included two homers, eight doubles and a triple, which is a lot of extra base hitting, considering that the season will not be one-seventh over until the first game is played tomorrow.

The Babe Will Play.

Babe has recovered from a leg injury which caused him to withdraw from the Cubs' last game and expects to play in both contests tomorrow.

In a conference of League President John Heydler, Sydney Weil, chief of the Cincinnati Reds, and President William Veeck of the Cubs this morning it was definitely decided that the game scheduled for the Reds and Cubs next Monday will be moved up as part of a double header next Sunday. This will enable the Cubs to get home 24 hours earlier than the scheduled return.

HELEN MOODY TO SAIL NEXT WEEK FOR WIMBLEDON

San Francisco, Cal., May 9.—[Special.]—Helen Wills Moody, queen of America's tennis courts, will leave next week for England, where she will defend her Wimbledon singles championship. In making the announcement Mrs. Moody said she would make the trip alone. Frederick Moody Jr., her husband, will join her later in Europe, she said.

Mrs. Moody will compete in an English tournament before entering the Wimbledon meet. She said she would not compete in France, where last year she won the singles title.

GOLFERS SELDOM ACQUAINT SELVES WITH BUNKER SHOT

(This is the seventh of a series of articles on golf by Tommy Armour, who recently came to Chicago to become professional at the Medinah Country club.)

BY TOMMY ARMOUR.

Bunker shots are always very attractive to watch and they are also very attractive to play if you make a good shot. There is probably a greater variety of bunker shots than any others in the game. There is the explosion shot, the half explosion, the cut shot, the back spin, the chip shot, and several others.

It is a cinch, however, that the average good amateur golfer knows less about bunker shots than he does about any other department of the game. If you question the average golfer, he will give you a pretty good layman's idea of how to hit all the shots from tee to green, but you can almost bet that he is ignorant of the tricks of getting out of bunkers.

Amateur Usually Finds Trouble in Burker.

In my entire professional career only two people have ever come to me for lessons in bunker play. Of course that is easy to understand, for the average person who plays golf gets the greatest thrill out of hitting the ball a long way. The chief thrill is off the tee. You hear more locker room conversation about a long drive than you ever do about a long putt. Yet it is a peculiar thing that it is in the short and apparently simple shots that the great difference between the 70 and 80 shooter becomes apparent.

I know this from practical experience. When the profesional is playing a match with his club member, and the member goes in a bunker, the pro subconsciously expects to see him miss the shot. He has no fear that the amateur will put the ball near the hole, and, as a matter of fact, if he does so, it is usually luck. Yet if the professional is in the bunker, unless he has a very bad lie, you will generally see him put the ball pretty close.

Bunker Play Simplified by New Instruments.

The reason for this is that the pro has the correct knowledge of how to get out of the bunker. He knows what to expect from the different lies and fear does not take a strongle hold on his muscular system. Besides that he has taken time to practice the different shots. I saw Gene Sarazen, one of the greatest bunker shot players of all time, practice for nearly an hour on these shots before going out to play in the big Miami-Biltmore open. He did this because he did not think he knew the feel of the sand in those particular bunkers. Sarazen wanted to know how his club would act through different depths of sand.

Of course, in the last few years bunker play has been simplified by the instruments manufactured. The first of these implements was called the sand wedge. It was very heavy and had a concave face. Many thousands were sold because this club made it easy to get out of bunkers. I thought it was a very difficult club to play. That is, it was very difficult to

CHICAGO TRACK TEAM DEFEATS PURPLE, 68-67

Brooks Is Beaten in 100 Yard Dash.

Chicago defeated Northwestern, 68 to 67, in a dual track meet at Dyche stadium yesterday.

Johnny Brooks, Chicago's Negro star, played a major rôle in the Maroons' victory by winning three firsts and a second for a total of 18 points. He won the 220 yard dash, 220 yard low hurdles, and the broad jump. In addition he placed second in the 100 yard dash.

Brooks Beaten in Century.

Art McIntosh of Northwestern won the 100 yard dash from Brooks by a step. The runners in this event benefited by a strong wind at their backs. McIntosh's time was :09.9.

The boys reversed the finish in the 220 yard dash, Brooks besting his Northwestern opponent by five yards. This event was run around the turn as it will be in the Big Ten meet a week from Saturday.

Chicago scored a slam in the quarter mile, Perlis, Jontry and Waldenfels, finishing in that order. The Wildcats swept the discus which George Schmelz won with a throw of 130 feet 9 inches. Goers and Harkonen placed second and third, respectively.

Farley Scores Double.

George Farley, Northwestern sophomore, scored his second victory of the meet by capturing the half mile run after having previously won the mile. Farley took a lead in the first quarter and finished 5 yards ahead of Fairban of Chicago. His time was 2:02.4.

WHAT THE MOVIES SHOWED

These motion pictures show what really happened in the Kentucky Derby when Jockey Herb Fisher, rider of Head Play, claimed Don Meade, on Broker's Tip, interfered with his mount. Here Head Play (9) is ahead. Jockey Meade, next to the rail, can be seen reaching toward Head Play's saddle.

Head Play's head is turned and he is trying to pull away from Broker's Tip. Meade still has his hand extended, but Fisher's hand is reaching toward Broker's Tip.

Over the finish line, Fisher no longer is trying to guide Head Play. He is standing in his stirrups and beating Meade with his whip. Head Play is pulling away to the outside. [Universal Newsreel Photos: From Acme.]

PIRATES HELD TO 3 HITS; BRAVES TRIUMPH, 7-0

Frankhouse Silences Bats of League Leaders.

Boston, Mass., May 9.—(AP)—Fred Frankhouse's curve ball subdued the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates today as the Braves evened the series with a 7 to 0 victory.

Boston's right hander pitched three-hit ball and yielded only one walk. Tony Piet got a single for the Pirates in the third and Fred Lindstrom and Pie Traynor hit one each in the fourth. That inning was the only time Frankhouse was in danger and after the bases had been loaded by a hit batsman, he escaped when Piet forced Lindstrom at the plate with a weak grounder to the mound.

BROWNS TRADE RICK FERRELL AND BROWN TO BOSTON

St. Louis, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—The sale today to the Boston Red Sox of Richard Ferrell, catcher, and Lloyd Brown, left handed pitcher, both of St. Louis, generally was believed executed solely because of financial advantages offered the Browns.

Although St. Louis received Melvin Shea, a catcher, as well as an unannounced sum of money in the transaction, it undoubtedly lost strength. The Browns dropped to the American league cellar today.

L. C. McElvoy, vice president of the Browns, who announced the sale, declined further comment. "That's all I've got to say," he said.

Salary differences between Ferrell and the Browns played a part in the transaction. This spring the catcher was a determined holdout, and finally signed at a reduced figure, believed to be $8,000 annually, after President P. Dec. Ball told him flatly his services were worth no more.

He has been a member of the Browns since 1929, coming from Columbus of the American association. He was fairly succesful his first two years with St. Louis, but hit his best stride in 1931.

When acquired by the Browns he signed a three year contract for $10,000 and was paid a large cash bonus, reported to total $25,000. Previously he had been called a free agent.

In signing again this spring Ferrell announced the hope that he would be traded. Brown has been a regular starter with the Browns.

EX-CUB FILLS NEED FOR LEFT HANDED HITTER

Wet Grounds Cancel Yankee Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Earl Webb, who will be remembered as the player who hit two homers when he made his debut as a Cub on opening day in 1927, now is a White Sox member in good standing. He was fished out of a Detroit Tiger waiver list yesterday, shortly after the club officials had decided there was no chance to stage the second of the series with the Yankees. The game probably will be worked off as a double header Sunday, June 18, when Joe McCarthy's maulers make their second visit of the season.

The official explanation for withdrawing yesterday's show from the list of scheduled happenings was wet grounds. The outfield, due to almost daily rains, was as soggy as the bottom of Mud lake. At least one fellow appreciated the cancellation. That was the illustrious Babe Ruth, who even during Monday's game was lamenting the fact that he had to spend the afternoon in a swamp. Besides, the Babe has a bad cold.

Dangerous Against Right Handers.

Webb was claimed from the Tigers at the waiver price to meet Manager Lew Fonseca's demands for an outfielder who hits from the left side of the plate. Webb additionally fills the desire for a batter who always is dangerous against right handed pitching. When he hits 'em they frequently go for distance. In two full seasons, 1930 and '31, with the Boston Red Sox he turned in respective averages of .323 and .333. His specialty was two baggers. Last year he was traded to Detroit on June 12 for Dale Alexander and Roy Johnson. His 1932 batting mark was .285.

Webb is expected to slip into a White Sox uniform today for the first time, but until such a move becomes advisable he will not be promoted to regular employment. For the present he will be confined to pinch batting. Just now Evar Swanson, subbing in right while Red Kress is occupying himself with first base duties, is going so strong at bat that it would be difficult to find an excuse to bench him. Webb will be 34 next September, but still has a powerful throwing arm and gets around pretty well.

Eighth Postponement for Sox.

The cancellation of yesterday's game with the Yanks was the Sox's eighth of the season, but that's only a part of the story. The intrusion of bad weather into baseball affairs has just about established a new high mark. Up to and including last Sunday the American league had 24 games eliminated by cold or rain. That's seven more than were lost during the same period last season. Since Sunday the 1933 total has swelled to 29. The National has 30 cancellations.

The way in which the elements have mutilated the schedule plans is sure to start the baseball writers on another crusade for a later opening. With them the idea seems to be that much weather grief could be avoided by starting the races about April 20. However, most of the bad weather has been encountered during the present month. Since May 1, 18 American league games and 11 National have been washed away or put on ice.

If Comiskey park is in playing shape this afternoon Sam Jones will have charge of the White Sox pitching and Vern Gomez will work for the Yanks.

Dickey Becomes Ill.

Bill Dickey, Yankees' catcher, was recovering last night from what at first appeared to be appendicitis, but later was diagnosed as an attack of acute indigestion.

Dickey suffered abdominal pains at breakfast yesterday, and when another attack occurred at noon Manager McCarthy called a doctor, who ordered the catcher to bed for observation, fearing appendicitis.

Dickey's blood count, however, was normal. After the pain had ceased the physician said he probably would be able to catch today's game with the White Sox.

AIMING HIGH AND SHOOTING STRAIGHT IS BEST POLICY, THEY SAY

Co-eds from Northwestern university concluded the season's rifle contests yesterday with the finals for the Capt. Guy Davis trophy in which the six young women at the top were the title contestants. Miss Vivien Buser of Cedar Rapids, Ia. (left), won the trophy with a score of 176 out of 200. The other contestants, left to right, are Jeane Morton, Peggy Grisby, Marjorie Janis, Rosalie Stech, and Mary Pepperdine. Miss Pepperdine, who lives at 2133 North Sayer avenue, was second and Miss Stech of Petoskey, Mich., third. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

VINES REPLACES SUTTER ON U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM

New York, May 9.—[Special.]—The United States Davis cup committee today named the squad which will represent America against either Cuba or Canada in the North American zone final match the latter part of this month. The committee announced that Ellsworth Vines Jr., United States singles champion, who was absent when America defeated Mexico, would be on the team.

Vines will replace Cliff Sutter, New Orleans. The others on the team will be Wilmer Allison, John Van Ryn, and George M. Lott Jr. Allison has been appointed captain, while Van Ryn will act as manager.

Lott, Allison, and Van Ryn are expected to arrive in New York Thursday. They are en route east from Mexico, where they won five straight matches. They will be joined by Vines and will practice in New York for the final match.

Vines has been resting for several weeks. After a successful winter tour of New Zealand and Australia, Vines returned to California and played in the Ojai tournament and won both the singles championship and the doubles title paired with Keith Gledhill.

JUNE 22 FIGHT ALREADY ON, BUT IT'S ORAL CLASH

Managers, Promoter Will Not Hurt Each Other.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Joe Foley, representing the Chicago Stadium Operating company, and Sam Pian, the more articulate of the firm of Pian & Winch which has signed Barney Ross for a chance at the world's lightweight championship now in possession of Tony Canzoneri, may be only fooling. But whether the boys mean what they say, or have their fingers crossed, the ballyhoo for the fight on June 22 is under way.

It seems that Pian and Winch have agreed that Barney will fight at Terre Haute, Ind., on May 19, and at Minneapolis, May 26. Foley says they can't. He says it most emphatically and he gives all permission to quote him "We must absolutely and finally refuse permission for Ross to engage in the two fights planned for him."

"Baloney!" Reply to Edict.

To which Pian—or is it Winch?—has replied: "Baloney!"

Quoting the aforesaid Pian in his reply to the Stadium: "We have more at stake than the Stadium and I feel that if we are content to take a chance your company should do likewise. I hope this argument will not interfere with our friendship. If you will permit Winch and myself to continue managing Ross we will put a challenger into the ring on June 22 who will bring a world's lightweight championship to Chicago."

The affair obviously can be settled. No sane person will believe that the Stadium will surrender the contracts, after angling for months to get them, because Ross wants to capitalize on his prominence and fight into condition. Neither is Pian nor Winch willingly taking unnecessary chances with a championship bout at hand.

In the meantime, however, the preliminary verbal skirmish has served to remind Chicagoans that Ross and Canzoneri will fight. Within a few days, and properly spaced to keep the title bout in the news, will be the announcement of the location. Soldiers' field, Wrigley field, and the Stadium now are mentioned.

Probably Will Be at Stadium.

It won't be Soldiers' field, because that site will not be available until after the national collegiate track meet, June 17. An arena can't be erected in five days. It may be Wrigley field, if the parties concerned think that more than 20,000 will attend. Probably the Stadium will be used, since this will eliminate construction costs and the percentage the Cubs would expect.

In the meantime Promoter Foley will rescind his unalterable decision or Pian and Winch will backtrack.

Few Golfers Master Shot from Bunker

place the ball near the hole with it. I saw only one man who played it with any degree of accuracy and that was a local professional, Horton Smith.

For average use, however, it was good, as it made it possible for players to get out of the bunkers. This club was barred because in tests made it was discovered that the concave face made the club actually hit the ball twice. The manufacturers than produced another one, which in my humble opinion has destroyed one of the finest and most skillful shots in golf. This club is just a very heavy, plain niblick, with a flanged sole, and it has been a boon to the average golfer. In the hand of the experts it has become a sort of miracle club, for with that club in their bags the experts would sooner be in the bunker than in the rough.

Hagen Makes Great Shot Out of Bunker.

Yesterday I wrote a story on Cyril Walker's great iron shot at Oakland Hills in Detroit. Next to that the best shot I ever saw was the one played by Walter Hagen out of a bunker guarding the fifteenth green at Sandwich, England, when he won the British open championship in 1928. It was in the last round, and he had to finish in par—5, 3, 4, 4—to win by one shot. The par was extremely difficult, for the seventeenth and eighteenth holes are over 450 yards long and heavily bunkered. Hagen was in the bunker at the fifteenth hole in two shots. The hole was approximately eighty feet away. He knew the only way to get near the hole was to play a clean chip shot.

If it came off perfectly he would have a putt for a four, but if he took the slightest bit of sand, or moved, or looked up, he would be buried under the bank of the bunker. Hagen looked it over carefully and was going to play a safe explosion shot, but finally elected to play the chip shot. The ball was struck perfectly, though disaster faced him at the slightest flinch, and it rolled up right beside the hole, giving him a putt for a four, which he made.

Chip shots are played out of bunkers only when the ball is lying perfectly clean. When Hagen played that shot he selected a club with plenty of loft, played the ball off his right foot, and used only his hands in the execution of the shot. Play the shot this way. All good golfers do.

Knockout Star Rothier's Foe at Stadium

Ray Donohue, who will meet Henry Rothier in the intercity amateur boxing show at the Chicago Stadium Friday night, has scored 42 victories in 47 starts, including 29 knockouts, and is recognized as welterweight champion of Oklahoma.

Donohue is a member of the Missouri valley championship squad which will oppose a team of star Chicago amateurs in a show sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War in the interests of their relief fund.

Before turning to boxing Donohue was a football star at Northeast High school in Kansas City, Mo.

Bob Cook, heavyweight headliner of the visiting team, is 6 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 200 pounds and is undefeated in 54 amateur battles. He will meet Jack Kranz of Gary.

Five Chicago boxing promoters are making plans to present outdoor bouts this summer. In addition to the Chicago Stadium Operating company, which will offer the lightweight title contest between Champion Tony Canzoneri and Barney Ross on June 22, Mique Malloy, Frankie Harmon, Billy Cepak, and Grant Kromenaker are making arrangements to run outdoor shows.

Malloy intends to build an arena on a lot adjacent to the Coliseum and hold cards each week night starting next month. Frankie Harmon and Billy Cepak, Cicero stadium promoter, are negotiating for Mills stadium for outdoor bouts.

Cepak has been promoting bouts at Sparta stadium for several seasons. Kromenaker will offer shows at Northwest stadium.

Principals in the professional show tomorrow night at Kid Howard's gymnasium will finish training today. Jackie Schweitzer, New York lightweight, will make his second start here in the six round windup against Johnny Terry. In the six round semifinal Joe Feldman will attempt to evade the knockout punch possessed by Bobby Vernon. Kid Greer yesterday was substituted for Jimmy Richards against Carl Scallise in a four round preliminary. Three other matches will complete the card.

The rule compelling windup fighters to arrive five days in advance of their matches has been waived in the case of Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis welterweight, who faces Johnny Phagan in a rematch at the Cicero Stadium Friday. Purvis was scheduled to arrive Monday, but he notified his local representative that he could get in better physical condition at home, delaying his arrival until tomorrow.

While Purvis is preparing himself for another victory over Phagan, Johnny is leaving nothing undone to accomplish revenge. Yesterday he exchanged punches freely with Ray Tramblie and Walter Jerz, both middleweights. Phagan contends he tired from missing Purvis in their last bout and that this time he intends to make every punch count.

Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids, Mich., lightweight, and Harry Dublinsky of the west side signed yesterday to meet at Pittsburgh on May 19. . . . Ray Tramblie and Bob Stone will go to Louisville, Ky., Sunday to clash with Bill Rhoderer and Tim Charles, respectively, a day later. . . . Danny Delmont, Chicago junior welterweight, accepted terms yesterday for a ten rounder against Eddie Koppy of Detroit at Kalamazoo, May 18. Fred Hawkette, local welterweight, is to face Lee Belden in a six round supporting match.

Lightweight Champion Tony Canzoneri's father arrived yesterday to buy 15 horses at the stockyards for work on his farm at Marlboro, N. Y. . . . Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia bantamweight, and Ernie Maurer are to clash at Detroit on May 26. . . . Kid Irish, Benld, Ill., who lost two decisions to Young Geno, La Salle, at the junior lightweight poundage, wishes to defend his state featherweight title claim against Geno at the required 126 pounds. . . . Barney Ross started drills yesterday for a match at Terre Haute, Ind., May 19.

HUGE MILLIKIN TACKLE SIGNED BY BEAR ELEVEN

Decatur, Ill., May 9.—[Special.]—George Musso, 250 pound tackle at Millikin for the last four seasons and considered by many the greatest lineman ever developed in the Little Nineteen conference, has signed a contract with the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football league. Musso, a product of Collinsville High school, will be the second Millikin player to join the Bears. George Corbett, a half back, played with the Bears last season.

HOPPE DEFEATS HALL, 61 TO 50, BUT STILL TRAILS

Willie Hoppe defeated Allen Hall in the fourth block of their special 600 point three cushion billiard match at the 131 South Wabash Recreation last night, 61 to 50 in 53 innings. The high run for both players was five.

Hall now leads 200 to 166 in 157 innings.

PREAKNESS SATURDAY.

WHATEVER glamour was removed from the Preakness stakes by reduction of the added money from $50,000 to $25,000 this year will be restored by renewal of the Kentucky Derby rivalry between Broker's Tip and Head Play if that pair hook up again at Pimlico Saturday, as now promised. After all, it's the class of horses competing rather than added money which makes big stake events.

If Broker's Tip repeats his victory he will add his name to those of Sir Barton in 1919, Gallant Fox in 1930, and Burgoo King last year as double winners of the two greatest early 3 year old stakes in the country.

Sir Barton, like Broker's Tip, was a maiden until after his Kentucky Derby victory. On that occasion, however, Sir Barton paid only 13 to 5 to win. The short price was not because of Sir Barton but on account of his stablemate Billy Kelly, which ran second. The Wake well remembers that occasion, for we drew Billy Kelly in a horse for horse $150 hat pool, bought a $5 ticket as a saver on the favorite J. W. McClelland entry of Eternal and Sailor, and thought we were sitting pretty, only to have Sir Barton outspeed his stablemate. The pair were owned by Commander J. K. L. Ross.

There have been several unusual features in these races. Upset was second to Paul Jones in the Kentucky Derby and second to Man o' War, which did not come west, in the 1920 Preakness. In 1923 Vigil won the eastern feature and in the Derby was third to Zev, which had performed in the Preakness.

In 1925 Trainer Duke of the G. A. Cochran stable performed the feat of conditioning two cripples to take these races, Coventry in the Preakness and Flying Ebony in the Derby. In 1927 Bostonian of the Whitney stable won at Pimlico, with his stablemate, Whiskery, third. Whiskery won the Derby with Bostonian outside the money. Again in 1931 Mate won the Preakness, with Twenty Grand second, but Twenty Grand won the Derby, with Mate third.

The Preakness outdates the Derby by two years, but lacks its tradition, for it was discontinued for two decades from 1889 to 1909, while the Derby has been contested annually ever since Aristides first triumphed in 1875. It derives its name from Preakness, a noted horse of that period.

Daily Fee Association Plans Chicago Prep Golf Tourney

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Bill Langford, a quiet party who talks little but thinks plenty about golf between puffs on an ever present pipe, has smoked himself up another tournament, one that should prove inviting to the golfers of tomorrow—high school students. Langford, secretary of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, who inaugurated that organization's own tournament last year, yesterday announced the first annual Mid-City high school tournament, to be held at his course, located at Grace street and Western avenue.

The tournament will be open to students of all preparatory institutions, whether public, private or parochial, and will be decided on a scratch basis. The qualifying rounds will be held at Mid-City on May 27 and June 3, with either date optional. The trials will be held between the hours of 8 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. Sixteen will qualify in each flight during the 18 hole medal play round, with an unlimited number of flights. Match play in all flights will be held on successive Saturday mornings, June 10, 17, 24 and July 1.

The winner of each flight will receive a gold medal and the runner-up a silver medal. A team trophy carrying possession for one year will be awarded to the school with the four lowest qualifying scores. The names of the winning quartet will be inscribed on the trophy. The tournament is being conducted primarily for boys, but high school girls who wish to compete in one of the lower flights are invited.

The alibi chorus of the local trial round for the national open tournament at Medinah Monday will hardly have faded away before the Chicago District Golf association inaugurates its annual series of handicap events, one of the most successful forms of intradistrict competition ever devised. That success has been such that the number of tournaments of this type, all decided on the basis of district handicaps, has grown from seven in 1932 to nine this season.

The first of the series will be held at Glen View next Wednesday, with eight other clubs taking over the tournament throughout the year. The attendance at these events last year averaged 111, according to Joe Davis, secretary of the association, with a single day's turnout in some cases nearing 200. Among the victors last year were all of the leading amateurs of the district, including Jack Westland, Chick Evans, George Dawson, Dick Martin, Jimmy Garard, and Doug Casey.

The remainder of the 1933 handicap events will be held at the following clubs and dates: June 14, Calumet; July 13, Knollwood; July 25, Butterfield; Aug. 15, Idlewild; Aug. 30 Oak Park; Sept. 13, Ridgemoor; Sept. 27, Olympia Fields, and Oct. 4, Westmoor.

The first golf tournament of the Naval post of the American Legion will be held on May 19 at Big Oaks, 6600 Lawrence avenue. Herb Klein, Ben Dess, George Grear, Elmer Dobroth, and Nate Rubinkam are receiving entries for the event.

Brewer Wins Casting Event in Boat Show

Walter Brewer, of the Lincoln Park Casting club, won the national indoor bait casting event last night at Navy pier in connection with the Motor Boat and Sport show in a castoff with a score of 98, after tying with three others at 95.

The others and their scores in the castoff were Miss Weaver, 95; Eddie Davis, 94, and Stanley Bjork, 93.

In the dry fly indoor casting event, Carl Grover defeated Frank R. Steel, holder of the world's championship record of 100, which he made last year at Pittsburgh. Grover's score was 99. W. B. Sturgis, with a score of 98, tied Steel for second place.

Hold Yachtsmen's Night.

Yachtsmen's night was celebrated at the show last night, when representatives of every yacht club in the Chicago area were present. Commodore Steve Drakely of the Buffalo Yacht club was present and talked to the yachtsmen about the coming Harmsworth trophy race in which Gar Wood will defend the trophy against Payne Scott of England.

Tonight plans for the Harmsworth race will be discussed in detail and a program of speedboat activities during A Century of Progress will be charted. Racing on Lake Michigan will reach a peak during the World's Fair when Gar Wood drops the hull of Miss America X into the water in an attempt to attain a speed of 130 miles per hour.

Woods Leads Horse Shoe Pitchers.

Horse shoe pitching, archery, casting, and rifle shooting contests are daily events at the motor boat and sports show. Alton Woods, with a score of 231.68, led the horse shoe pitchers. He was followed closely by George Busch with a score of 226.64. Other qualifiers for the finals to be held Saturday and Sunday night are Otto Fullner, Arnold Thompson, John Hogan, William Blair, and Charles Mueller. Horse shoe pitching entries close tomorrow night.

CANADIAN TROUT CALL ANGLERS TO TEST FLY RODS

Chicagoans Go North for Early Lake Fishing.

BY BOB BECKER.

While brook trout fishermen have been splashing around in northern streams to obtain their first catches of the season, lake trout anglers have been hurrying into Canada with plenty of casting rods, plugs, spoons and red flannels. Early May inaugurates the season for the big lakers. Early season fishing in the Lake of the Woods region is excellent. Fish are near the surface and will strike both bait casting lures and flies.

Quite a number of Chicago fishermen are in the Lake of the Woods country this week trying their luck with the big trout. Lake trout fishing is becoming an increasingly popular sport and makes the camp owners happy because they can start their seasons before the July opening on bass and muskies.

Hooks 'Em with Fly.

This year the southern end of the Lake of the Woods will again see a well known manufacturer of fly fishing tackle take big lakers on a fly rod, a stunt that bait rod anglers didn't think was possible a few years ago.

With the lake trout season under way the fisherman's calendar lines up like this:

Illinois—Pickerel, crappie and bluegill season is open. The lake levels are high because of heavy rains. No bass fishing until the middle of June.

Wisconsin—Brook trout season on, and May 25 will see the opening of the muskie, pike and pickerel season.

Michigan — Brook trout season opened May 1, but fishermen haven't missed a great deal by not going north. The streams won't be "right" until later. We have word on the streams which we fish in the upper peninsula that one of the most backward springs in recent years has slowed up the trout fishing. Barring heavy rains we are expecting more ideal stream conditions around May 15. By that time water levels should be down and the weather should be warmer.

Lake Trout Furnish Sport.

Canada—If a fisherman wants early bait casting the lake trout will furnish sport all through May and into June. The namycush or laker is an extremely sporty fish, full of fight. In the Canadian lakes east of Winnipeg May 20 to June 15 is a good time for trout fishing, either by casting or trolling. In June the brook trout season is topnotch on such streams as the Nipigon, Jackfish and others around Lake Superior. The Ontario bass and muskie season does not open until July 1.

Londos Posts His Forfeit; Now It's Up to Savoldi

Ed White, manager of Jim Londos, yesterday filed $1,000 with the Illinois athletic commission to bind a return bout with Joe Savoldi, who claims the world's heavyweight wrestling championship following a disputed victory over Londos at the Chicago Stadium on April 7. The action was taken by White when the commission issued a statement Monday ordering Londos and Savoldi to meet again in Chicago or forfeit claim to the title.

Both wrestlers were given 30 days to post forfeits and sign for another match, which is to be classed as a contest under the commission rules.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The most patient patron of American racing, Ald. John Coughlin of Chicago's first ward, stood with 4,500 other spectators in the cold and the dampness of Sportsman's Park yesterday and watched a hair lifting finish in the feature race.

When the numbers went up Ald. Coughlin had to rub his eyes and pinch himself to make certain that he wasn't dreaming. For, while the crowd stood bewildered and was unable to decide which horse had finished in front, No. 3 dropped into the winner's slot and No. 3 was Lillian Tobin, running in the rather faded apple blossom Coughlin jacket.

The first ward varsity cheer echoed and reëchoed up and down the stands and club house.

Figures Prove His Patience.

Now if you don't believe the alderman from the first ward is the most patient man in racing, just look over some facts.

Lillian Tobin started 18 times last year and didn't win a race. She had started eight times this year and showed the same consistent losing form. So after losing 26 straight races and costing the first warders untold wealth and much more in discouragement, she clicked in her 27th effort and at odds that got some of the boys even. For she paid $20.26 to win, $9.78 to place and $7.50 to show.

The horse which she beat by a nose was Reighburn, an even longer shot. Golden Sandals wasn't so far back when she claimed third money. The alderman, while jubilant, was just a little disappointed in Lillian Tobin's time, for the daughter of Cudgel covered the seven furlongs in 1:38 3-5, which was trotting horse time.

Outrun in Early Stages.

Lillian Tobin, though outrun by Reighburn in the early stages, was never far back of the pace and was content to run in third place, until Jockey Tilden straightened her out for the run down the stretch. She delayed her rally so long it didn't seem possible she could catch the two leaders. But she did it, and you could almost hear her say, "Good morning, judge," when she dropped her nose down in front at the line of finish.

The royally bred Polyphote won the Evanston purse, which was a short dash at 5 furlongs, after Jockey Arcaro had her down in front from the flag fall until the finish. She was at home in the heavy going.

Jockey Reggie Cooper staged a gallant finish on Go Easy and lost the decision only by inches. Ixnay landed third money.

Cooper's great ride on Go Easy was one of the big thrills of the day, for he made a horse that wanted to quit keep running to the end of the race. Soon after the field had passed the finish line Cooper lost his balance and was thrown into the mud. He was unconscious when carried off the track, but only suffered a broken collar bone.

Bradley Faces $3,000,000 Tax Suit in Kentucky

Lexington, Ky., May 9.—[Special.]—M. J. Brennan, Kentucky revenue agent, filed a suit for $3,000,000 against Col. E. R. Bradley, owner of Idle Hour farm, in the Fayette county clerk's office today. Brennan is seeking to collect taxes on stocks and bonds which he said Col. Bradley possessed on July 1 of each year for the last ten years.

According to the petition, Col. Bradley failed to mention the stocks and bonds for taxation for state and county purposes. The amount of the suit includes 100 per cent penalty for not listing the property, 20 per cent penalty for the revenue agent, and 6 per cent interest from the date payments were claimed due to the date judgment is rendered in the case.

Col. Bradley, widely known horseman, owns Broker's Tip which last Saturday won the 59th running of the Kentucky Derby. It was his fourth Derby winner.

Barry Shannon, financial manager for Col. Bradley, said tonight there is no ground for the suit. Stocks and bonds involved in the suit have been listed for taxation in Florida, where Bradley is a resident, Shannon said. Taxes on these were paid in Florida, he declared.

Winner trained by J. D. Lenahan. Went to post at 3:17. At post ¾ minute. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same.

PRINCE MEXICAN, off slowly and well ridden while working his way up, challenged gamely and won in a hard drive from PATANGON. Later raced ESSIE into defeat and assumed a brief lead, but tired in final drive and pulled up lame. SQUAK off slowly and, under hustling tactics, challenged gamely and closed well.

Went to post at 2:47. At post ½ minute. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same.

LILLIAN TOBIN, off forwardly and well rated off the pace, came with a rush in the stretch and barely got up in time. REIGHBURN raced into brief lead and then back, was well rated and came again to assume command in the stretch, but failed to withstand the winner. GOLDEN SANDALS raced in last position to head of the stretch, where she came with a rush and, passing tiring horses, closed fast.

FIFTH RACE—Five furlongs out of chute. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

Went to post at 3:10. At post 2 minutes. Start good for all but Rural Queen, from machine. Won driving. Second and third same.

POLYPHOTE, away forwardly and cleverly rated while making the pace, bore out in the stretch run, forcing GO EASY to center of the track and barely lasted to win. GO EASY, saved off early pace, came with a rush in the stretch and but for being carried wide by the winner might have won. IXNAY, away slowly, worked her way up and closed gamely.

Time, :24 4-5, :52 3-5, 1:22 1-5, 1:38 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: High Pockets, $12.44 straight, $5.28 place, $6.14 show; Upcurse, $4.54 place, $3.58 show; Betty Barrett, $4.92 show. Winner trained by J. W. Frye Sr. Went to post at 5:17½. At post ¼ minute. Start good from machine. Won easily; second and third driving.

HIGH POCKETS, away well and saved off the pace, moved up when ready and, passing Upcurse on second turn, came on to an easy win. Upcurse set a fast early pace while under restraint, tired when challenged, but was best of the others. BETTY BARRETT, away slowly, worked her way up and closed fast.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and one-sixteenth. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

E. Adams. Went to post at 5:48. At post 2 minutes. Start good from machine. Won handily; second and third driving.

TRANSGRESSION, away forwardly, was taken back shortly after the start and, well rated back of the pacemakers, came on to win when ESSARE and BOLD ROBIN had raced each other into defeat. BOLD ROBIN raced ESSARE into defeat and, saving ground, tired in final drive. BETON was much used making early pace and had nothing left for the drive.

Black Mammy Pays $43.40 at Aurora

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The first genuine long shot of the meeting galloped to victory at Aurora yesterday. Over a track deep in mud Black Mammy, a daughter of the famous Black Servant, finished half a length ahead of Sun Memory in the feature event of the day, a dash of six furlongs. Dr. Freeland, winner of the Preakness in 1929, was a distant third.

In spite of Black Mammy's celebrated blood line, the crowd of 3,500 was quite indifferent to her and she faced the barrier at odds of better than 20 to 1. In the mutuels she paid $43.40 to win, $20.76 to place, and $4.28 to show. It was her first start since last August. Her time for the six furlongs was 1:22 4-5.

Bennie Creech's entry of Dr. Freeland and Portcodine was quoted at a little better than even money, these two being made the favorites partly because of Dr. Freeland's old time prominence and partly because both have been reasonably consistent in more recent seasons.

Start Is Good.

The field of six got away to a good start and Jockey Montgomery rushed Black Mammy to the front with Dr. Freeland and Sun Memory in close attendance. These three led the way around the turn with Nyack, Figuriste, and Portcodine following in order. Swinging into the stretch Black Mammy and Dr. Freeland went out several yards, but Jockey Martin held Sun Memory close to the rail and slipped into second position.

A sixteenth out Sun Memory made a bold bid for the lead and crept up within a neck of Black Mammy. With both jockeys driving hard the two horses raced evenly to within a few yards of the finish, where Black Mammy forged ahead to win by half a length.

Linmast and Tadcaster won the second and third races, the events upon which daily double tickets were sold. Those who bet on the pair collected $14.86. Both events were dashes of 5½ furlongs.

Forget Not Falls.

Linmast went to the post a 7 to 5 favorite, with Old Bill second choice at 2 to 1. The contest was largely between these two. After opening up a lead of three lengths on the turn, Linmast tired during the stretch run. Jockey Calvert applied the whip to Old Bill and began moving up. A sixteenth from home it seemed that Old Bill might get to the front, but Linmast rallied under hard driving and won by three-quarters of a length. He paid $4.96. Forget Not slipped and fell at the head of the stretch but both horse and jockey were on their feet immediately, unhurt.

FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW FOR EZRA J. WARNER

Heart Attack Cause of Magnate's Death.

Funeral services for Ezra Joseph Warner, president and treasurer of Sprague, Warner & Co., will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest. Burial will be in Lake Forest cemetery. Mr. Warner, long active in Chicago civic and business affairs, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in his home at 440 East Walton road, Lake Forest. He was 56 years old.

A heart attack was the cause of death. Although Mr. Warner had suffered a heart ailment more than a year, he had been active in his business until a week ago. His wife, Mrs. Marion Hall Warner; his son, Ezra Jr., and his two daughters, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. and Mrs. Edison Dick, were at his bedside at the time of death.

Son of Grocery Founder.

Mr. Warner was the son of Ezra J. Warner, one of the founders of the big wholesale grocery company. He was educated at Lake Forest academy and Yale university, from which he received an A. B. degree in 1899. He entered the family business after graduation and had been affiliated with it for 34 years. Mr. Warner held the positions of secretary, vice president, and became president and treasurer in 1915.

He was a director of the Northern Trust company and trustee of the Chicago Bureau of Public Efficiency, the Y. M. C. A., the Chicago Zoölogical society, and the Sunday Evening club. He once served as director of the Chicago association of commerce, and was a member of the Yale university alumni advisory board.

Once Labor Arbitrator.

Mr. Warner was a former vice president of the Commercial club and a former governor of the Onwentsia Country club. He also was a member of the Chicago, Harvard-Yale-Princeton, Saddle and Cycle, Casino, Yale, and Shoreacres clubs, and of the Winter club of Lake Forest.

At one time in his career Mr. Warner was called upon to serve as arbitrator in several Chicago labor disputes. In 1922 he was appointed arbiter in the controversy between ten building trade unions and the citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award.

Capt. Robert L. Berry Dies; Commanded the Mayflower

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Capt. Robert L. Berry, U. S. navy retired, who commanded the presidential yacht Mayflower for three years, died of pneumonia today in the U. S. naval hospital in Brooklyn. He had been ill only a few days. Born in Newport, Ky., Aug. 5, 1880, he was appointed to the naval academy in 1896. In 1914 he was appointed to command the Mayflower.

J. B. Ball Dies Supervising Work on a Signboard

J. B. Ball, 65 years old, member of the Ball Brothers Outdoor Advertising firm at 25 North Dearborn street, died yesterday of heart disease while supervising work on a signboard near the Lincoln highway, seven miles northwest of Joliet. Mr. Ball lived at 4540 Sheridan road.

BOY ON SKATES FALLS UNDER A TRUCK; LOSES LEG

Frank Beir, 14 years old, 1922 Barry avenue, fell under a rear wheel of a truck yesterday while roller skating in front of 1620 Belmont avenue. His left leg was crushed and amputation was decided upon at the John B. Murphy hospital. The driver of the truck, Walter Jalosky, 1252 Diversey parkway, was unaware of the accident until members of a police squad, who had witnessed it, pursued and halted him.

Three deaths reported yesterday swelled the Cook county motor toll for the year to 312. The victims:

Thomas Collins, 76 years old, 18 South Paulina street. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred Monday night when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck at West Lake street and North Damen avenue.

Barry Ellis, 17 years old, 1501 South Kedzie avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered in a collision of two trucks at Polk street and South Western avenue Monday night.

Sylvester Sapanski, 30 years old, 2633 West 21st place. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered when he fell from a truck Monday night at Besley court and North Wabansia avenue.

Minister Dies at Home of His Son in Oak Park

The Rev. Frederick W. Schneider, 66 years old, pastor of a Lutheran church in Steeleville, Ill., died yesterday at the home of his son, Carl, at 910 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park. The Rev. Mr. Schneider had been ill many months. He came to Chicago recently for medical attention. Another son and two daughters survive.

CHILD TESTIFIES AT MURDER TRIAL OF HER FATHER

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 9.—(AP)—Marcheta Merrick, chubby 8 year old girl, testified today in the trial of her father, E. P. Merrick, charged with murdering Henry Downs, Denver athlete, after Downs allegedly had attacked Mrs. Merrick.

Showing no embarrassment, the child swore to tell the truth "because if I don't, Jesus will put a bad mark in his big book."

She told of awakening the night of April 14 to find her mother struggling with a strange man in their bed. Mrs. Merrick previously had told of thinking he was her husband, and of screaming and fighting when she found he was not.

Merrick, former state highway officer, followed his daughter to the stand, describing his crazed fury at finding Downs in his wife's bedroom at 4:30 a. m. Downs was an overnight guest of the accused man's brother, Tom, in the Merrick home.

Merrick told of ordering Downs from the home and then of encountering him twelve hours later at a filling station where the shooting occurred. Merrick testified:

"I didn't know anything until I came to myself snapping that empty .45." Five shots were fired, two taking effect in Downs' body.

DROP CHARGE OF POISON SLAYING AGAINST MOTHER

Lebanon, Ind., May 9.—[Special.]—Formal dismissal by Judge John W. Hornaday of two indictments charging Carrie Barrett Simmons, wife of John W. Simmons, Hancock county farmer, with murder today closed one of the most mysterious criminal cases in Boone county history. Counsel for Mrs. Simmons asked for dismissal and county authorities made no objection.

The Simmons mystery began June 21, 1931, when the family joined other relatives in a picnic at Memorial park here. Several members partook of chicken sandwiches, into which strychnine had been placed, and became violently ill. Virginia, 14, and Alice Jean, 10, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons died a few hours later.

Mrs. Simmons was indicted for placing the poison in the sandwiches. She was tried Sept. 28, 1931. The trial occupied six weeks, a record in Indiana, and then the jury failed to agree.

Bridge Players' Auto and Students' Car Collide

Milwaukee, Wis., May 9.—[Special.]—An automobile driven by Doris Hunt, 19, Cudahy Tower apartment, and carrying three women to a bridge game, collided this afternoon with a car driven by Betty Fleischer, 16, carrying three fellow students from the Whitefish Bay High school. Occupants of both cars were bruised. Miss Fleischer is the daughter of Walter R. Fleischer, South Beach drive, Fox Point. The collision occurred at North Lake drive and East Henry Clay street. The other students in the Fleischer car were Louise Gram, 4525 North Frederick avenue; Ralph McDonald, 6175 North Bay Ridge avenue, and A. W. Narcy Jr., 3606 North Oakland avenue.

BOY, 17, HELD AS THIEF.

Wesley Barrett, 17 years old, 9 North Center street, was held to the grand jury in $30,000 bonds on three robbery charges by Judge John Gutknecht in the Boys' court yesterday.

Ethel Lost Quite A Lot of Fat

Fooled Her Friends

"Every time I went out one of my friends would say to me, 'Why Ethel you're getting fat'—until I got tired hearing it. Now they say, 'Ethel, you sure look a lot thinner.' I have lost quite a lot of fat with Kruschen." Ethel Kerr, Provo, Utah (Dec. 12, 1932).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning and to hasten results avoid fatty meats and go light on starches.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any druggstore in the world but be sure to get Kruschen Salts, the SAFE way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after this first jar.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralising gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From Germany's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll pump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

RELIEF AT LAST FROM PILES!

Yes, no more suffering! No more pain, strain or itching. No more torture at the stool. No matter what form of Piles you suffer from—painful, itching, bleeding, blind or protruding—genuine relief for you is at hand in Pazo Ointment.

Pazo stops the pain and itching at once. More, it actually tends to correct the condition of Piles as a whole. For Pazo is threefold in effect. It is (1) soothing, (2) healing, (3) absorbing. Thus, it not only allays the inflammation and repairs sore and torn tissue, but it actually reduces the swollen blood vessels which Piles are. Thousands say that Pazo is the only thing that ever gave them real relief from Piles. Thousands say that it saved them the need of a painful operation. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective. Special Pile Pipe attached to tube permits application high up in rectum so all parts are thoroughly medicated. Try Pazo yourself and see that it means the end of your suffering. All first-class drug stores sell Pazo.

PLEDGES EASIER BANK OPENINGS IN CHICAGO AREA

Woodin Will Act on Senator's Complaint.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—A policy of greater coöperation, calculated to speed the opening of closed member banks in the Chicago federal reserve district, was forecast by the treasury department today.

Chief indication of a change in policy came when Secretary of the Treasury Woodin promised senators from four states within the district that before the week is out he would transfer A. V. Leyburn, the district's chief examiner.

The secretary's statement was made to Senator Frederick Van Nuys [Dem., Ind.], who visited the treasury carrying with him authority to speak also for Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], and Louis Murphy [Dem., Ia.].

Threaten Senate Inquiry.

The Indiana senator went armed with a warning that unless assurance were given of a more liberal policy in licensing closed banks he and the other three senators would introduce a resoltuion in the senate asking for an inquiry into the methods being pursued in the seventh district.

Among members of congress representing seventh district states there has been a growing dissatisfaction with the policies of the treasury and the Chicago reserve bank.

Senator Vandenburg has long been a critic of the treasury formula and has on several occasions taken the matter to the senate floor. He was keenly aroused at the refusal of the treasury to countenance the so-called "Michigan plan" for reopening the closed banks in his state.

In a recent letter to Secretary Woodin he demanded how it was that one-quarter of the closed member banks of the federal reserve system in point of number, and one-third in point of resources happened to be in the Chicago district.

Contends Policy Is Deflation.

It has been his contention that the present policy of the treasury is one of drastic deflation.

Commenting today on the protest carried to the treasury by Senator Van Nuys, Senator Vandenberg charged the treasury with evasion of facts. To license banks for reopening on the assumption that licenses shall be granted only to banks able to pay 100 cents on the dollar the senator said, is to ignore the fact that banks have been reopened only to fail a short time later. To refuse some form of license to banks unable to pay out immediately and in full, he asserted, was a policy of deflation which drove the banks to liquidate their assets at ruinously low prices.

By Senator VanNuys, in particular, the assertion was made at the treasury that Chief Examiner Leyburn was in large part responsible for what the senator described as a narrow and autocratic policy.

321 Member Banks Closed.

According to the April federal reserve report, 321 member banks out of 774 in the Chicago district, were closed, with resources of 954 million dollars out of 3 billion 438 million dollars in the district.

In the New York district, it was pointed out, only 153 member banks with resources of 283 million dollars were closed out of 821 member banks with resources of 10 billions.

At the treasury officials refused to comment on the visit of Senator VanNuys and the complaint made concerning the seventh district. They laid the large proportion of closed banks in the district to the Michigan bank situation.

The treasury has from the first looked with disfavor upon the so-called Michigan plan of reopening old banks instead of forming new banks which shall take over the old banks. No specific explanation of the grounds for objections has been made public, but it is understood that one of the basic reasons is that the treasury wishes to dislodge the management of banks which fell into difficulties.

New banks, in which the Reconstruction Finance corporation owns half the voting stock at least, give an opportunity to remove the management which was in charge when the bank got into difficulties if the government wishes.

CRITICISM CALLED UNJUST.

Criticism by Senator Van Nuys of Indiana of the Seventh district federal reserve board was called unjust yesterday by officials of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago. The bank in a statement denied assertions by the Indiana senator that the board was "utterly failing to coöperate" and was "not in sympathy" with the administration and the treasury.

"We are working overtime helping banks to take steps to their reopening," the statement said. "Often we take the initiative in presenting plans for them to reopen. We want the banks reopened on a sound basis, and we are coöperating to the fullest extent."

The statement added that of all deposits in Seventh district federal reserve banks, from 92 to 95 per cent are in banks already opened either under conservators or on unrestricted basis.

Alfred P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner in the Chicago district, who was criticized by Senator Van Nuys, reached at French Lick, Ind., yesterday, declined to comment.

New Racket in "Rating" Life Insurance

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The scourge of the life insurance industry, say company executives, is the rating agencies. Mention "rating" and your insurance executive's feet become colder than a frozen asset.

Up until a year or so Alfred M. Best & Co. was the only agency in the country that attempted to classify insurance companies according to quality. Best invented a system of hieroglyphics, consisting of the letters A, B, C, D, and E.

If a company was labeled "A," it was supposed to be "excellent." If it was "E," it was the agency's equivalent of "lousy." Ratings, however, were on the generous side of just. Spinning through the pages of a 1929 edition of Best's life insurance volume, it seemed to be "aces, all aces."

New Ratings Made.

But although this system pleased the insurance companies and their agents, the succession of life insurance company failures during the last year has forced Best's to alter its course. A few weeks ago this authority issued a blanket warning to disregard 1932 ratings, that a new volume would be on the market in a few weeks containing nice, crisp new ratings.

This caused many life insurance executives to break out into a cold sweat. Best's, having been pointed to by them as the one and only authoritative rating agency when the "A's" were unanimous, was now looking down their throats. A "B" would be as bad as an "E." You can't build up confidence for a life insurance company when you're advertised as "almost excellent."

But, entirely outside this tempest created by Best's, there's woe of a different variety for the insurance executive, and it's being perpetrated by a number of mushroom "rating agencies" that seek to make a lucrative racket out of the rating game.

Now Comes a "Racket."

The sales method is almost always the same. Typical is the experience of R. R. Lounsbury, president of the Bankers National Life Insurance company of Jersey City, N. J.

Mr. Lounsbury, refusing to be intimidated, has prepared a sworn statement, a copy of which is at hand, in which he describes a long distance telephone conversation with an individual whom he names in the affidavit.

"He told me," asserts Mr. Lounsbury, "that the next issue of his publication was to carry a writeup and rating of Bankers National Life; that the comments had already been written—were, in fact, ready to go to press—and that unfortunately he could not give the company as good a rating as he would like. . . .

"He told me that I might be sure he still retained a very friendly interest in me, else he would not have gone to the trouble of calling me long distance from Chicago to tell me about the unfavorable rating and to save me the embarrassment of such publicity if it could be avoided.

Avertising Is the "Fix."

"I asked him what he had in mind and he reminded me that Bankers National had not yet placed any advertising in . . .

"He told me he was sure we did not want a B rating and asked if he could put the company on his magazine for a $50 advertisement each month."

Insurance officials say that this sort of thing would be regarded as a minor affliction if it were not for the way the practice is spreading. Self-alleged "rating" agencies have been springing up all over the country.

The hope of the insurance fraternity is that the practice will come to some sort of head and that when it does the public will recognize the character of the so-called "raters" and discount their ratings accordingly.

Bankers Now Loquacious.

Meanwhile, they look with envy upon the new and healthy atmosphere of frankness into which their contemporaries, the bankers, have entered as a result of the banking moratorium.

A banker can talk freely about "runs" and "closings" without batting an eye. He can shout about them if he chooses. He can even have a howling crowd of unpaid teachers descend upon his bank without ageing perceptibly.

The insurance fraternity is gradually gathering its courage for a descent upon the chiselers who "damn with faint praise" by labeling their companies "almost virtuous," and when they do it will be fun watching.

HALSTED STREET SAVINGS PLANS TO REORGANIZE

Plans for reorganizing the Halsted Street Savings bank, 6910 South Halsted street, as a national institution are being made, Henry F. Eldmann, president, announced yesterday.

Mr. Eidmann said that the national banking authorities have approved a plan for the formation of a new bank to be known as the Southtown National bank with $200,000 of new money. In addition, depositors will be asked to waive 50 per cent of their claims pending liquidating of the bank's slow assets. Liquidating trust certificates will be issued. The additional capital will be raised by the sale of additional stock rather than an assessment.

Home Builders Pine to Hear Wedding Bells

BY AL CHASE.

America's real estate, marriage, and home building markets have made a start toward recovery, but the time it will take to make it complete depends on how rapidly the Roosevelt inflation program gets under way, Roy Wenzlick of St. Louis yesterday told the National Conference on the Renewal of Home Building at the Congress hotel. He added that the extent of the next boom will depend largely on the policies of the administration.

The number of marriages go up or down with the general business trend, he pointed out. At present the country has a tremendous shortage in marriages. With the present upward turn in business the St. Louis economist predicted a boom in weddings, to be followed by home building and furniture buying.

Dollar's Value Now High.

"Right now the dollar will buy from 50 to 60 per cent more in home construction than it did in 1925," he said. "But building prices are going to climb regardless of new construction. They follow the trend of general commodities and with the revaluation of the dollar in prospect they are bound to increase.

"Before we have more construction, however, rentals must increase and that will not happen until men go back to work. Then marriages will increase again and the unscrambling of doubled up families will begin and as vacancies are absorbed rents will jump. Then, and not till then, will home building start again. We can't change the tide; we must take advantage of it."

Mr. Wenzlick predicted a recovery more rapid than in previous depressions. He believes apartment rentals will go up before those of single family dwellings.

U. S. Short 500,000 Homes.

At the morning session of the two day conference James S. Taylor, chief of the division of building and housing of the United States department of agriculture, declared that the decline in marriages would not continue to have an adverse effect on the home building market.

"A good many marriages have merely been deferred and will be contributing factors toward the pickup in home building in future years," he said. He quoted from a recent government survey which shows a national housing shortage of approximately 500,000 homes.

Unless construction starts soon the country will have fallen behind nearly three billion dollars in home building by the end of 1933, he said.

Postmaster General Farley said Roosevelt's program now pending before congress would provide employment and the sale of materials for public works for a period of several years.

Other speakers on yesterday's program were Alfred K. Stern, who told of new state housing laws; Percy Wilson, who spoke on "The New Garden Home Community of America"; Louis Brownlow, John H. Millar and Dr. L. C. Gray, bureau of land economics, department of agriculture. J. Soule Waterfield presided.

The conference will continue through today. Building materials will be discussed at both sessions.

THERE'S LOTS OF GOLD BEHIND OUR DOLLARS, U. S. TREASURY SHOWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Two-thirds of the money now in circulation has a backing of from 80 to 100 per cent in gold, the treasury department announced today.

Of the 6 billion 4 million dollars in circulation at the end of April, 4 billion 53 million was backed dollar for dollar with 80 to 100 cents' worth of gold, the treasury's figures showed. There was a decrease of 316 million dollars in the circulation and an increase in the percentage of gold backing during April.

The extraordinarily high gold backing for the dollar and our favorable trade balance make the dollar worth its face value on foreign exchanges under normal conditions, government experts asserted.

In addition to the more than 4 billion dollars backed by gold, the United States has another 755 million dollars which is either backed by or made from silver and other precious metal. This currency makes up 12 per cent of the total in circulation. It is in the form of silver certificates, silver dollars, subsidiary silver and minor coins.

ILLINOIS BILL WOULD BAR TRUST COMPANIES FROM LAW, FINANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—A bill which would prohibit trust companies from practicing law and divorce them from the banking and investment business was favorably reported out of the house committee on judicial department and practice this afternoon.

The committee witnessed some lively sparring between L. H. Vette, Chicago lawyer representing the Corporate Fiduciary association of Chicago, an organization of practically all the trust companies in Cook county, and various members of the committee.

Vette branded the statement of Representative Schaefer O'Neill [Dem., Alton], that "trust companies who were executors of estates make a practice of paying the attorney a fee of $2,500 and charging the estate $25,000" as a "silly" rumor without foundation.

Mr. O'Neill, sponsor of the bill, said that it was an outgrowth of the banking crisis and the Sinnett investigation of Cook county receiverships. He said that trust companies are apparently hooked up with all the receiverships in Cook county, and that the letterheads of all bondholders' protective committees showed one or another trust company to be the "depository."

1 3-5 BILLIONS IN LOANS BY R. F. C. OUT ON APRIL 30

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation sent its quarterly report to congress today showing 2,409 authorizations for the first three months of the year totaling $650,525,996 and cancellations or withdrawals during the period of $97,950,587. Actual disbursements for the quarter totaled $497,027,759, while repayments totaled $410,732,329.

A recapitulation for the period from Feb. 2, 1932, when the corporation was established, to March 31, showed 12,718 authorizations aggregating $2,536,944,268, of which $167,677,641 was withdrawn or canceled, actual disbursements of $2,021,775,898, of which $418,732,329 was repaid, leaving outstanding, $1,603,042,568.

During the first quarter the corporation authorized 2,188 loans to banks and trust companies, affiliated institutions, and the railroads for a total of $452,612,486. During the entire period of the corporation's activities from Feb. 2, 1932 to March 31, authorizations of $2,075,986,831 were made to 7,411 institutions in the same classification.

658 MILLIONS IN GOLD CURRENCY STILL IN HIDING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Despite the government's demand that gold be returned to the federal reserve banks and the treasury there was still $658,094,142 in gold and gold certificates outstanding April 30, according to the treasury's monthly circulation statement issued today.

A total of $334,823,033 in gold coin and $323,271,109 in gold certificates were in circulation at the end of April. There was a return of $562,807,567 in gold and gold certificates between Feb. 28 and April 30.

Total gold in the country increased from $4,278,671,152 at the end of March to $4,310,766,666 at the end of April. Of the total gold coin and bullion the treasury held $3,228,770,124. There was $1,081,996,542 in coin and bullion outside of the treasury, but federal reserve banks and agents held $747,173,509.

Money circulation at the end of April was $6,003,729,324, compared with $6,319,514,854 a month earlier. The per capita circulation was $47.86, compared with $50.40 March 31 and $43.82 April 30, 1932.

Horner Vetoes Bank Aid Bill as Unconstitutional

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—On the advice of Attorney General Kerner, Gov. Horner today vetoed the bank aid bill drawn by the house committee on banks and banking and passed by the assembly. The attorney general held that it was unconstitutional.

Dollar Kept Bobbing by Raid on Franc

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—The exchange value of the dollar fluctuated feverishly again today owing chiefly to the operations of European speculators in the French franc. Their deals were based on guesses whether France would be able to remain on the gold standard. The movements in sterling followed those of the franc. Both operations had their center in Paris and between Paris and London.

The dollar was "on the sidelines," but was influenced by the movements of European currencies. In relation to the French gold franc, it gained about 1½ cents early in the day to 86.4, and then reacted to 84.7 cents.

Sterling, Francs Range Widely.

Both sterling and francs registered wide swings, opening at recessions, rallying around noon, and then selling off. Sterling started at $3.91, rose to $3.96, and fell back to $3.93, a net loss for the day of 1¼ cents.

French francs started here at $0.0453, rose to $0.0461, and reacted to $0.0459, a net gain of one point. Dutch guilders opened off 60 points, but recovered their loss, and in the afternoon were quoted at 46.70 cents.

Swiss, German Marks Rally.

Swiss francs and German marks were weaker at the start by 35 to 45 points, but regained and showed small net gains by afternoon.

Speculators either adhere to their contention that the French franc will have to go off the gold standard or are using that argument on which to base speculative drives against it. This accounts for most of the activity. The franc is supported by steling sales, which serve to keep the pound from soaring.

ILLINOIS MFRS. MUTUAL MERGED IN LUMBERMEN'S

Reinsurance of the business of the Illinois Manufacturers' Mutual Casualty association, Inc., by the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company of Chicago was announced yesterday. Under the reinsurance plan, which was unanimously approved by the directors of the two companies and by Ernest Palmer, Illinois superintendent of insurance, the Lumbermen's assumes all outstanding loss liabilities of the Illinois Manufacturers' company. Total assets of the latter as of Dec. 31, 1932, were $1,102,824. The company's net premium income for last year exceeded a half million dollars, derived principally from workmen's compensation coverage in Illinois and Indiana.

The organization was formed in 1912 under the auspices of the Illinois Manufacturers' association for the purpose of writing compensation and other casualty insurance for its members. Its new affiliation with the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, of which James S. Kemper is president, gives its policy holders the facilities of one of the largest and strongest casualty companies in the country.

Ole Gullicksen, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Mutual Casualty association, said the merger will enable the association to distribute a substantial cash dividend to policy holders.

3 More Downstate Banks Given Permits to Reopen

State Auditor Barrett announced last night that three more downstate banks have been given authority to reopen today. They are:

FLANAGAN—Flanagan State bank.
SOMONAUK—Somonauk State bank.
VERSAILLES—Versailles State bank.

STOCKS SWING UPWARD AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Industrial, Inflation News Conflicting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—News of market importance was of a mixed character today and traders found it difficult to sift the grain from the chaff. Advices from the industrial centers were sufficiently reassuring to steady bull party nerves against the growing talk of an "overdue reaction," but firmness of the dollar and a late break in wheat had a restraining effect on speculative buying on the score of inflation.

Uncertainty over President Roosevelt's inflation plans and a general belief that changes are imminent in the status of Europe's gold currencies kept traders of both camps on tenterhooks.

The net result was the dullest market of the month to date. The turnover fell to around 2,250,000 shares, the first time since April it has dropped below the 3,000,000 share mark.

Prices Rally Near Close.

Price movements were highly irregular, with the leaders swinging in narrow grooves. Profit taking bore the main list downstream for most of the session, but rallying tendencies developed in some directions toward the last, and the final figures were irregularly higher. Few of the gains amounted to more than a point.

About the only consistency was shown by the Celanese and Rayon issues and stocks of the glass companies. Libbey-Owens-Ford jumped about 3 points, later surrendering some of its runup on realizing. Industrial Rayon moved up 4¾ and Celanese corporation 5⅝ points. The glass companies' sudden popularity is due in the main to the New York law requiring bus and automobile owners to equip their machines with safety glass—the buses by the first of next year and pleasure cars by Jan. 1, 1935.

Price Talk Aids Motors.

News of increasing activity at the motor production centers made the automobile shares look somewhat better than they have lately, and General Motors, Chrysler, Mack Truck, and others came in for a slice of patronage. Talk of "inflated" prices ahead is supposed to have influenced some buying of cars in the last week or so.

Estimates of a 50,000 ton increase in the unfilled tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation, due around noon tomorrow, switched the spotlight on the steel group again. Prices moved ahead in the early trading but eased toward the last.

For a change, the farm implements ignored the break in wheat and held their plus signs through to the finish.

Brokers reported evidences of worry in speculative circles over the market effect of the congressional investigation into Wall street banking methods, which is due to get under way the latter part of the month.

DRAFT BILLS TO REMEDY REALTY ILLS IN ILLINOIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 9.—A series of bills, representing the first tangible results of the legislative investigation into receiverships in Illinois, will be presented to the house tomorrow. Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], chairman of the investigating committee, announced tonight that the bills were being drawn.

Formulation of these measures rested with Attorney General Kerner. There will be at least four, and perhaps six, bills in the preliminary group. Later they may be augmented by others. As drafted tonight, they provided:

1. A new section to the "blue sky" law, requiring that bond issues on property be limited to 60 per cent of the full assessed value for taxation purposes.

2. Changes in the present law to provide that corporations may waive the right of redemption, in order to give bondholders immediate possession of the property.

3. Creation of a new state office, the incumbent to be known as the state superintendent of real estate liens and mortgage investments. This division would be a part of the department of trade and commerce and the superintendent would have authority over bondholders' lists and the reorganization of issues in default.

Rumor Eugene Black Will Be Head of Reserve Board

Washington, D. C., May 9.—(AP)—Eugene Black, governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank, is definitely slated to succeed Eugene Meyer as governor of the federal reserve board.

Spending Gold Develops Into a Tough Job

The public's attitude toward gold has changed so completely because of government regulations that many individuals are finding difficulty in spending gold coin and certificates.

This has been due largely to misunderstanding of the instructions issued by the treasury department. Secretary Woodin has instructed reserve member banks to continue to accept coin, bullion, and certificates and keep the names of persons turning in more than $100.

Nonmember banks, merchants, and others may accept gold in amounts not exceeding $100 with the provision that they turn it over to the reserve bank within three days. Because the relaying of the gold to a reserve bank entails some inconvenience, some nonmember banks and merchants are refusing to accept it. However, the federal reserve banks gladly exchange currency for gold.

A Cadillac, Mich., resident reports that he is unable to dispose of his gold certificates. The federal postoffice, he writes, refused to accept it.

* *

Add suggestions for substitute gold as a medium of international exchange. A well known banker of Scotch descent suggests: "Why not good Scotch whisky? It improves with age and nobody wants to hoard it."

* *

It was reliably reported in the yards yesterday that one of the Chicago packers had bet a large sum of money that hogs would sell at $6.00 by Aug. 1. He bases his contention entirely on the belief that the inflation plan by that time will have stimulated business and put more money into the hands of the laboring class of people.

* *

There's many a broker in the "street" who has lived with deflation so long that he's got accustomed to it and resents the intrusion of inflation.

Adrian Ettinger of Ettinger and Brand yesterday elbowed his professional market letter writers aside and wrote his own. Inflation, he said, is a "shot in the arm." By what right, he demands, does the nation desert the orderly processes of deflation?

"We have gone through, as has the entire world, a critical period of deflation," he said. "History shows that deflation, although serious, is not a death warrant but in fact is a cure. It has also been definitely illustrated by the past that inflation, whether it be involuntary, arbitrary, or caused by the natural economic forces of a boom, is fatal to permanent recovery until once again a deflationary move sets in and completes itself, in order to start up again on the right road. . . . The most difficult procedure is always the best. . . ."

* *

The crowds in the visitors gallery at the Board of Trade have been so large since the inflation boom began that an iron gate is being installed at the entrance in order that the crowds do not get out of hand. Admission is by pass only. The primary reason for installing the gate is because of the large number of visitors expected during the World's Fair season, officials explained.

BACKLOG OF U. S. STEEL EXPECTED TOSHOWINCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 9.—Whether awards to the United States Steel corporation subsidiaries for more than 140,000 tons of steel for the Golden Gate bridge in San Francisco will show in the April 30 unfilled tonnage figures or not is expected to have a considerable bearing in the backlog business to be reported tomorrow by big steel.

But regardless of this considerable business it was the consensus in the financial community that a considerable improvement from the 1,841,002 tons reported on the last day of March will be reported, as big steel has certainly shared in the sharp upturn in the industry in recent weeks.

Marked improvement in the orders of the corporation now will go directly against the usual trend of new business at this season as April figures usually and under normal conditions contract However, increased activity in the industry due to inflation talk and improved demand, especially from the automotive industry, has made for better volume of orders.

On the theory that the March 31 figures were the lowest in the history of the corporation a marked improvement generally is expected in the financial district with estimates running from as low as 50,000 tons to more than 200,000 tons.

Some of the optimistic views were based on the feeling that the steel industry has started to climb from the bottom of the depression p[illegible].

WAGE BOOSTS, MORE JOBS DOT INDUSTRIAL MAP

Pickup in Business Helps Workers.

Reports of increases in employment and wages continue to come from various parts of the country. Other dispatches tell of increasing manufacturing and business activity.

P. W. LITCHFIELD.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

Employés in the general offices of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company at Akron who received a 12½ per cent cut in salary when their hours were shortened some time ago had their pay restored to the original basis yesterday. The force which has been working seven hours daily five days a week goes back on an eight hour day, with the five day week.

P. W. Litchfield, president of the company, said the action was being taken so that Goodyear may keep pace with the current improvement in business.

The Seiberling Rubber company's plant is working on a 24 hour schedule, seven days a week, and the General Tire and Rubber company is running on a capacity schedule.

Boost Wages 10 Per Cent.

Workers employed by the Armstrong Rubber company, tire manufacturers, at New Haven, Conn., have had their wages increased 10 per cent, according to an announcement by James A. Walsh, president of the company. Operations of the company are on a twenty-four hour schedule. About 260 men benefit by the increase.

It is estimated that between 16,000 and 20,000 have been recalled to work in Ohio recently, with the steel industry providing jobs and more work for 5,000.

Cleveland reported yesterday that steel mill operations in the district had shot upward to 54 per cent, the first time they have been up to 50 per cent since May, 1931.

Employés of the Berkowitz Shirt company at Uniontown, Pa., have received a 5 per cent increase in wages.

The Artistic Shirt company of Albany, with more than 2,000 employés in Albany, Troy, Kingston, and New York City, announced immediate wage increases of 10 per cent.

Biberman Brothers, Inc., dress manufacturers of Philadelphia, announced a 5 per cent wage increase effective immediately for its 600 employés.

Pay Raised 20 Per Cent.

The Planters Nut and Chocolate company at Suffolk, Va., announced that it is raising the pay of its 700 employés 20 per cent, effective tomorrow.

The Columbian Peanut company announced increases of from 10 to 20 per cent for its 2,000 employés in twenty-six mills spread through five states. A definite upward trend was discerned by the company in its business volume this year, President C. H. Smither said.

In New Orleans, Bluford Balter, realtor, raised the salaries of all his employés 10 per cent and appealed to other employers to follow his lead. The response, he said, was enthusiastic.

"Three employers called me within ten minutes and said they were adding from 5 to 7 per cent to salaries," he said.

The Lowell, Mass., silk mills announced a 10 per cent increase in wages for 1,200 employés.

George E. Rogers & Co., flour and feed brokers of Pittsburgh, Pa., have increased the salaries of employés 10 per cent.

Cigaret Workers Recalled.

Cigaret manufacturing at Richmond, Va., is gaining speed, with 150 additional workers recalled to their jobs in the last ten days. The American Tobacco company is operating its Richmond branch close to capacity.

From Richmond, Ind., comes news that the National Automatic Tool company will operate day and night shifts for six weeks to get out orders for multiple drills for the Plymouth division of the Chrysler Motor Car company.

The National Cash Register company at Dayton, O., reports that its business has been on the upgrade

New York, May 9.—Steady buying by banks and other institutions strengthened high grade bonds in a quiet market today. United States government securities were firm and active. Heaviness in secondary bonds coincided with the toning down of buoyancy in the prices of common stocks.

Buying of best grade corporation bonds and treasury issues was motivated by two factors. The first was President Roosevelt's assurances that he will make conservative use of his inflation powers. The second was popular approval of the open market provision in the inflation amendment which is speeding with the farm relief bill toward the President's signature.

Reserve to Steady Prices.

Traders are confident that federal reserve buying of government bonds will bolster corporation issues as well as those of the treasury. While open market operations by reserve banks awaited actual enactment of the farm relief bill inflation bill, institutions continued to accumulate government issues on the theory that a scarcity will develop when money becomes still easier and market demand is increased by reserve bank activities.

Buying was the most general since the recovery in high grades began a few days ago. Prominent among the issues which advanced were issues of American Telephone, Chesapeake and Ohio, Cincinnati Union Terminal, Philadelphia Electric, and Union Pacific. Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s were in good demand.

Speculative Liens React.

The downward drift among speculative issues which had its inception late yesterday continued, but there was an upturn from the lows of the day in late dealings.

Selling pressure was directed principally against the carrier issues. Bonds of such roads as the Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and North Western, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, and Southern Pacific lost from fractions to more than a point.

French government bonds recovered some of yesterday's losses, but foreign dollar issues were irregular. Japanese bonds were strong on the rise in the yen.

Ohio Oil Co.

Will you please give me what information you may have on Ohio Oil company stock?—Mrs. L. F.

Ohio Oil company, originally part of the Standard Oil system, has been an independent oil company since 1911.

The company is primarily a producer of crude oil, the second largest in the country, and earnings, consequently, fluctuate with prices received for it. It also operates refineries, conducts retail distribution, operates pipe lines and does some natural gas business.

Despite proration measures, net sales in 1932 were $50,246,000 and net income was $7,243,000, or 58 cents per common share, against net loss of $5,182,000 in 1931.

After inventory adjustment of $4,152,000, fixed assets adjustments of $11,450,000 and other chargeoffs, net loss in 1931 was $21,489,000. The improvement last year was due to strengthening of the price structure for all petroleum products.

Net income in 1930 equaled $1.21 per common share, against $2.57 for 1929 and $1.05 for 1928.

The company finished 1932 in a strong current position. Current assets of $30,965,000 were more than 10 times current liabilities of $3,022,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 480,796 shares of 6 per cent $100 par preferred and 6,563,107 shares of no par common. Preferred dividends have been paid regularly but the March 15, 1933, common payment was omitted. Action of the directors in dropping the common dividend was probably influenced by the downward trend in crude oil prices, which undoubtedly will affect 1933 earnings adversely.

The company is in a sound financial condition and is well integrated. It has abundant low cost oil reserves. An improvement in the price of crude oil should enable it to report substantial earnings.

The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The common is speculative.

DOUBTS ON FARM RELIEF DEPRESS PRICES OF GRAIN

Many Traders Take Profits —Wheat Loses Most.

WHEAT IN U. S. FUNDS

Wheat prices in leading markets reduced to United States funds at rates of exchange when they closed:

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders were apparently not greatly impressed yesterday with overnight developments, as far as the bull side of the market was concerned, and there was an undercurrent of uncertainty apparent from the opening. A growing desire to take profits on long wheat developed during the day, and it was generally claimed that a majority of the leading local professionals were out of their lines.

A sharp recession in sterling exchange and also in wheat prices in Liverpool brought in sufficient pressure to start the market lower, and while it rallied around 1 cent at one time in sympathy with stocks and with corn, at no time were prices as high as Monday's finish. Toward the last pressure from houses with eastern connections uncovered stop loss orders.

Losses Around 2½ Cents.

Wheat closed at the bottom, with net losses of 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents. May was 69⅜ to 69¾ cents, July 70¾ to 71 cents, September 71⅝ to 71¾ cents and December 73⅝ cents.

Trade sentiment in wheat has become more conservative as the farm relief bill nears a final vote in congress, as there is considerable uncertainty as to which of the numerous provisions will be used in an attempt to influence the markets. This has resulted in many of the professional element taking profits and they are disposed to await further developments.

The government estimate on the winter wheat crop will be given to the trade today, and is generally expected to make a bearish showing, compared with the 334,000,000 bushels indicated a month ago.

At the inside figures yesterday wheat futures in the local market showed a drop of 4 cents from the high on Monday, and the close has been lower for three straight days, despite inflation talk and other factors which were regarded as sensationally bullish recently.

Corn Breaks Sharply.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to pressure early and rallied quickly on fairly general commission house and local buying. However, the buying apparently exhausted itself around Monday's finish and later a general selling movement developed. Cats dropped 1⅝ to 2¼ cents under the close of the previous day, with some stop loss orders uncovered, and net losses of 1⅜ to 1¾ cents were registered at the last. May finished at 41 to 41⅛ cents, July 43¾ to 43⅞ cents, and September 44⅞ to 45 cents.

Liquidation developed in rye futures and the close was 2¼ to 4 cents lower, with May leading. Oats were 1 to 1¼ cents lower, and barley declined 2 to 2½ cents.

BREAK IN STERLING AFFECTS COTTON MARTS

Cotton declined on selling induced by the break in sterling and a rally around midday helped it to advance. A good business was under way with an uneasy feeling and prices were off 20 to 24 points at one time on stop order selling. A new wave of buying entered the market toward the last and carried prices up around the highest of the day. At the close futures in Chicago and New York were 2 to 7 points net lower, and New Orleans 4 to 8 points lower.

Spot markets were 5 points lower, New York being 8.35 cents; New Orleans, 8.30 cents; Galveston, 8.05 cents, and Houston, 8.20 cents. Liverpool closed 4 to 5 points net lower. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

Butter and egg futures declined under heavy selling on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday, butter losing ¼@½c, and eggs, ⅝c. November butter was under pressure, but support continued heavy and the market held to a narrow range. The four markets reported 137,000 lbs more into storage than last year, which contributed to the selling. Support was slightly improved near the close. Eggs were under liquidating and hedging pressure, but like butter, received fairly good new support and held narrowly after the early decline. Statistics were more bearish, the four markets reporting 36,000 cases more into storage than last year. Sales: Butter, 82 cars; eggs, 106 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car; eggs, 6 cars. HOG PRICES JUMP TEN CENTS MORE; TOP SALES $4.35

Larger Receipts Check Cattle and Lambs.

Larger receipts halted the advance in cattle and lambs yesterday, but hogs pushed ahead into new high price channels for the season. The latter advanced unevenly 5 to 15 cents more, bringing the day's general average up 10 cents to the $4.20 line, the highest it has been since Sept. 14. Top sales also were up 10 cents at $4.35.

Reports of Monday's buoyant trade brought in a rush of trucks from points within 100 miles of the Chicago market. Receipts exceeded all advance estimates. Radio and trucks have revolutionized the marketing of live stock. The movement can be expanded or curtailed overnight, whereas some years ago at least a week was necessary to change the trend of the movement.

Hogs Rise 50 to 60 Cents.

Hogs have been advancing almost steadily for about two weeks and are 50 to 60 cents higher than at the close of April. Yesterday's general average at $4.20 compares with a price of $3.85 for the entire year of 1932. On the corresponding day last year hogs averaged $3.30, with the trend of the market lower at that time. Top sales still are 21 per cent under the high point of 1932, which came in July, while the average yesterday was 16 per cent under the high day last year. The last time hogs sold at $5.00 on the Chicago market was on Aug. 26. Only one market in the west sold top hogs under $4.00 yesterday.

Cattle prices weakened under pressure of larger receipts yesterday, but the market closed fairly active and about in line with the average of Monday. Common light steers got most action, while the good to choice medium and heavy steers were inclined to drag.

Reports from the hide trade were encouraging. The advance in the hide market has made the hide of cattle an asset to the packer, whereas it was a liability a few weeks ago.

Choice Cattle Scarce.

No strictly choice yearling steers were in the run yesterday. Some good 980 pound averages topped the market to packers at $6.75. The bulk was of plainer quality than on Monday and sold at $4.65 to $5.75. Calves slumped 25 to 50 cents on an unsatisfactory market.

Lambs developed better action after a mostly steady opening, with the close fairly active and strong with the high close of Monday. Shorn lambs to packers, city butchers, and shippers at $6.35 equaled the highest of the season for lambs without fleece. Wooled stock of fair quality sold at $6.50, while six carloads of California spring lambs reached $6.90.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
How would you like a little tile roof bungalow tucked away in a little court that no one knows about? One is furnished, one unfurnished. Or a studio with ceiling so high so spacious that it has the feeling and freedom of a home? One of 5 rooms, beautifully furnished. Or mayhap a little cozy studio? All with wood burning fires and all on or near North Michigan-av. and so near the loop that you always walk to your office, get home quickly at night, and your leisure time is not spent in riding back and forth. Also wonderful combinations of shops and living quarters.
